State Ag Department To Enforce Egg Refrigeration

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff this week notified egg producers, processors, restaurants, food distributors and retail grocers of a new state law requiring the refrigeration of eggs.

The new law establishes egg refrigeration standards for public eating and drinking establishments, food processors and producers, retail food stores, and food distributors. The state will begin enforcing the new law after Sept. 6.

"Eggs, like many other food products, should be refrigerated," Wolff said. "We want consumers to know that Pennsylvania eggs are a wholesome source of protein and good nutrition and that farm-fresh quality is maintained through proper food handling."

Under the new law, all eggs sold or produced within Pennsylvania must be maintained at a temperature of 55 degrees Fahrenheit or less before packing. After eggs are washed and packed, they

Forage Field Day Studies Pasture Improvement Systems

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Pasture improvement and pasture systems took top billing at the pasture/grazing field day held last week at Penn State University's College of Agriculture.

This one-day event sponsored by the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council in cooperation with Penn State attracted more than 200 pasture enthusiasts from Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

The emphasis was on pastures for dairy cows, including current research at Penn State on dairy grazing studies and pasture species evaluation. But those attending also got a good look at long-term pasture research trials for beef and sheep at Penn State's Haller Farm.

Better Pastures— Lower Feed Costs

"Pastures have been part of the Northeastern landscape in some form since the first settlers arrived," said Dr. Steve Fales, Penn State agronomist and co-leader of the dairy grazing studies.

Love Of Cows, Farm Care Bring Recognition To Dairy Family

WOMELSDORF (Berks Co.) —It didn't take much to make One Hill Farm, managed by Martin and Missy Moyer and family, a Dairy of Distinction.

Not much at all, according to Missy and Martin. Improvements to the buildings when the farm was purchased in 1974 and the relocation of the farm lane were all that was needed.

Plus groundswork, general maintenance, and TLC — The Love of Cows — helped garner recognition for the family, composed of Martin and wife Missy and children Jeffrey, 9; Amy, 8; Kristen, 3; and Sarah, 19 months.

It was May ten years ago that Martin and Missy married. She met her husband and became interested in dairying when, living in a trailer park near Martin's parents, she began working on the Moyer farm. They both attended Tulpohocken High School and settled into the Womelsdorf area to begin a family farm.

Keep in family

They hope to keep the farm in the family, too. To do so, training began just two months ago to get the children involved on a full-

Kat Reigns Supreme At Maryland State Fair

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD. — The outstanding C Rossland Astro Kat, owned by Gay Ridge and Kingstead Farms, claimed her reward as supreme champion over all breeds after being named grand champion Holstein at the Maryland State Fair on Monday.

Purchased earlier this year from the Hygerian Syndicate, this 6-year-old beauty is classified 96. Her present record at 196 days is 20,440 of milk, 4.7% fat, 961 pounds fat, 3.2% protein, 649 pounds protein. She is projected to make 28,120 of milk and 1,350 of fat. Also, to her credit, she was named grand champion of the Maxville, Canada Spring Show earlier this year.

Gay Ridge and Kingstead Farms 4-year old Chestnuts Valiant Jasmine, sired by SWD Valiant, was selected reserve grand champion. She is classified 93 with a current record at 255 days of 27,080 of milk, 3.9% fat, 1044 pounds of fat, 3.0% protein, and 812 pounds protein. She is projected for 31,020 of milk and 1,191 of fat. Jasmine was named grand champion of the Maryland Holstein Spring Show in April of this year.

Milk Strike Discussed By Dairy Industry

KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Despite continuing efforts to rally dairy farmers to dump their milk beginning Oct. 1, the organizers of a proposed milk "strike" in New York and northern Pennsylvania appear to have made little headway in the heavily concentrated dairy areas of southeastern Pennsylvania and northern Maryland, according to industry officials.

Spokesmen for the region's major cooperatives said they don't expect any of their members to participate, although they acknowledge the well-publicized strike movement has generated plenty of talk. Much the same story is true in western Pennsylvania, according to John Siglow, who is trying to implement over-order pricing in that region as general manager of the Producers Equalization Agency.

However, if nothing else, the dire talk of strikes and dumping milk illustrates farmers' deepening dissatisfaction with the status quo. Although raw milk prices have been increasing of late, unhappiness over low prices has been exacerbated by drought losses in many parts of the region.

Dairy economists say dramatic fluctuations in raw milk prices also contributes to the discontent on the farm. After reaching a record peak in December 1989, the Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price sank to $10.02 a hundredweight in March of this year, drag-

GRAIN AND SOYBEAN PRICES FINISHED MIXED IN ACTIVE TRADING WEDNESDAY. WHEAT MIXED. CORN UNCHANGED TO UP 1 CENT. SORGHUM UNCHANGED TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 6 TO 9 CENTS HIGHER. WHEAT PRICES MIXED, LACK OF EXPORT DEMAND WEAKENED PRICES. PROMISED AID TO BALTIC REPUBLICS AND CHINAS EXPORT INTEREST FAILED TO STIMULATE WHEAT TRADE. SHORT COVERINGS, SPURRED BY SHARP ADVANCE IN SOYBEANS, STRENGTHENED CORN PRICES. CORN PRICES HAVE CLIMBED TWENTY TWO CENTS IN PAST TWO WEEKS DUE MAINLY TO U.S.S.R.'S RECENT POLITICAL UPHEAVAL AND EXPORT PURCHASES. LATE RALLY IN BEAN PITS LEFT PRICES ON THE PLUS SIDE. DRY WEATHER CONTINUES AND MANY PLACES NEED MOISTURE. CONCERNS OVER EARLY FROST AS LATE HOT, DRY DOG-DAYS OF SUMMER DRAG ON, ALSO SUPPORTED BEAN PRICES.

EXPORT NEWS: TAIWANS TRADE TEAM COMPLETED ITS U.S. WHEAT BUYING MISSION WITH THE PURCHASE OF 74,500 TONNES HARD RED WINTER WHEAT IN KANSAS. SOUTH KOREA BOUGHT 30,000 TONNES U.S. NO. 1 SOYBEANS FOR OCTOBER.

N.E. Chicken Parts

Sept. 5, 1991

Buying activity improved for the weekend. Offerings were usually adequate with rib breasts from both in and out of the area often attractively priced to stimulate additional interest. Other items were irregularly available and generally steady pricewise. Retail and distributive movement was expected to be fair to good as first of the month shopppers visit the stores and retail promotions hit the media. The market tone was mostly steady.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer

Sept. 5, 1991

Movement of ready-to-cook broiler fryers was fair to fairly good today. Supplies of 2 1/2 pound sizes were barely adequate to tight, 3 pound and over sizes were adequate to fully adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 49 - 58 cents. Live supplies were adequate, with average live weights ranging desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were heavy. Trade sentiment was generally steady. In the parts complex, supplies of wings and breast items were adequate, legs and leg quarters were in close balance.

National Egg Market

Sept. 4, 1991

Prices were generally unchanged. The market tone was generally steady to instances fully steady. Demand was moderate to good, best where featured. Supplies were generally adequate with some shortages in New England. Breakers received increased offerings of shell eggs, and demand was moderate. Live hen markets were unsettled from barely steady in some Northeast areas to fully steady in northwestern parts of the Midwest, and generally steady overall as live supplies were adequate for the moderate demand.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry

Sept. 4, 1991

Pricing has stabilized somewhat on light type fowl and too few sales to report on heavy hens. Demand is moderate to sometimes good, however buyers are unaggressive as further processing sales are difficult to book even at lower trending values. Offerings are more available than prior week and generally noted as adequate for desired needs. Undertone unsettled but barely steady.

CENTS PER LB., GENERALLY FOR SLAUGHTER THE FOLLOWING WEEK.

N.Y. & Phila. Frozen Eggs

Aug. 30, 1991

The market tone remained unsettled. Trading was sporadic with occassional discounting disrupting the normal flow of business. Most dealers were looking for an improved call as vacationers returned home. Raw materials were available, but usually at higher values. Floor stocks were building and further processors were voicing some concern.

You'll Get Consistent, Risk-Free Performance From New Funk's G® Brand Hybrids

4393 105 Days
4472 110 Days
4530 113 Days
4624 118 Days

New Funk's G brand hybrids deliver consistent performance even under the stress of heat, drought, marginal soils or disease pressures. So you'll get virtually risk-free performance in good years — and in bad years.

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY research

You see, these hybrids are backed by nine years of CIBA-GEIGY Seed Division research. With local testing in growing conditions just like yours. That kind of research produces hybrids capable of standing up to anything mother nature has to offer. Hybrids that maximize your profit potential, while minimizing your risks.

Get complete performance

Plus, you get performance across the board. With big yields. But with 95% or better standability... 25% or less moisture... and intactness ratings under four. And you get all that in the maturity groups you need to spread your risks even more.

Limit your risks

Get risk-free performance on your farm today by calling Hoffman Seeds, Inc. You'll enjoy the peace of mind that comes from planting these new Funk's G brand hybrids.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 9-15, 1991

National Rub a Bald Head Week.

Sept 10, 1893 women are granted the right to vote in New Zealand Sept 10, 1921, the first Miss America Pageant is held in Atlantic City, New Jersey Sept 13, 1609, Henry Hudson ventures up the river that will bear his name, reaching the site of Albany a week later Sept 14, 1716, the light is kindled in America's first lighthouse on Little Brewster Island at the entrance to Boston Harbor Many who are ahead of their time have to wait for it in uncomfortable quarters

Ask the Old Farmer: Do you have any suggestions for ripening harvested tomatoes? B T, N H Spread out green tomatoes in a single layer, away from direct sunlight interspersed with a few apples The ethylene gas from the apples will promote ripening

Home Hints Applesauce takes less sugar if it's added after the cooking

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: The skies are confused, but the temperature is not Alternating sunshine and showers, but consistently hot Showers on the weekend

Greater New York-New Jersey: Sunny skies and seasonable temperatures start the week, then showers and slightly warmer Finally, rainy and mild on the weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: One more day of sunshine and seasonable temperatures, then rain for most of the week Finally becoming clear and warm to end the week

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: First thundershowers and warming temperatures, then showers are diminished and scattered, and temperatures much cooler

OPINION

Be Careful

A new report from Penn State's College of Agriculture indicated that farm fatalities declined between 1985 and 1989, but emphasizes that farming remains a hazardous occupation.

"Pennsylvania farm Fatalities During 1985-89" compares the number and type of fatalities during the last half of the 1980s with those that occurred between 1980 and 1984.

"The overall trend is fewer fatalities per number of farms," says Dr. Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering, who compiled and wrote the report. "An average of 51 people died in farming accidents each year during the first period, while an average of 39 died each year between 1985 and 1989."

Despite these findings, Murphy says the report indicates an urgent need for farm safety education programs -- particularly for younger and older farm workers, who normally are not found in other hazardous occupations. "Fifty percent of the total farm fatalities between 1985 and 1989 involve children under 14 and workers 65 and over," he says. "That's up almost nine percent from the 1980-84 period.

"That these groups account for half the total fatalities dramatically underscores why agriculture remains a dangerous industry. Both age groups are extremely difficult to reach with traditional safety education programs."

Two-thirds of the accidents to the 65 and older group are tractor-related, with a large majority of those involving an overturn. "This strongly supports the notion that older workers lose their abilities to safely operate tractors," Murphy says.

The younger group were much more likely to be killed as extra riders on tractors. Also, a substantial number of young victims are run over while on the ground. "Most of these accidents happen to very young children -- under five years old -- who are playing around a tractor when the equipment is started and moved," Murphy says.

Tractors accounted for just over half of the 194 fatalities that occurred between 1985 and 1989. Sixty percent of the tractor deaths were due to rollovers, with the remaining fatalities involving extra riders, drivers falling or being thrown off the tractor and victims being run over on the ground.

Machinery-related fatalities made up 14 percent of the total. "Corn handling machine accidents were responsible for 34 percent of the machinery deaths," Murphy says. "Silage handling, hay baling and manure handling machinery each had 11 percent of the fatalities."

Incidents involving animals were responsible for six percent of the total fatalities, while drownings accounted for 3.6 percent. The remaining 21 percent were caused by a variety of other accidents, including slips and falls, vehicle and tree accidents, suffocation, electrocution and fires.

Murphy compared the number and types of fatal accidents that occurred during the two five-year periods and found little difference in either type or incidence. "The types of accidents that kill farm workers have not changed much over the last decade," Murphy says. "Agriculture remains an extremely hazardous industry."

Be careful.

To Remember Safety

I am seeing the results of too many farm accidents. Hospital stays, emergency room visits, and funerals as a result of an accident are all things we can do without.

To avoid accidents, you must constantly think safety and realize an accident can happen to you. Some areas to be especially concerned about this fall season are:

- Silo gases — work in pairs and keep silos, feed rooms and stables well ventilated.
- Big machinery — we are seeing bigger machinery with a lot of power. Respect it. Keep guards in place, stop machinery before making repairs, adjustments, and before attempting to unplug a clogged machine.
- Be aware of curious children — take a few extra seconds and walk around and look underneath machinery before moving it.
- Keep alert — take rest breaks and switch operators.

Composting Farm Mortality of Poultry

The proper disposal of farm mortality of poultry is becoming an increasing concern among poultry producers.

With the rapid expansion occurring in the local broiler and turkey industries, farmers need to consider a safe an economical way to dispose of farm mortality. This is necessary to eliminate water pollution, reduce the spread of disease, and increase farm income.

On-farm incineration is becoming extremely costly and produces odors unacceptable to neighbors. Many rendering companies cannot accept the increase number of birds. Thus, composting becomes a very viable alternative.

The concept, developed at the University of Maryland, has been tested by many universities and farmers. Composting produces a disease-free product, very little odor, and an environmental safe product at a very low cost.

If you are planning on expanding your poultry operation, building your first poultry barn, or replacing your current poultry disposal system, I would encourage you to consider composting. Information is available by contacting me at the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, 1383 Arcadia Road Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Crops Following Corn

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, reminds all farmers to read pesticide labels before planting crops following corn, especially small grains.

A primary concern is the possibility of herbicide carryover. This year's lack of rainfall will increase the possibility of herbicide injury.

If your herbicide program contained atrazine or simazine (Princep), there is a minimum restriction of 10 months from the time of application and planting a small grain crop.

So, before planting any crop following corn this fall, review your herbicide program for that field and read the appropriate labels to make sure that crop may be planted. A few minutes reading the label could save you a lot of money by eliminating a crop failure.

Farm Forum

Editor:

According to the World Agricultural Supply and Demand Board US milk production for 1991/92 is projected at 149.6 billion pounds. This estimate is marginally higher than the previous year's production of 149 billion pounds. My question is how can milk prices drop so much in one year when the supply of milk moved only slightly up? How can 600 million pounds of milk, --- LESS than 1½ days supply--- drop prices so much? Not since the thirties have dairy farmers faced the collapse of prices and drought together.

Besides investigating the price-fixing of major dairy processors in school milk programs, (Pet, Inc. of St. Louis agreed to plead guilty in SC Federal Court to rigging prices charged to schools, (2c per half-pint or $3.63 cwt) according to Federal Prosecutors) maybe the Justice Department should investigate prices paid to farmers. (Pizza manufacturers announced yesterday that they were raising prices due to increased costs of cheese!!!)

Just pause for a minute. On my last milk check, there was a 15c deduction for milk promotion, the 5c tax for Graham-Rudmann deficit reduction (Think--- is there any other group in this country helping to reduce the 368 billion dollar deficit besides dairy farmers?) Do

Background Scripture
Acts 9:26-30; 11:19-30; 12:25
Devotional Reading
Acts 12:25 through 13:3.

In my life I have known many churches named for St. Paul. In contrast, I can recall only one or two—if that—honoring St. Barnabas. In the way the world reckons these things, that is probably appropriate, for no one would ever dispute that Paul's contribution to Christianity has been far, far more important and lasting. If these men were alive today, Paul would undoubtedly be a churchman on the level of the Pope or Billy Graham, while Barnabas would be a worker behind the scenes.

Still, we know that God does not necessarily see and evaluate things as the world does. In the ministry of Jesus there are a number of people whom he notes appreciatively, even though they were regarded as "unimportant" by society: the good Samaritan, the widow who gave her mite, the lepers he healed, among others.

TOO FEW, TOO LOW

We need to keep this in mind when viewing our own discipleship. Too often we discount that we can do for Christ because it seems our endowments are too few and our place in the scheme of things too low. Without taking anything away from the Pope and Billy Graham whom I have picked because of their obvious status in Christendom), it may well be that what you and I do as Jesus's disciples is no less important in God's sight thlan what these two world-celebrated Christians do.

Barnabas is a case-in-point. When Paul was converted to Christ, Barnabas was accorded a certain amount of status in the church, enough so that, as the writer of Acts tells us, "But Barnabas took him (Paul) and brought him to the apostles, and declared to them how on the road he had seen the Lord, and had preached boldly in the name of Jesus" (9:27). Later, it is Barnabas who is sent to Antioch and, as a result of his efforts, a large number of people "turned to the Lord" (9:21).

WITHOUT BARNABAS

From there, Barnabas went to Tarsus "to look for Saul," and having found him, he took him back to Antioch where the two ministered together for a whole year. Later, Saul became the successful apostle and Barnabas slipped from notice. So today we revere Paul and barely remember Barnabas; but it is obvious from Acts that had there been no Barnabas, there might not have been a Paul.

The church may not be aware of it—because it pretty much judges as the world does—but often it needs you and me as much as it needs its Popes and Billy Grahams.

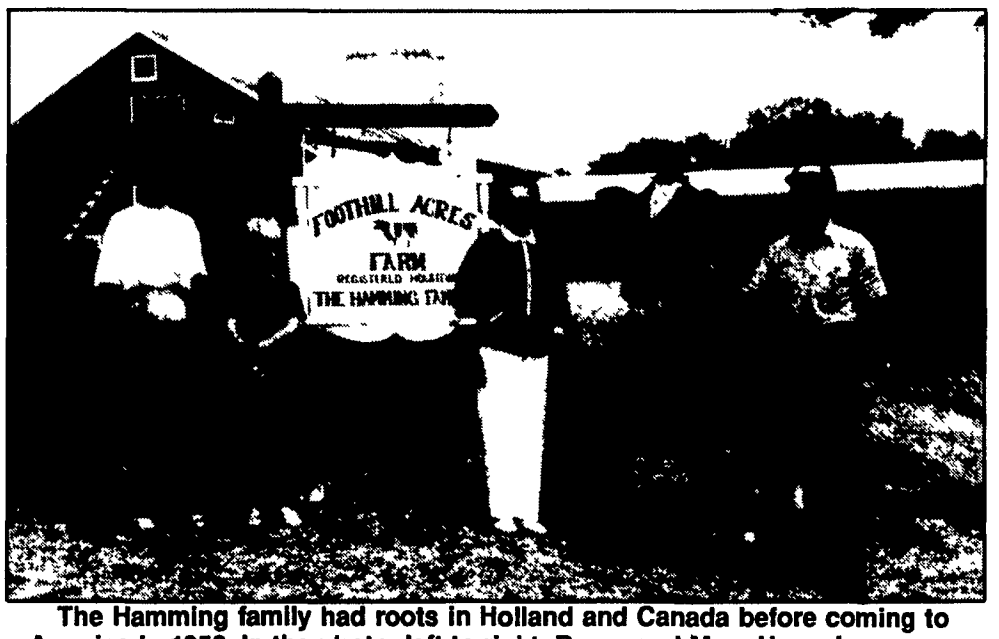
BROWN'S

PRODUCING ¾ OF A MILLION LBS. OF MILK PER PERSON & GETTING BETTER

"Brown's service and quality of feed is superior to any other feeds we have used. I use their nutrition consultation service constantly. Anytime you think of something you need you can just call their 800 number and they are there to help you."

——Bruce Hamming

Hamming Family's Roots In Holland, Have Successful New Jersey Dairy Farm



The Hamming family had roots in Holland and Canada before coming to America in 1956. In the photo, left to right, Bruce and Mary Hamming; sons Bruce, 8; Mark, 4.; and parents Janet and Ike Hamming, with a favorite member of the dairy herd, Foothill Acres Starwars Genie (VG88-EX Mammary).

When you talk cows with Ike and Bruce Hamming, you get a feeling of international roots that have grown into a very practical registered Holstein family farm. And when you walk through the barns, you see the strength, dairy character, and good udders on these cows that let you know why this is a top 1990 DHIA dairy herd in Sussex County. Ike and Bruce Hamming with Foothill Acres Persuader Olive, their 30,000m, 1046f cow.

Many individual cows in the herd could be sited for their production records. Here are several of note:

Foothill Acres Persuader Olive (VG88-EX Mammary) 365d; 30,426m; 3.4%; 1046f; 3.2% 959p

Lodestar First Ovation (VG85) over 200,000m lifetime

Foothill Acres Bell Oralee (VG87) TPI 856; Milk, 1897; CFP +95; $206; Type, 1.44; Udder Component 1.03. Ovation's 3y record is over 32,000m

Foothill Acres Starwars Genie (VG88-Ex Mammary) 3y 328d; 27,825m; 3.0%; 822f; 2.9%; 806p

Even with a herd average of 21,293m, 3.6%, 763f, 3.2%, 685p, on DHIR the Hammings still feel they are building the herd.

My corn acres are planted to hybrids that pass my test.

I've learned over the years that almost everything works better if I have a plan; and that includes deciding which hybrids should go on the bulk of my corn acres. That's why no new hybrid makes it into my "permanent" lineup until I've seen it on my own farm for at least two years.

Take my Jacques 7820, for example. I started with it because it looked good on a neighbor's place all season long. Well, the two years I tested it were about as different from each other as any two years could be. But both times, 7820 was right up at the top in yields and acted like it was bred just for those conditions.

That made me wonder if I really needed to do my own testing — but I like the extra level of confidence it gives me.

Don't get me wrong. I trust the results of Jacques own testing program. But the hybrids I plant have to pass my test, too. Jacques 7820 did.

Penn State College Of Ag Leaders Tour State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — To help develop research and education programs that meet the current needs of both urban and rural residents, administrators from Penn State's College of Agriculture visited several sites in eastern Pennsylvania this week.

The leaders gathered firsthand information about the challenges and problems facing citizens in diverse areas of the commonwealth. They will use the information to develop relevant research projects and to strengthen educational and technical assistance efforts.

"Our college was founded in the 1860s to meet the needs of a rural, largely farm-based population," said Dr. Lamartine F. Hood, dean of the college. "Today, with 85 percent of our population living in towns and cities, we need to continually evaluate our relevance to all citizens.

"Our role in urban areas should be the same as our role in rural areas--helping people solve pressing local problems. We want to make a greater effort to serve both groups, and this tour will help us learn more about the needs of people in both areas."

College leaders got an on-the-job look at the diversity of the state's agricultural industry as they visited dairy, poultry, vegetable, tree and turf farms and a food processing company, veneer plant, veal operation, winery, urban garden and Supercupboard site.

They met with local leaders in Berks and Bucks counties and discussed the challenges that accompany rapid development, particularly agricultural land preservation.

In the Philadelphia area, they observed youth development, nutrition education and urban gardening programs in action.

They met with faculty and administrators at the Berks Campus and discussed undergraduate programs in food science and horticulture. They also learned about the vocational agricultural program at Conrad Weiser High School.

The administrators also visited Penn State's research farm in Landisville, Lancaster Co., and cooperative extension officers in several counties.

Penn State has cooperative extension offices in every county in the state. The university's community-based educational network is supported by approximately 300 county extension agents, 130 paraprofessionals and an estimated 50,000 volunteers.

Extension's educational programs are research-based and are developed to help people deal with current economic, social and environmental issues in an informed and positive way. More than 130 Penn State faculty members and research associates in the College of Agriculture conduct studies that support extension programs.

Academic programs in the College of Agriculture include agricultural and biological engineering, agricultural education, agricultural economics and rural sociology, dairy, animal and poultry sciences, agronomy, horticulture, plant pathology, entomology, forest resources and food science.

Judy and LeRoy Esbenshade, Manheim, center, explained how they process eggs to the adminstrators from Penn State's College of Agriculture. The farm stop in Lancaster County was one of several sites in eastern Pennsylvania visited by the adminstrators on tour this week.

Dairying In Japan

DR. L.E. CHASE
Cornell University

Two Japanese journalists recently visited the dairy extension group at Cornell. Some of their comments about the dairy industry in Japan were interesting.

Milk prices received by dairymen are also depressed in Japan and the dairymen are quite upset. The current price is about 1.3 percent lower than last year. They were quite surprised to hear the magnitude of the price cuts that U.S. dairymen are facing.

The SCC count standard for shipping milk in Japan is 300,000. If the count is higher than this, the price received for such milk drops by 40-50 percent. They indicated that an incentive of this magnitude is quite effective in getting the dairy producer's attention relative to milk quality.

They also shared some information from the 1990 DHI summary from Hokkaido. Hokkaido is the northern island of Japan. This DHI data represented 7,773 herds. The data provided included:

Milk. lbs/cow	16,383
Milk fat, percent	3.73
Milk protein, percent	3.15
Milk SNF, percent	8.67
Calving interval, months	13.2
1st service, days in milk	84
Days open	121
Services/conception	1.8
Avg age, 1st calving (mos)	27

	Top Herd	Average of Top 10 Herds
Cows/herd	94	55
Milk, lbs/cow	26,699	25,323
Milk fat, percent	3.83	3.70
Milk protein percent	3.13	3.16
Milk SNF, percent	8.66	8.72

Heifer Stats Revealing

LAWRENCE SPECHT
PSU Dairy Specialist

Age in months at calving and production in first lactation were summarized for Holstein heifers from the 1989-90 DHIA test year information.

There were 84,250 heifers calving for the first time between 18 and 35 months of age. Most frequent ages at calving were 24 months (13,445) and 25 months (12,071). Average age at first calving was 26.7 months. This compares favorably to 26.8 and 27.0 months for the 1988-89 and 1987-88 DHIA years.

Actual 305 day production ranged from 12,405 pounds of milk at 19 months up to 15,065 pounds at 27 months.

As the table below indicates, it declined slowly to 14,391 pounds at 35 months of age. With production at 14,822 pounds for animals calving at 24 months, it is clear that there is no advantage to holding heifers to calve at older ages.

ARIS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

ARIS allows dairymen and their authorized veterinarians and nutritional consultants to access individual DHIA herd records from a personal computer to the main computer in State College. Call the State DHIA office number listed in the FOCUS column head to learn more about how you can use this unique DHIA service to increase the profitability of your herd and the DHIA records you produce.

Q: If I subscribe to the ARIS program, can I enter data such as breeding dates every day, or do I have to wait until the supervisor comes to the farm to have that kind of information updated?

A: The ARIS program is designed to give you important management reports using the data that is stored in our mainframe. It is not possible for any ARIS user to add to or to change any of the data on the mainframe. All her data is updated when the herd processes each month. A personal computer program which would allow users to make daily changes to breeding dates, etc. will be available in the future.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Milk Strike Discussed

ging federal order milk prices to their lowest levels in more than 10 years. The M-W has since begun to rise; it stood at $10.99 in July.

Economist Jim Fraher of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative is projecting that typical seasonal boosts will push the M-W about another dollar higher. But many dairy farmers say such increases will still leave their income below their cost of production.

Dairymen trying to organize an Oct. 1 strike say they have two major goals. Bruce Krug of Constableville, N.Y., statewide coordinator of the ad hoc New York state strike committee, said the group hopes to secure new national dairy legislation that would ensure higher prices and — in the interim — force local processors to provide more money on their own.

Krug said he and other farmers favor the imposition of a two-tier pricing system in which the base price reflects full cost of production figures. The proposed Milk Industry Management Act — which the House Agriculture Committee okayed in July, before Congress broke up for its August recess — contains a provision for two-tier pricing. But, Krug said, the act's provision for a $12.60 support price floor was far too low and that the various assessments it proposes to levy on dairymen were unacceptable.

Strike organizers talk about achieving Class I prices of $17 a hundredweight, a figure that their many critics in the industry say is highly unrealistic.

"You'll never have a premium high enough to keep every dairy farmer in business," said Carmen Ross. Ross serves as executive director for the New York-based Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency, which works for over-order pricing in the New York-New Jersey market.

Critics also contend that a regional strike — even a well organized and well supported one — cannot influence national legislation. Nor is it likely to force processors to pay more money. In short, they say, it cannot work. And it could hurt.

"Most of the dairy industry leaders think that this hurts things more than it helps," said Bob Yonkers, a dairy economist at Penn State University. "It hurts the industry's image and it sure doesn't help much on prices."

Krug disagreed, saying the public can understand higher prices are necessary to keep family farmers in business and to keep the industry from being dominated by large "factory farms."

"Almost all other groups have gone on strike from time to time to get what they wanted." he said. "I'm not worried about the image."

The New York farmer also is optimistic that a strike can work, citing some instances from the earlier decades of the century. Krug said he didn't know how many farmers will heed the strike call if, in fact, the organizers proceed with their plans for Oct. 1. But a recent demonstration in Tully, N.Y., drew about 100 farmers and the symbolic dumping of 5,800 pounds of milk, he said.

In Pennsylvania, Roger Hess, a Wayne County dairyman who is helping to coordinate strike efforts statewide, had no firm numbers on potential participants to report. However, he said, as many as 50 percent of the farmers in some northern tier counties had expressed support for the idea.

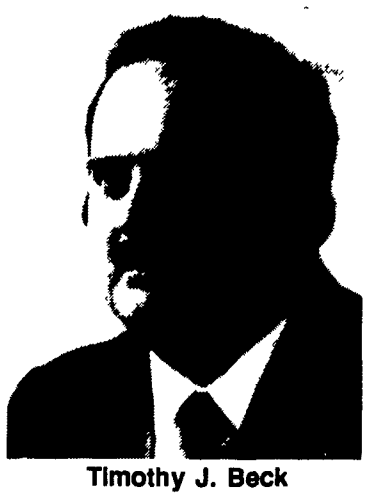
Hess said he personally is prepared to withhold his milk from market for several days in support of a strike. "I'm prepared to go longer," he said, "if such a strike continues."

Support and opposition to the strike appear to break out along well-established fault lines. Tony Schlesier, a spokesman for the Syracuse, N.Y.-based Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, said support is highest among independent producers in central and southern New York. There also are pockets of support among dairymen elsewhere in New England, he said. But interest in and even knowledge of the strike tends to drop off among Mid-Atlantic area farmers, who belong to milk marketing cooperatives for the most part.

Eastern, which has members stretching from Vermont to Delaware, has taken the strongest stance against the proposed strike, urging its members not to participate in a recently issued letter, Schlesier said. Other cooperatives have not issued official recommendations, but they are known not to favor such a course of action.

Beck Appointed York Livestock, Community Development Agent

YORK (York Co.) — Penn State University has announced the appointment of Timothy J. Beck as livestock and community development agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension in York County starting August 20.



Timothy J. Beck

Beck, a native of York County, earned his B.S. in animal science at Penn State University and his M.S. degree from Kansas State University.

He was employed as extension agent for Kansas Cooperative Extension in Wilson County for six years. During the last two years, he coordinated a grant project, "Balanced Farming and Family Living," for Kansas Cooperative Extension while completing his masters degree.

In York County, Beck will plan, develop, and evaluate educational programs for livestock producers, agribusiness personnel, allied industry personnel, and 4-H members on aspects of livestock management.

UNPROVEN CLAIMS

I suspect most of the inventions in this country were developed, sold, and used long before their actual value was known.

The hog industry is no exception to that. The multitude of designs for farrowing crates and feeders are examples of the limitless ideas that are simultaneously tested by the industry and the universities.

And as you would expect, some designs work, others are modified, and a few are just plain dropped. That's healthy and honest as long as no one is sold something on the basis of unproven claims.

But just like every other business, the hog industry from time to time finds itself confronting a few concepts that seem almost too good to be true.

Aerogen

Here is a feed additive that has producers talking, not for what it does, but for what it's claimed to do. I spoke with one of the distributors back in February and was told that Aerogen is a combination of 25 nutritional and nonnutritional components that improves the immune system and increases hemoglobin levels in the blood.

Their claims are:

• Oxygen transport to the muscles is increased, which elevates energy output when the pig metabolizes food. (It is true that under conditions of respiratory distress or high oxygen need, such as heavy exercise, an animal will inefficiently metabolize glucose without the use of oxygen. Under normal conditions, however, pigs are not subjected to conditions of respiratory distress, so oxygen should not be a limiting factor.)

• Feed conversion is improved

Standard Of Productivity Show At KILE

ABBOTTSTOWN (Adams Co.) — The Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association (PPHA) is pleased to announce that the Frank B. Darcey Jr. Standard of Productivity Show will be held in conjunction with the Keystone International Livestock Exhibition (KILE) on Sunday, Oct. 6 at noon at the Farm Show Complex.

Mr. Darcey, Fairfield, Pa., was selected by the PPHA as honoree for this event, which is cosponsored by Keystone International, the American Polled Hereford Association, and the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association.

Darcey's accomplishments and involvement in the cattle industry are numerous. The Adams County Beef Producers Association owes its existence to his vision and involvement, as one of the founders, and its first president. Locally in Adams County, he has served as director of the South Mountain Fair Board, and as a member of the Adams County Farm Home Administration.

Darcey has served the Pennsylvania beef industry as vice president of Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, president of the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association, livestock committee member for KILE and Pennsylvania Farm Show, and Pennsylvania MAEC Bull Test Committee.

Now, if this two-tier or HR 2837 passes, the cattlemen will be in our pockets for 31c/cwt for beef price support, (Which would come out to about $1500.00/year for a farmer shipping 500,000 lbs times 4 years would be about $6,000 over the life of this bill), 5c assessment for running the program, and the good Lord only knows how much of a deduction to help defray costs of the WIC and child nutrition programs-- if the cost of milk goes up!! All the dairy farmer does is funnel money from his temporary increase to other peoples' pockets.

Add to all those deductions that congress could fit into a bill the probable requirement that farmers will be forced into the government's crop programs: sodbuster, swampbuster, crop reporting, etc., and you have a no win situation for all dairy farmers. The milk market isn't setting prices for reasons I outlined above and every farmer that milks cows will be forced to pay for more non-farm programs. Do corn farmers pay for higher corn flake prices to WIC recipients? Do wheat farmers pay for higher bread prices to schools and child nutrition programs? Do Peanut farmers and grape growers pay assessments to schools and the USDA because Peanut butter and Jelly prices rose over the last year? No, not on your life. To sell our souls for 12.60 milk and a two tier system now will only drag us down deduction by deduction!

It is quite ironic that with the collapse of the Soviet system, our federal legislators want to export our farm technology to that country. The Soviets should stay away from any of our domestic dairy programs, which are becoming more and more destructive to the very farmers the government is trying to help. Republican Sen. Lugar of Indiana called Thursday for the elimination of the marketing order program, saying IT caused the surplus. Now it really escapes me as how Federal Order 2 or Federal Order 4 creates a milk surplus! USDA Secretary Madigan says he doesn't understand how the Federal Order system works, and maybe its usefulness is past.

Unfortunately, dumping milk is not the answer. Dumped milk becomes "industrial waste" according to PA DER and I would hate to have someone know where MY milkhouse waste goes!! The dairy farmer is misunderstood enough and having the media pick up on tankers dumping milk throws gasoline on the fire and gives our adversaries more ammunition against us.

Diversions could be the solution, but the logistics of setting up a farmer-controlled parallel system of processing and distribution are presently insurmountable.

To succeed you must be able to withdraw milk from the dealer or manufacturer until their pipelines dry up and it must be over a large enough area that milk can't be trucked in. If 95% of the farmers go along, you would have the added advantage of the dealer/handler only processing 5% of normal supplies for about the same costs as processing 100%. The more unreimbursed costs for the processor, the better the farmer's situation. The coops would be hurt by failing to live up to their contracts, but they will be more hurt in the long run if there are no farmer-members left.

You then with good press coverage give your milk to the consumer at cost: (90c/gallon). When the first hand-written sign appears in the supermarket dairy case that customers are limited to 1 gallon or such, the farmer will have won. Minicams, skycams, satellite cams will quickly spread the word that milk is rationed and consumers will become concerned about something (milk) they have never given much thought. And really, that is all we as farmers are asking for, is give us some consideration to our situation.

Frank Bertrand
Towanda

Editor:

We as dairy farmers all know something has to be done about the price of milk. There is a lot of talk around, but no real positive action. The government has control and is in no hurry to help. We use the word help loosely. One group wants to dump milk. What good would come of this? Short term, if any and very self destructive. Others are out there making high demands that sound great. Best a farmer with any knowledge of the market knows they are not realistic.

Do we have to wait for the government? No! Do we have to dump milk? No! What do we do to get the price of milk up? It's very simple and best of all the time is right. With the drought condition and the shortage of forages, let's all just cut back three percent. That is just 30 pounds of every 1000 pounds we ship. Feed less feed, feed more milk for a longer time to calves and cull cows. These actions will save money, make money, and do the industry long-term good. We can put the control in our hands, set back and watch the price of milk go up. We wouldn't have to pay assessments or pay the cattleman association off to do it either.

We all know the strength we would have if we unite. We can no longer wait for someone else to make the first move. No matter how few or how many cows you have that three percent united would make us financially stronger. If you like putting up signs, put one up that says "We Cut Back" or better yet just do it.

Editor:

The Oct. 1, 1991 milk withholding plan is having an impact on Congress. Farm organizations should join in and back this plan to help farmers get a fair price for their milk. Why should the President and Congress have a cheap food policy for the country at the expense of the farmer? I believe the government planned on last year being a good one financially so that farmers would go out and buy new equipment and make other improvements. Now they turn around and force prices down so that thousands of family farms will go under without help and be replaced by large corporate farms. Republicans always seem to favor big business but it is the small business that is the backbone of the country and the support of local economies.

I like thousands of others ship my milk to a co-op. Co-op dues for these thousands of farmers amount to millions of dollars a year. We also pay millions in advertising dollars. I don't think that saying milk is good for you is good enough. The consumer is not aware that regular milk is almost 97% fat free. They drink poor tasting skim milk because they think milk is full of fat. Raising the standards for SNF would give consumers a better glass of milk and go a long way toward solving any surplus problems. Our co-ops are not fighting hard enough for us, private handlers are not interested in helping the farmer and our advertising is not doing the job of letting the public know that milk is a lot better buy than soda.

We still need more farmers to put up signs nationwide supporting the Oct. 1 milk withhold. Each and every farmer should help to push this idea, don't wait for your neighbor he may be waiting for you. We have support from Maine to California but we still need more help. Agribusiness can help to support us by not pushing farmers too hard that are behind on their bills, although we realize that hard times for farmers are hard times for suppliers and they also have bills to pay. I hope that milk haulers will help by keeping their trucks off the road until we get a fair price for our milk. Corporate farms can buy their own trucks but family farms, haulers and agribusinesses must stick together or go down together. If you want information or have ideas call Roger Hess 717-798-2149 or George Schmidt 717-798-2497.

Dairy farmers swim in an ocean of surplus milk. Graim farmers receive ancient prices for corn and tons and tons of wheat are bought and stored by U.S. taxpayers in gov't. warehouses, Rats and spoilage take their toll on our stockpile.

I question why food is left to spoil in the U.S., while many of our own people go hungry and while Russian stores remain empty. Yes, Russian farmers need technical assistance but they need food, now, NOW! They can't rebuild, innovate, and expand upon their quickened efforts to establish a democracy. No one can do it while hunger demands standing in line for hours each day.

Let the American people add stability to the whole region by sending food. Americans have shunned beef and dairy products. The Soviet people would sit to a juicy steak or a glass of ice cold milk or butter and warm bread.

Let us feed off our stockpile. Would it be so politically detrimental?

Extension Agent Recognized

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — Phil Durst, an associate extension agent in Snyder County, will be recognized as a national winner in the Class III slide set and Class VII newsletter competition at the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) meeting in Peoria, Ill.

The meeting, which recogizes NACAA members for communications skills, will be held Aug. 25-29 in Peoria.

For the past three years, Durst has worked in a four-county area specializing in dairy, farm, and manure management. Agents in those counties work the same area, allowing them to specialize in subject matter areas. Durst also works with the 4-H Teen Council in Snyder County.

Phil Durst

Prior to coming to those counties, Durst worked in the Penn State Agronomy Extension office on a nutrient management education project in connection with the Chesapeake Bay.

Durst's dairy newsletter, "Milkhouse Notes," is sent to all dairy farmers in five counties. The slide set of dairy farm signs grew out of a collection started as a hobby. Durst's love of farm signs led him to get a local 4-H club started on making their own.

In 1990, Durst was a regional NACAA Search for Excellence winner in the public relations category. Durst has earned an M.S. in agronomy from Penn State and a B.S. in chemistry from Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science.

Pork Prose

by 30 percent in finishing pigs. Average daily gain is improved by 20 percent. Stop and think about that — nearly 200 pounds of feed saved, and pigs go to market almost three weeks sooner. This is remarkable since daily injections of growth hormone (at twice the dosage that the FDA is supposedly considering for approval) will improve feed conversion by only 20 percent.

• Sows cycle at two days post-weaning, rather than the usual three to four days. That, I was told, would help more eggs attach to the lining of the uterus since the sows are breeding back sooner (clearly a new concept for the text book).

• Decreases the amount of nutrients in the manure since the feed is utilized more efficiently.

• Decreases the amount of cholesterol in pork. Four ounces of "normal" pork would have the same total cholesterol as 1 to 1.5 pounds of pork from Aerogen-treated pigs. If my calculations are right, that means a 4-ounce portion of pork would contain about 17 milligrams of cholesterol, instead of the normal 100. I would think, from what little I know of biochemistry, that such a low cholesterol content in the muscles would threaten the pig's very survival.

• Boars can be used more often.

• Udders, ears, and snouts take on a pink color, because of the higher hemoglobin concentration.

The Procedure

As I understand it, all sows must be first injected with 10 cc of LA-200 (long acting tetracycline). Sows are also put on chlortetracycline in the feed at the rate of 400 grams/ton, and vaccinated with erysipelas. Flow rate in the waterers must be increased to 3 quarts/min for sows and 2 qt/min for all other pigs. (This is done, according to the company rep, to "cool the pigs down" since their oxygen consumption is higher than normal.)

All sows receive 5 cc of iron. The process is repeated in six weeks. Apparently the tetracycline and iron is to overcome problems from eperythrozoonosis, which, in the opinion of the company, affects most sow herds.

Their Results

I have none. Neither does the company, since there is no published research on the material. ("No need for research," according to the distributor, "we already know it works.") I did, however, call four swine producers (7/31/91) in Pennsylvania which have used Aerogen:

• Producer 1 used Aerogen for 6 months, but recently put the program "on-hold." He did see a color change during the first two months, and felt the sows farrowed ½ to 1 hour faster. Number born live was not calculated before or after the program was started. He thought the pigs on the finishing floor grew faster during the first two months.

The lack of response was, according to the company, due to high levels of calcium in the water. They recommended a water softener but, to date, the producer has not complied.

• Producer 2 used Aerogen for 2 months. Conception rate improved somewhat at first. But sows also exhibited a rapid drop in feed intake in the farrowing house, resulting in poor milking ability, high weight loss, and low weaning weights. After removing the Aerogen, the sows' feed intake "turned around in a week," according to the producer.

Survey: Farm, Retail Prices Tied Together

ROBERT YONKERS
BLAIR SMITH
PSU Extension Specialists
Ag Economics, Rural Sociology

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — In April, we joined the debate about how well changes in retail milk prices track changes in farm milk prices, at the national level.

We asserted then that numerous studies have shown a long-term positive correlation between farm and retail prices. We now take a closer look at these relationships in Pennsylvania for the period of greatest recent farm milk price variability, January 1989 through June 1991.

Pennsylvania and U.S. Farm Milk Prices

Prices received by Pennsylvania farmers averaged 4.6 cents per half gallon ($1.07 per 100 pounds) above the prices received by U.S. farmers during the 30 months under consideration.

Changes in Pennsylvania farm prices (both up and down) matched changes in U.S. farm prices virtually penny for penny during the period. In fact, 98 percent of the variation in Pennsylvania farm milk prices could be explained by concurrent changes in U.S. farm milk prices.

Pennsylvania and U.S. Retail Milk Prices

Retail prices in Pennsylvania for whole milk in Pennsylvaniaper cartons averaged 8.8 cents per half-gallon below prices for the U.S. as a whole during the 30 month period examined. The correspondence between Pennsylvania and U.S. retail price was very high (85 percent), although not as high as at the farm level.

Pennsylvania and U.S. Milk Marketing Margins

The difference between prices at farm and retail (for a half-gallon of whole milk in a Pennsylvaniaper carton) averaged 55.8 cents in Pennsylvania and 69.3 cents in the U.S. during the 30 months studied. We do not know how these margins were shared between dealers and retailers.

Pennsylvania Farm and Retail Prices

Farm and retail milk prices generally move up and down together in Pennsylvania, but changes in farm prices explain only 34.4 percent of the change in the retail price of a half-gallon of whole milk.

Inasmuch as fluid whole milk in half gallons is only a small portion of the total use for farm milk, and there are lags in adjustments to price changes at different levels in the marketing channel, one should not expect a high level of correspondence between farm and retail for a particular, single end product.

Pennsylvania Retail Minimums and Actual Market Prices

Four Pennsylvania markets were studied in preparing this report. In the three market areas of Pittsburgh, Altoona/Johnstown, and Harrisburg, prevailing retail prices were essentially equal to the regulatory minimums established by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) throughout the 30 months.

In the Philadelphia market, except in late 1989 and early 1990 when farm milk prices were at their peak, actual retail prices exceeded minimum retail prices by as much as 24 cents per half-gallon.

Conclusions

From January 1989 through June 1991, Pennsylvania farm milk prices were higher, and Pennsylvania retail milk prices lower, than those in the U.S. as a whole.

The marketing margin — or the difference between what the farmer got and what the consumer paid — was lower in Pennsylvania than in the U.S. by an average of 13.5 cents per half-gallon of whole milk.

Agronomic Tour Scheduled

Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc. is an independent crop consulting firm that has been serving farmers throughout Pennsylvania for the past fourteen years. Each year B.A.C.S., Inc. conducts corn, soybean, wheat and barley variety trials in several locations throughout southeastern Pennsylvania.

The tour is free and open to the public. A tour to visit these trials has been set for September 20, starting at the Country Table Restaurant in Mt. Joy. Starting time is 8:15 a.m. (See schedule).

Corn companies that participated are: Agway, Inc., Beachley-Hardy Seed Co., Cargill Hybrid Seeds, Hytest Seeds, Inc., Jacques Seed Co., NC+ Hybrids, Inc., Pioneer Hi-Bred Int. Foraging Around

By Dr. John E. Baylor
Forage Specialist (Retired)
Penn State University

Intensively grazed alfalfa-grain pastures produced more total calf and total lamb gain per animal and per acre, while maintaining good stands of alfalfa. This was the word given to those visiting the Haller Farm study during last week's field day.

"But their full potential has never been realized because other more easily managed and affordable alternatives have been available. As economic and environmental pressures on livestock farming enterprises increase, however, the intensive and efficient utilization of pasture to meet the forage needs of all classes of animals makes more sense."

Just how profitable can pasture be? This question was addressed by USDA Soil Conservationist Darrel Emmick, who reported on several recent economic studies on pasture conducted in New York State.

In an analysis of 15 dairy operations in that state, Emmick said, several farms saw a reduction cost in excess of $200 per animal per year with an average for the 15 farms of $153 per cow per year. The average savings per hundred weight of milk produced for the 15 farms was $1.56.

Herd sizes in the study varied from 32 to 135 head with an average of 55. As you would expect, acres allocated for pasture varied from farm to farm as did length of grazing season.

"But," said Emmick, "despite the differences, all of the farms in the study experienced some degree of improvement in reducing feed costs.

"Although intensive pasture systems may not be practical for some extremely large dairy operations, or on farms where there is an insufficient amount of land near the barn," said Emmick, "for the majority of dairymen in the Northeast, a greater utilization of intensively managed pasture can effectively reduce production costs and improve overall profitability."

Intensive Systems the Key

Intensive pasture systems are the key. This was the conclusion reached by producers and others as they visited both the dairy and beef and sheep grazing research studies.

For example, one of the current studies under the direction of Fales and dairy scientist Dr. Larry Muller deals with "Intensive Grazing of High-Producing Holstein Cows: Milk Production, Forage Utilization and Profit Potential at Three Stocking Rates."

Nitrogen fertilized orchardgrass was the dominant species in this study. Results are still preliminary, and include only two years of data, including the good growing season of 1990 and drought- and heat-stressed 1991.

But trends are already clear. Well-managed intensive pasture systems mean more pasture production, less pasture rejection and higher quality pasture, along with more milk and more dollars per acre.

involving beef cow herds and ewe flocks also receive major attention on the Haller farm under the direction of animal scientist Lowell Wilson and his associates. Grazing studies at the Haller farm have been under way since the mid '60s.

In one current study, short duration intensive grazing system (moving animals every one to two days) were compared with more traditional grazing systems on alfalfa-ryegrass pastures using either beef cows, ewes, or cows and ewes cograzed. Results to date favor intensive grazing systems in terms of total grazing days and gain per acre.

Cograzing cattle and sheep increased both ewe and lamb performance. In these studies, alfalfa persisted exceedingly well under well-managed intensive systems. "And," said farm manager Peter LeVan, "we've noted only about 10 cases of bloat on alfalfa pastures in 15 years of research."

Referring to earlier studies at the Haller Farm, USDA pasture scientist Jerry Jung reviewed results of grazing studies involving mixtures of alfalfa-ryegrass and alfalfa-orchardgrass. While total yields were similar, Jung noted that mixtures of alfalfa-ryegrass were higher in quality (protein and digestibility) and resulted in slightly higher average daily gains of cattle.

Jung also stressed the importance of new low endophyte, low alkaloid tall fescues in future pasture systems. "Tall fescues," he said, "perform well under adverse conditions. And the new low endophyte, low alkaloid varieties are readily eaten by livestock and add a new dimension to grazing systems."

Modern Fencing Another Breakthrough

The advent of modern, low cost fencing systems is another breakthrough for modern intensive pasture management systems. This was stressed repeatedly by scientists throughout the day.

There have been many advances in fencing systems over the past few years as forage harvesting through grazing has become more sophisticated and more important, researchers emphasized, which have proven effective from the standpoint of cost, availability, controlling animals, ease of installation, and maintenance.

Looking Ahead

Obviously, management is very important to the profitable use of pastures in livestock systems.

For dairymen using intensive grazing systems, for example, the major challenge, according to Muller, is related to proper supplemental feeding and balancing rations for maximum milk and profit.

"A pasture changes rapidly during the season and from day to day," Muller said. "and balancing what is eaten from pasture with what is supplemented is a challenge."

Penn State scientist Dr. John Shenk believes he has an answer to part of that challenge. Shenk reviewed new breakthroughs in (NIRS) near infrared reflectance spectroscopy technology, making it possible to analyze forage samples for many quality factors quickly and accurately without drying or grinding the samples.

And Penn State ag engineer Dennis Buckmaster discussed his new computer program, GraMatoN 1, as a guide for determining when to start grazing in the spring to maximize returns.

In the field, other scientists reported on the search for new clovers, improved grasses, and other species to up yield and quality of pasture swards and extend the grazing season. New techniques for estimating herbage yields also received attention.

Quality was the point stressed by USDA-ARS Scientist G.A. Jung. Mixtures of alfalfa-ryegrass were higher in quality and resulted in slightly higher average daily gains of beef as compared to alfalfa-orchardgrass mixtures, Jung said.

References to New Zealand research surfaced throughout the day, and with good reason. Current dairy pasture research is the result of input from New Zealand pasture expert Dr. Ray Brougham, who was invited to Pennsylvania several years ago to assess the current pasture situation in the state, evaluate the potential impact of a wider adoption of pasture systems, and advise on the direction research and education programs should take to realize this potential.

Brougham's visit was followed by several exchange visits by Penn State and New Zealand scientists and the introduction at Penn State of cooperative research on species evaluation and management with workers in New Zealand.

Jr. Dairymen Contest In Fifth Year At All-American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— The knowledge of youth participants will once again be tested at the All-American Dairy Show Junior Dairyman Contest. The contest is sponsored by Arm & Hammer Ag Products, a division of Church & Dwight Co. of Princeton, New Jersey, and Pfizer, Inc., through its Animal Health Division of New York, New York.

The contest is open to 4-H members, FFA members, and agricultural high school students in the United States and Canada. It uses ten different classes to test participants in Agribusiness knowledge and decision making. Classes include current dairy issues, farm business management, sire selection, descriptive evaluation, and identification of dairy, feed and meat products.

Walter Wurster, an extension agent from Chester County serves as superintendent of the contest, and Carl Brown of F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. of Birdsboro serves as Advisory Committee Chairman. Dr. Brown feels this is one of the most practical of all agricultural contests open to high school age students. "It will point out the vast amount of knowledge a farmer or other Agribusiness person must have today, by testing the youth in ten categories."

Premiums will be awarded to the top ten teams in each division and to the top ten individuals overall. The first place individual will receive a $500 scholarship to be used to further his or her education.

The 1991 contest will be held Tuesday, September 24th. entries must be postmarked by September 14th and are available from : Charles A. Itle, Manager, All-American Dairy Show, Farm Show Complex, 2301 N. Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408.

DeKalb Initiates Hybrid Corn Testing In Manheim

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — In an effort to develop better inbred corn varieties for farmers in the area, DeKalb Plant Genetics has established a new Plant Genetics Corn Research Station here.

On Wednesday, DeKalb representatives and farmers met at an open house to discuss the research conducted by the station, established in May this year. DeKalb discussed its programs on corn breeding and biotechnology at the facility.

Nearly 100 farmers and consultants arrived to hear brief overviews of programs at the station and to tour the facilities.

The farm, leased to DeKalb by Charlie Hummer, encompasses 90 acres to study the effects of disease, insect and weed infestation, and other inbred tests on all of DeKalb's northeastern corn hybrids.

Dr. Catherine Mackey, director of DEKALB Discovery Research, talks about the company's plant genetics program at the open house in Manheim Wednesday.

Study diseases

The station also serves as headquarters for DeKalb's Mid-Atlantic and Northeast research, according to Dr. Erich Veitenheimer, station manager. The conditions inherent in the area — cold, wet springs and warm, humid summers — make it ideal to study plant diseases.

"So we have to be here to develop the corn in order for it to work well in this area," said Veitenheimer. "Disease screening is very important. We spend a lot of time looking at how the inbred hybrids react to various diseases."

The facility includes special nurseries to examine gray leaf spot and other diseases. In addition, researchers study insect infestation, particularly European corn borer, and in the near future will perform extensive studies on the western corn rootworm.

DeKalb has also stepped up its silage testing research, and has devoted plots to study it. Also, special quality assessments on hybrids are conducted at the station.

Testing program

DeKalb's overall testing program, encompassing about 5 million corn acres, includes 24 sites in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast regions alone, according to Veitenheimer. In all, research encompasses about 2,000 nursery rows, 44,835 two-row hybrid testing plots, 17,640 plots for 75-102 relative maturity (RM) hybrids and 22,195 plots for 103-118 RM hybrids.

"In commitment, we're now approaching about $30 million," said Dr. John Pfund, associate

When you use a lot of dairy feeds, there's one person who's guaranteed to make a profit on your dairy farm—your feed salesman.

Fortunately for you, Agway doesn't just sell feed. As a farmers' cooperative, we work to improve productivity and profits on dairy farms just like yours throughout the Northeast. Our reward is helping you make more milk, more profitably.

Of course, we sell dairy feeds. In fact, we pioneered the field of high-performance dairy feeds with breakthrough introductions like NutriTech and Pro:Right. But that's just part of our dairy know-how.

We take a complete approach to your dairy operation. One that pays attention to your herd's lactation curves. Plans for a year-long feeding program. Analyzes your forage quality and recommends ways to improve it. So you can grow more protein instead of buying it. And we can help balance your cows' rations for peak production levels using the latest dairy feed software.

Talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise salesperson today. Find out how we can help put more milk into your tank and take a little less out of your pocket.

Soviet Scientist-Agricultural Engineer Impressed By U.S. Farm Systems

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — For three months a Soviet scientist-agricultural engineer has been taking an in-depth look at American-style farming.

After visits to 25 states, Oleg Marchenko told Lancaster County farmers, Melvin and Amos Beiler, that he is impressed with cooperatives.

"You have cooperatives for seeds, fertilizers, milk, and Farm Credit," Marchenko said. "In my country, I would like to see similar cooperatives established for production, storage, and proccessing of crops."

Marchenko told the Beiler Brothers, who operate a farm near Leola, "Americans have a flexible system. If a crop doesn't do well on your land, you can change to another one, but a collective farm in the Soviet Union needs to grow a fixed amount of crop every year even if the soil and climate is not suited for it."

Amos Beiler asked, "You mean, if I lived there, you would make me raise cows when I don't like them? I like pigs. I want to add more pigs."

"And you can do that, here," Marchenko said, "as long as you have a market. But in my country, you must understand, we do not have the ideal conditions that you do. We have a big problem with transportation and distribution."

Collective farms average 40 to 60 percent vegetable loss annually. These losses are the result of problems faced in planting, harvesting, transporting, and storing the crops.

In theory, the collective farm sounds like a good idea — a group of farmers work together, and use the profits to improve the community. In contrast, an American farmer works to raise his individual standard of living, which is considered selfish by socialists.

But most collective farms in the Soviet Union are in poor financial shape. The reasons are legion.

Unlike the U.S., where farmers choose to raise crops that are most suitable to the soil and climate, and then ship them to markets, the collective farms are "multi-branched" farms, which means they must grow all the crops needed for the central village. It doesn't manner if the soil isn't conducive to cabbage. They must grow it because the village needs it since there is not a transportation network to ship food in and out of the areas.

Because the farms have only one tractor to every 400 acres, they cannot completely plant and harvest the crops during prime growing and harvesting times. It takes one tractor too long to cover such a large area.

Then, there are tractor breakdowns with which to contend. "In the U.S., dealers have spare parts and you can fix your tractor in a hurry so that no time is lost," Marchenko said. "But, in my country, there are no dealerships for parts, and it is not always possible to get spare parts in time to finish the job."

The Soviets also have poor quality metal for agricultural use. "We use our tractors 10 years at best," Marchenko said.

"Farmers in the U.S. have several sizes tractors on their farms. But when you don't have enough tractors, you need to use a big tractor for a small job. It's inefficient. We spend about two times more fuel to get two to three times less product, and we use five to seven times more manhours for labor," Marchenko said.

"For example, we sent a million people to havest potatoes at one farm. But they needed to travel three hours to get there and three hours to return home. Consider the cost of fuel. That raises the labor costs tremendously," he said.

The lack of proccessing plants in the area where crops are raised is also a large factor in the collective farm's loss of food. Added to this deficit, is the lack of technology. On a collective farm, a person might milk cows one day and the next day plant a crop. There is no follow-through.

"People don't understand the value of each job because they don't follow it through from beginning to end like American farmers do. It's impossible for them to be aware of all the stages of the crops because they don't know crop sequences, only the agronomists know that. Our people have been told what to do. We have lost the peasant who had the knowlege of agriculture," Marchenko said.

Although the Soviet government is willing to give individuals land to farm, Marchenko asks, "Who wants it? How will they care for it? How will they buy equipment, seed, and fertilizer?"

Despite the obstacles facing Soviet farmers, Marchenko is optimistic. "I see cooperatives as the answer," he said.

He would like to see joint ventures between his country and other countries. Of prime importance is establishing a food proccessing plant. His country would like to barter, trade or have what he refers to as a coupon exchange where a country is given a coupon to redeem in exchange for services.

"The markets are there," Carol Mercner of Keystone Farm Credit said. "Western countries could fill those needs, but they won't do it for nothing."

In 1988, Mercner spent one month in the Soviet Union with a delegation of ag engineers from the U.S. In 1990, she returned to visit with Marchenko's family for a month to find out how the average Soviet citizen lives. She ha helped Marchenko establish contacts during his visit in the States. Mercner sees Soviet problems as complex. She believes that cooperatives in this country have the framework to help the Soviets, but they cannot do it without an exchange of money.

"The missing link is that the ruple is not convertible," she said. "We need to have an exchange of money because the Soviets do not have enough of what we want to make trading a viable option."

Marchenko hopes machinery companies will settle in his country so that they can provide the parts so desperately needed by farmers.

He wants to see programs such as 4-H established. "The children need to learn about improving stock through breeding and feeding," he said. In the past, children have not had opportunity to be a part of the large collective farms.

To make all these changes will take many years, longer than 10, Marchenko surmises. But he is not discouraged.

"Change will come slowly. Some do not want to change. They are afraid. They want the security of a collective farm. I believe we will have both for a transitional period — the collective farms for those who want it and privatization for those who want it. Economically competition will show which is the best for our specific rural conditions.

"I have traveled to 25 U.S. states and observed their farming practices. I am convinced that cooperatives and joint ventures hold the answers," Marchenko said.

Rediscover Backyard Composting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Fall will soon be here and with this season comes leaves and other green material from the trees, shrubs, vegetable and flower gardens. One way to easily take care of this material is through composting. Composting is an age old art that has been "rediscovered" because of recent legislation limiting yard and garden waste into landfills. For many home gardeners, this will be the fust fall that they cannot send the "garden trash" away. The various aspects and activities of composting will be presented through a lecture, slide and question and answer session. Participants will learn about:

- Soil Basics.
- The Food Web of Decomposition.
- Setting Up Easy Composting Systems for the Backyard.

Instructors include York Co. Master Gardeners. The class will be held Tuesday, Sept. 17, 7:30 p.m.-9 p.m. All courses are held at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster in the classrooms downstairs. Cost is $8 (includes composting manual and refreshments).

Remember, all classes are designed for the gardening public, informative to the novice or seasoned gardener.

To register, send a check made payable to Agricultural Extension, Penn State Cooperative Extension, c/o Home Horticultural Seminars, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

(At the present time, the downstairs meeting room of the Farm and Home Center is accessible only by stairs. If you use a wheelchair or crutches or are unable to use stairs and you want to attend a meeting scheduled for this room, please contact H. Bruce Hellerick at (717) 394-6851, at least five working days prior to the scheduled program to arrange for alternative meeting site.)

New Ultra:Lac 22. When the temperature climbs over 80°F in the shade, a cow's milk production and your profits can head in the other direction. Nothing robs a cow of her ability to make milk like the draining effects of heat stress, especially in early lactation. And your top producers can be affected the most.

Ultra:Lac 22 combines the unique benefits of MEGALAC® rumen bypass fat with a specialized blend of proteins, vitamins, minerals, sodium bicarbonate, Dairyman's Edge, even flavor enhancers, to help battle heat stress.

By increasing a cow's dry matter intake, stabilizing rumen fermentation, and decreasing electrolyte imbalances due to fluid loss, Ultra:Lac 22 can help cows beat the heat. And because it's an enriched "package" of top-dress feed supplements, you can feed it to the cows that need it most—when they need it most.

To find out how Ultra:Lac 22 can help your herd handle heat stress, contact your Agway Farm Enterprise salesperson today.

director of corn research for the eastern U.S. "With the movement to Manheim to this location, plus an increase in other locations, we've increased our total breeding and testing effort for the East. And obviously it's a numbers game in breeding hybrids, so the more effort we're into, the better we're going to become in getting more and higher quality hybrids."

Pfund said DeKalb also needed to be "in the heart of corn country to better evaluate hybrids," he said.

But breeding disease resistance into the hybrids is of prominent importance to the company.

Regenerates plants

In April 1990, DeKalb announced it had been successful in achieving genetic transformation of corn, said Dr. Catherine Mackey, director of DeKalb Discovery Research. The company introduces foreign gene material into corn cells and then "regenerates" whole fertile plants from those genes. The gene is transferred to the next generation and maintained.

DeKalb literally "shoots" the gene into the cell using a gun, said Mackey.

In the past, researchers had to look to corn genetic material to get breeding for drought and disease resistance. Now, using transformation technology, they can borrow from other types of plants to obtain the same effects.

Some of the tests were successful in obtaining resistance to herbicides, particularly in France, which uses a brand of herbicide still undergoing U.S. approval.

Insect resistance

"In the lab," she said, "we're working on introducing genes for insect resistance, specifically corn borer resistance into corn lines."

Another area of research with promise includes gene mapping technology. The technology "allows us to determine the genetic blueprint of an inbred," said Mackey. "Once we know the genetic blueprint of an inbred or a hybrid, and we know how it performs in the field, we're able to determine which gene is responsible for which trait."

Once they establish the relationship, said Mackey, the company can develop chemical "tags" for corn genes. The tags can spot genes that harbor resistance to certain diseases, including gray leaf spot or those for drought resistance.

"It's an extremely powerful tool for breeding," she said. "I think it holds a great deal of promise."

"There's a lot of commitment that's been made here," said Veitenheimer. "This station is all part of that commitment."

Buyers Needed For Denver Beef Show

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Denver Fair will be holding its annual beef show on Friday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m.

The show, open to anyone in Lancaster and Berks counties or surrounding areas, needs buyers for the steer auction, which follows the beef show.

Premiums for the open show are, first, $20; second, $16; third, $14; fourth, $12; fifth, $10; sixth, $8; and seventh, $6. Grand and reserve champions receive a trophy. Fitting classes senior and junior include the following premiums: first, $12; second, $10; third, $8; fourth, $6; and fifth, $4. Champion showman gets a trophy. FFA or 4-H fat steer class receives a large rosette.

For more information, contact William Coldren, chairman, (215) 267-2523.

must be maintained at a temperature of 45 degrees Fahrenheit or less. Once they reach the retail food store, distributor, processor, or public eating or drinking establishment, the eggs must be maintained at a temperature of 45 degrees Fahrenheit or less.

Violations of the refrigeration law can result in fines up to $1,000 and civil penalties up to $5,000.

The new law provides exemptions to refrigeration requirements for producers with 3,200 birds or less who market their eggs within a 100-mile radius and sell within five days of the date of lay. Under those circumstances, the new law requires that eggs be stored at a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit or less.

PFA Seeks Dairy Legislation, Increase Price Supports

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) and the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) today announced a legislative effort that will bring relief to dairymen, and could be pivotal to increased milk price supports.

"This legislative proposal," said Keith W. Eckel, PFA president, "should bring about improved milk prices with out new assessments and mandatory quotas for dairymen."

The farm leader, a member of the AFBF Board of Directors, stated that any legislative effort must include guidelines adopted by the AFBF Board of Directors. "These guidelines will assist dairymen for the short haul, but more importantly they will continue to enhance the market place for long term improvement in milk prices," Eckel said.

Eckel said, "The current market conditions indicate the dairy support level could be increased significantly without causing over production or exceeding federal spending limits."

There are presently three major dairy legislative proposals being considered by the U.S. Congress H.R. 3131 comes close to meeting the objectives of our organization, according to Eckel, but it will need some amendments to bring it in line with AFBF guidelines.

The farm organization will not support H.R. 2837 or S. 1527 in their present form.

The U.S. Senate bill (S. 1527) and the U.S. House bill (H.R. 2837) call for market-distorting price supports, mandatory production controls, exemptions for certain areas, and assessments for nutrition programs and red meat purchases.

"We support nutrition programs to help those in need," Eckel stated, "but we don't believe that dairymen should be shackled with the financial burden to conduct these programs as proposed in S. 1527 and H.R. 2837."

The U.S. House legislation (H.R. 3131) proposes a voluntary diversion program, input from an industry board, California solids standards, a heifer export program, bankruptcy protection and no mandatory production controls or assessments except for funding the voluntary diversion program.

At the August meeting of the AFBF Board the national farm organization adopted the following guidelines to be included in any national dairy legislation:

1. The support price level must be budget neutral, eliminating the need for additional assessments on dairymen, and a support level that does not encourage production;
2. The diversion program, if needed, must be voluntary.
3. An industry board should help to conduct the program.
4. The California standards for milk should be adopted bringing about higher solids standards for fluid milk.
5. A dairy heifer export program should be established.
6. Milk processors should be included in the automatic trust provisions of the Packers & Stockyards Act.
7. No assessments should be levied except for what might be needed to fund a diversion program.
8. Disposal of excess product should take place in a timely fashion so as not to depress dairy prices, giving proper credit to the dairy industry.

Jeffrey Moyer feeds high-quality alfalfa hay to the calves.

Martin Moyer uses a TMR program for the dairy, which mixes hay and corn silage with protein sources from soybeans to cottonseed.

Amy prepares one of the cows for milking.

Love Of Cows, Farm Care Bring Recognition To Dairy Family

time basis, according to the Moyers.

"They just started, I'd say, within the past two months to actually help," said Missy. "Before, it was just was one cow, milk one cow, and be done with it. Now I think they really want to stick with it."

Recently, both Jeffrey and Amy, students in the Conrad Weiser School District, will enter the Berks 4-H Dairy Club next year and will soon be showing calves.

The farm comprises about 125 acres (118 tillable). The Moyers raise corn, alfalfa, and barlev

Milk 52 cows

The Moyers milk 52 Holstein cows (seven dry) and manage 100 replacement heifers and calves. (They also keep a registered Brown Swiss, a recent Christmas present, that has a pretty good lactation report, according to Missy.) The Moyers milk from a stanchion barn to a pipeline (tank capacity 800 gallons). Recent DHIA averages are 20,887 pounds (up 287 pounds in one month), 656p, 725f. They sell to Clover Farms.

"I would like to hit 25,000 (pounds of milk) some day," said Martin, with a laugh.

But the recent slump in dairy prices has them worried, because of the rising costs of farm material. "We need $18 milk now," said Martin. "Our milk (price) dropped, and nothing else dropped, really. Everything else kept going up — fuel, fertilizer, anything we had to get this year was more expensive than it was last year."

Now, the Moyers use a TMR. "I never feed dairy cows without TMR," he said. Martin began the TMR program in 1984.

Much as total mix

"At that time, we were making decent milk," he said. "We were feeding grain four times a day and we were doing as much as a total mix before we went into it."

The TMR ration consists of high moisture corn, corn silage and haylage, wet brewers, oats and barley, roasted beans, cottonseed, dry hay, cocoa, and vitamins and minerals. The remainder of the protein comes from soybean meal.

Tim Kissling, of Hidden View Farms, a dairy nutrition consultant from Robesonia, manages the TMR.

Martin said, "The TMR changes from one day to the next. The nutritionist is always shuffling that around to get top-notch production."

Put haylage away

Martin enjoys the fact that "I can put my haylage away this evening, tomorrow morning I'll call (Tim) up, and he'll have my ration worked around for this haylage."

The Moyers also test the forages, and make adjustments to them.

But they said they did nothing special to gain the Dairy of Distinction recognition, but it means a lot to them.

"The farm's pretty well the way the people that had it, and kept it real nice," said Martin. "My dad bought it and it was a nice farm."

Improvements to dairy

The Moyers made several improvements to the dairy, including silo work and replacing the lane leading to the farm next to the meadow.

"It's nice when people comment to you about how your place looks," said Missy. "I mean, when you drive past people's farms and you see the cows that look so white and clean, it makes you feel better." She said she enjoys when "people comment to you about how your yard looks, or flowers, or buildings or whatever."

Missy said the Dairy of Distinction program "wants people to think, you have a clean farm, you're making a good, clean product," she said.

The Moyers "like being in the country," said Missy. She said she enjoys "not having to be tied down to an 8-hour job. And doing things when you want and the children being on the farm, too. That means a lot, instead of growing up in the city, the way things are nowadays."

Her children sometimes get bored on the farm, and want to go visit some other place, such as the city. "But then if they were there, they'd be bored there, too," said Missy.

Kristen, left, watches in awe as brother Jeffrey sweeps around the stalls, getting the area clean to milk the cows.

JEFF PATTON
Marketing Agent
Lehigh Co. Extension

Good farm management is more than good recordkeeping and sound financial decisions. It's also making use of every bit of vital marketing information you can get your hands on.

Fruit and vegetable growers can now get some important information to help them serve fresh markets through summaries of U.S. grades for fresh market produce. Free handouts entitled "U.S. Grade Summaries for Vegetables Grown in Pennsylvania" and "U.S. Grade Summaries for Fruits Grown in Pennsylvania" are available from Lehigh County Cooperative Extension in Allentown. With these, growers can see what fruit and vegetable inspectors look for in examining produce shipments.

First released in mid-summer at marketing twilights in southeastern Pennsylvania, the information is still in time to help many growers fine-tune their packs.

Anytime the buyer has more information about a product than you the grower have, you need to be concerned. And from contacts to growers, details on grade standards of fruits and vegetables fruits seems to be inaccessible. The handouts we offer are a management tool for the fruit and vegetable farmer.

One reason that the standards are not widely circulated in fruit and vegetable sorting rooms may be due to the language in the official "U.S. Standards for Grades" booklets. It reads like a law journal. Instead, the summaries offered by Lehigh County Cooperative Extension are from the latest U.S.D.A. "Quick Reference Manual," the condensed field manual used by fruit and vegetable market inspectors.

Why should growers use these standards to grade harder and thereby reduce the volume of their first shipments? The answer is at least 99 years old. "Do not mix culls or second grade stock with first class, for by so doing the contents of a full package is rated at

The company suggested that mycotoxins were the cause of the feed intake problem.

• Producer 3 has been feeding Aerogen to the sow herd for about four months. Prior to using Aerogen, the sows had been experiencing a 50 percent conception rate from January-April. Conception began to improve May 10, but at the same time, the breeding program was changed to three services, 24 hours apart (had been six to eight services, 12 hours apart). Sc the boars on the previous breeding program may have been overworked. Skin on testicles of herd boars appears to be smoother and pinker. At the time of our conversation, he had not had time to complete one gestation cycle so had no data on sows consuming the product for the full 114 days. So far, weaning weights and number born live had not changed.

The company has changed the sow feed formulation three times in an effort to get a better response. The last recommendation was to feed the white sows and the dark sows in the herd with two different diets.

Currently the producer is feeding the white sow feed which has a slightly higher calcium and and phosphorus level.

• Producer 4 has been been feeding since early January. He saw some improvement initially in conception rate and baby pig scours. Improvement lasted about two weeks, but no consistent change in production has been observed since that time.

The Conclusion

The company claims are difficult to believe and show little resemblance to what these four producers have experienced in their own herds. In my opinion, most if not all of the producers' observations could probably be attributed to the tetracycline and iron program.

With an apparent product cost of $20 to $25/ton of complete feed, I think it is difficult to justify the use of Aerogen.

Magnets On The Water Line

I came across this concept last year at the World Pork Expo. Apparently by bolting a magnet on the incoming water line, minerals (such as calcium) will be less likely to form scale on fixtures and the inside of plumbing.

According to company literature, the magnetic charge improves the ability of water to dissolve the minerals and keep them in solution. I don't know of anyone using these magnets and can not comment on their ability to reduce mineral crystallization.

But the company also verbally claims that the magnets increase milk output in dairy cows and average daily gains in market hogs. I cannot imagine why pigs should grow faster drinking water that has passed through a magnetic field. (A computer library search turned up nothing on the supposed improvement in performance).

I have even offered to do a research trial for a meager sum. Not surprisingly, they turned me down.

Ozone Generators

I received literature on these devices just last month. Since ozone kills bacteria, the theory behind the ozone generator is that it will cleanse the air in a confinement unit.

I for one, would not want to be couped up in a farrowing house that has one of these operating. Ozone is great in the stratosphere where it filters out harmful ultraviolet radiation from the sun. But we sure don't need it here on the surface.

As a matter of fact, our federal government is working to reduce the formation of ozone in cities. (An example of this is the rubber device that fits around the nozzle at some gas pumps. It prevents the vapors from escaping into the air as you're pumping gas. The hydrocarbons, in the presence of sunlight, apparently accelerate the formation of ozone.)

And as if the potential for ozone poisoning weren't enough, the company charges $1,400 per unit.

Adding Hydrogen Peroxide To The Water

Some producers, I am told, meter hydrogen peroxide into their water system with the hope that it will increase oxygen uptake by the pig. Yes, hydrogen peroxide does have an extra oxygen molecule compared to water. But the tiny amount of oxygen contributed by the hydrogen peroxide (even if it were available to the pig), is insignificant when compared to the normal oxygen exchange occurring in the pig's lungs.

ydrogen peroxide does work as a disinfectant if the water is contaminated with bacteria. However, there are other methods (such as chlorination) that are more effective.

Summary

Any time you consider a new product, you need to answer two questions. Will it work? What will it cost? The first question is the most difficult. But there are some useful tools you can use to learn how effective a product is:

• Is there any published research? Was the research done in a controlled manner (whether conducted by a private company, or a university)? Can you get a copy of the final research reports?

• Do any other producers, feed companies, etc., use the product? Can you get their names and phone numbers?

• If the company really believes in the product, would they be willing to start the program at their expense? In other words, if the product works after an agreed-upon trial period, you could reimburse the company for their cost. If the product doesn't work, then it's company's expense, not yours.

NATIONAL CORN YIELD CONTEST - NCYC

NCGA CHAMPIONS
HYTEST SEEDS has announced its 1990 winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

James C. Justice, Beckley, WV was named National Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div. with a yield of 228.6753 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT686.

Joe Hasbrouck Jr., Kingston, NY was named New York State Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div., with a yield of 202.7297 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT650A.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE
HYTEST with 9 state winners in 1990, has placed in the top four nationally for 4 years. It's a record of performance that many large seed companies envy.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
A regional farm seed company, established in 1912, HYTEST employs the same careful breeding, testing and selection process that went into producing these champion hybrids, into all of its varieties. And they're all potential champions!

FARM MANAGEMENT

the market value of the lower grade which it contains." (from "Market Gardening and Farm Notes" written in 1892).

Most wholesalers and consumers are quick to notice whether produce is uniform in size, clean, free from bruises and rot, and looks fresh. These signal flavor, tenderness, and no waste. If top appearance is what buyers are looking for, and there's lots of evi dence they are, they should be willing to pay you for it. Better grading will also make customers more loyal to a grower's superior packs.

In addition to the actual text from the U.S.D.A. field manual, the handouts include several other features. Guidelines and precautions in using the grade details are given. The qualities most often required in the highest U.S. grades are listed. Sources of more information are offered, such as the State Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Division and the U.S.D.A. Standardization Section. Plus a few more century-old thumb rules are included as a reminder that this isn't the first time that fruit and vegetable growers needed vital information on grading.

For your copy of "U.S. Grade Summaries for Vegetables Grown in Pennsylvania" and "U S. Grade Summaries for Fruits Grown in Pennsylvania," contact the Lehigh County Cooperative Extension Office at 4184 Dorney Park Road, Allentown, PA 18104 or call (215) 391-9840 Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Cinderella Crowned Futurity Winner At Maryland State Fair

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md.— Savage-Leigh Cinderella-Et was truly the princess of the ball. She was crowned Miss Futurity at the bovine beauty pageant held in the Cow Palace at the Maryland State Fair. Owned by Chip Savage, Cinderella is sired by S-Hanover Hill Starbuck.

The dam of Miss Futurity was Burnley Glendell Independence. Cinderella has been a 4-H dairy project of Chip's and won Grand Champion in open class and Supreme Champion in 4-H at the Montgomery County Fair this year. Her 305 day record as a two year old was 21,030 lb. of milk and 839 lb. of fat. His goal is for her to obtain a 30,000 record this year and produce a few heifers to add to his future herd. Chip is the 15 year old son of Wayne and Cindee Savage of Montgomery County.

Distinguished guests were escorted into the arena in red and black convertibles to the music of Don and Debbie Barnes. The guests were presented by master of ceremony, David Brauning. Guests included ringmaster, Marion Andrews; Maryland Farm Bureau Queen, Kelly Holland; Maryland Dairy Princess, Jenell Rinehart; County Princesses, Donna Johnson, Gretchen Klein, and Dawn Downey; National Holstein Director, Marlin Hoff; State Fair Board President, F. Grove Miller; Fair General Manager, Howard Mosner; Maryland Holstein President, Marlin Martin; and Judge, Jack Fraizer of Toronto, Canada.

Dressed in tuxedos, Ring Master Andrews and Judge Fraizer gave the appearance of a royal occasion. Anticipation grew in the audience as the participants paraded their 24 Holstein beauties around the Cow Palace.

After careful consideration, Judge Fraizer dismissed the 10 finalists from the ring. He then gave his reasons for placing 11th-24th.

Upon the return of the 10 finalists, Fraizer continued his search for Miss Futurity. As excitement continued to mount at ringside, five finalists were chosen. They were presented as a court for Miss Futurity as she was paraded around the arena to the applause of the audience.

Judge Fraizer's placings for the 1991 Maryland Holstein Futurity were:

1. Savage-Leigh Cinderella-Et - Christopher Savage.
2. WVA Gerystone Thunder Q Elsie - Dr. Francis Daniel.
3. Penn-Gate Enhancer Flashie - Steve and Chris Wood.
4. Kingstead Starbuck Miss Suzie - Curtis and Ann Day.
5. Md-Maple-Lawn Tony Ruby - Matthew Iager.
6. Ladys Manor Star Markee - Robert & Mary O. Smith.
7. Unicorn Count Lynnette-Et - Herman E. Bendig.

4. Hobbie Hill Bonus Count - 23,325.
5. Savage-Leigh Cinderella-Et - 22,537.

The Maryland Holstein Futurity is sponsored by the Maryland Holstein Association to stimulate interest in the breeding and exhibiting of outstanding registered Holsteins in Maryland. It recognizes the accomplishments of the small and the large breeder and the FFA/4-H boy or girl.

The Futurity is based upon the nomination of an animal by its owner, to be shown in the futurity show in the year in which she is eligible.

Four payments are required for each animal that competes. The initial nomination is made as a calf with a fee of $2.50. Four dollars is paid with the renomination as a yearling, $6 as a two-year-old and the final payment of $10 is due as a three year old. For this futurity, 575 animals were nominated as calves. At the end of the first year, this number dropped to 378, then 239 as two year olds. The final nomination and payment included 98 entries. This number was reduced to 24 by show night. The purse this year ranged from $800 for first place to $50 for the 24th place winner. An additional $180 was awarded to the top five animals for their two-year-old production records.

Buyers Converge At Somerset Co. Livestock Sale

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The Junior Livestock Sale held here during the Somerset County Fair saw 388 animals being sold for a monetary total of $152,101. Combined animal weight totaled 142,955 pounds.

Bringing a record-breaking, per-pound sale price was the grand champion lamb owned by Heidi Svonavec of Rockwood. At $13 per pound, the 120-pound Suffolk brought in $1,560 from buyers, Ashland Oil Co. of Confluence and B&B Livestock of Danville, Ohio. Svonavec's 1990 grand champion lamb sold for $10 but failed to crack the 1989 record of $12.

Greta Mostoller's 1,265-pound grand champion steer was bought by the Frank M. Sheesley Co. of Johnstown for $8,096, or $6.40 per pound. The Maine Cross steer was Mostoller's third grand champion and capped her nine years in 4-H. She begins nurses training this fall at a Johnstown Hospital/School.

Heath Engle of Garrett had the grand champion swine, a Hampshire cross, bought by First Philson Bank for $714, or $3 per pound. Engle is a member of the Meyersdale FFA.

The reserve grand champion lamb owned by Erin Livengood of Boswell was sold for $1,200 to the Frank M. Sheesley Co. of Johnstown.

Kevin Stahl's reserve grand champion steer was sold to Hoss's Steak and Sea House for $4,462.

Giant Eagle Market of Somerset was the purchaser of Cara Johnston's reserve grand champion swine for $738. She's from Fairhope.

For a price tag of $2,630, Tracy Bittner's county bred champion steer was sold to Bedford Ford Sales. Bittner is from Meyersdale.

Brock Hillegass of Fairhope owned the home grown champion lamb, which was bought by Dolan Chevrolet of Somerset for $550.

Sale statistician Doyle Paul of Berlin noted that one group champion in the swine sale brought an unexplained $2.50 more per pound than did the grand champion, which he said was unusual. Paul said he couldn't understand why, but champion swine sales showed the worst per pound decline since 1978. He said the record price for a champion swine was set in 1989 when it topped at $10.50.

On the other hand, Paul said the records, showed the champion steer price was the best in five years. The record of $7 per pound, set by Mostoller's 1986 champion, still stands, he said.

Other statistics from this year's sale showed that lamb sales averaged $1.14 with the champion and $.94 without. The number of lambs sold totaled 133.

With the champion, steer sales averaged $1.08 but dipped to $.95

(Turn to Page A46)

without the champion. Seventy-four beef animals were sold.

A hundred and eighty-one hogs were sold to average $1 per pound including the champion. Without the champion, the average was $.94. Paul said that 54 of the hogs sold above $1 per pound. The lowest sale price for a swine this year was $.65, he said.

A staunch and consistent purchaser of animals during the Somerset County Fair's Junior Livestock Sale, A.J. Walker of Somerset was the premier buyer. He was also the 1990 sale premier buyer.

More Than 2,000 'Go Home' To Grange Fair

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Correspondent

"From Atlantic to Pacific,
Gee, the traffic is terrific,
Oh there's no place like
Home for the holidays. . ."

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — What could a song describing Thanksgiving possibly have to do with the 117th Centre County Grange Encampment and Fair?

Everything if it's this song. Because those words aptly describe the 20,000 people from across the U.S., from Florida to New York, from Maryland to California, who move into the 900 tent sites and 1,100 camper sites at the Grange Fair in Centre Hall for 10 days in August.

They don't just come to visit! These campers and tenters have been coming "home" to the same site, year after year - even generation after generation - to renew friendships with their neighbors and to enjoy the fair.

The Grange's army-green tents are transformed into cozy abodes including many of the comforts of home - carpeting, stoves and refrigerators, kitchen tables with chairs or picnic tables, cots or hide-away beds in couches, padded lawn furniture - some even have white picket fences out front.

If all of this gives you the urge to camp at the Grange Fair next year, you can call to sign up, but don't start packing yet. The Fair office has about 500 people on their waiting list for tents.

"There is a low turnover on the campsites available. This year we picked up 10 to 12 new tenters. There's more of a turnover for trailers," said Russell Seward, general manager for the Centre County Grange Fair.

Many of those who started tenting years ago have "handed down" their sites to the next generation. one 30-year-old, when asked how long she had been tenting at the Grange, responded "Forever!" indicating that her parents brought her as a child, and, now she is bringing her family.

Dorothy Shawver of Centre Hall has been tenting at the Grange Fair for more than 50 years.

"My husband came home one day and said he could get a tent. So we hurried and got stuff together, came to the fair and tented. After retirement, my sister tented with me," she said.

"There were three years we missed. We went on trips, and they didn't put up the tents one year during the War. We've had pretty much the same neighbors. It's so great to come each year and see them. That's the only time we see each other - once a year."

The fellowship and loyalty of the tenters and campers is not surprising when one considers the type of fair they are attending. The organization called Grange, which are what farms are called in England, began in 1866 as a fraternity of rural people who wanted to serve their community and rural areas. Then and now, the Grange serves as an outlet for social and service activiites, second only to church and religious services. For that reason, Sunday remains, for now, a day of rest at the Grange Fair. No exhibit buildings are open and no amusement rides or games are operated.

"Sometimes I think I'm getting too old," Dorothy continues, "but each August I get the urge to come back. It's a lot of work to set things up, but it's a nice relaxing week."

And in order to enjoy that relaxing week, trailer campers help to alleviate the "holiday" traffic and confusion by moving into Grange Park the Tuesday before opening day. Tent campers set up on Wednesday. With projects in place by Thursday, Grange Fair is ready for its opening ceremonies held Thursday evening at 7:30.

Dorothy Shawver sums up the feelings of many participants by saying, "I love to see the exhibits - to see what people make. I come to see my old friends, as I call them, the tenters. It's a great fellowship. After all, that's what camping and fair week are all about!"

Dorothy Shawver of Centre Hall has been tenting at the Grange Fair for over 50 years. Tenting has become a family tradition with the 900 camp sites handed down from one generation to the next. Here, Dorothy poses with her great-nephews Phillip Vonada (in stroller) and brother Matthew Vonada.

The 117th Centre County Grange Encampment includes 900 tent sites and 1,100 camper sites. With a waiting list of nearly 500 people, most tent sites are handed down from one generation to another. Many come back year after year to rekindle old friendships with their tenting and camping neighbors.

Guaranteed Cure For Nothin' To Do Blues

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — There's a curious thing that happens right around the middle of August. The days get hot and long and the old swimming hole isn't as fun as it used to be. As sure as birds fly south for the winter, parents everywhere recognize the signs, and start to brace themselves as children begin singing the "Nothin' to do!" blues, usually sung at a high pitch!

Nothing cures the blues faster than a fair, complete with amusement rides, relay races, a giant ice cream sundae, and a playground.

But it gets even better! Because Monday during fair week at the Grange Fair in Centre Hall is "Kiddies Day." Admission is free for kids, the amusement ride prices are reduced, the giant ice cream sundae is free and the playground is excellently supervised!

"They're anybody's kids!" exclaims Wanda Miller, playground supervisor at the Grange Fair. "People who work here, who stay at the boarding home, who are on grange committees, tenters, campers, visitors, anybody!"

Wanda Miller, with a master's in education, enlists the help of three supervisors and 39 helpers to fulfil their purpose — safety of the children. But they go much further by providing activities enjoyed by all — crafts, belt-making, bracelet-making, creating with plastic canvas, tie-dying, sand castle building, decorating containers, and painting hats.

Miller has added a few new things this year — walking for exercise, making large bubbles, and volleyball.

"We try to make things (crafts) that are practical — something the kids can use here while camping," Wanda explains. "Also the Middle School age boys and girls are interested in meeting each other, so we added volleyball. I met my husband at the Grange Fair."

Wanda's paid helpers are teens from area school districts. After training, they don a T-shirt with the word "HELPER" printed on the back because "that's what they're here for." Wanda laughs, "By the end of the week they're exhausted!"

In the last five years, Wanda and her husband Ed have watched the kids grow up — campers and tenters who have returned year after year.

Another person who helps to make "Kiddies Day" special is Ruth Vonada. This year Ruth arranged the relay races held in the grandstand area. Ruth has served nine years on the fair committee as the representative for the Young Patrons of Husbandry, a group designed as a social outlet for the younger people of the Grange.

This year's relay activities attracted 190 kids, most of whom stayed in the grandstand area after the races for the free ice cream from the giant ice cream sundae.

So when the kids in your home start singing the "Nothin' to do!" blues, head on over to "Kiddies Day" on Monday of the Grange Fair, held annually the last week of August. It's a guaranteed cure!

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Suddenly, it looks out of place.

The light-blue papertwist bow. On the grapevine wreath that ornaments our front door.

It seemed so right back weeks ago, when the last wrap of the soft, twisted ribbon paper was curled and tied around the wreath. A fixture on the front storm door, the still-lopsided circle of grapevines is all that remains of my attempts almost a decade ago at growing Concord grapes in what proved to be a less than ideal location.

Colors on the wreath change with the season (as I get to it, albeit sometimes belatedly). The soft blue, with a few clusters of dried yellow-bloomed yarrow tucked around, had lent at least a visual cooling effect with each trip through the door out into the parched, baking heat of past months.

But a recent, early-morning errand-run up the road brought the sort of sudden jolt of realization that summery blue is history. Out-of-date Unappropriate.

Like the retailers who change racks of clothing with the seasons, Mother Nature has hung out her fall fashions and tossed summery stuff onto the clearance table.

A neighbor's young mountain ash may be relatively short in years and stature but it has set berries like a veteran. First-sized clusters of the glowing orange berries weigh down the short, supple branches of the small tree. Our berry-loving neighborhood mockingbirds can look forward to a feast if mountain ash fruits tickle their taste buds. Or is that taste beaks?

Goldenrod colors fencerows and brushy meadow corners with drooping flower heads of .....well, golden color, I guess. Makes sense.

While it provides lovely, graceful - and certainly inexpensive - dried bouquets, for many years it was necessary to keep the goldenrod out of our house. Something in the bloom clusters set our daughter to sneezing within minutes after a handful had been tucked in a vase somewhere in the house. So the annual large fall bouquet of goldenrod got only as close to the house as the front porch.

Goldenrod may not even grow near the Idaho University where she and her husband are now seniors. So the yellowish weed heads arranged in a blue vase brighten a corner of the kitchen once again.

It's a poor substitute, though, for the lively presence of our kids and their friends, all having returned to college and school campuses and leaving behind a sometimes too - silent house.

Cornfields, running two weeks ahead of season and four feet short in drought-stricken growth, are changing color faster than a chameleon. Some of the earliest neighborhood stands of corn are already history, chopped and stashed in silos. Bright yellow underlies the fading, tired green of soybean plantings, maturing quickly under baking sun and short moisture.

Signs on the retail produce markets nearby are another obvious clue. Almost overnight it seems, they've switched from "strawberries" and "bedding plants" to "potatoes" and "apples." Big pots of chrysanthemums just pushing color above bushy foliage have replaced the earlier offerings of tomato seedlings and market packets of cheery petunias.

And you can bet your pie plate that pumpkins will put in their initial retail market appearance any day now.

Our garden, too, is in transition. A late planting of string beans thrives between rows of vivid-blossomed zinneas and sturdy stalks of fall cauliflower and broccoli. Tomatoes have passed their peak of harvest, but push lush second growth to prolong the picking of this homegrown favorite.

The front door's blue wreath bow almost screams for an update to something more appropriate, something in shades of ear-corn yellow or winter-squash orange. Something "fallish."

Something to camouflage the spider webs.

Farm Queen Chosen From 23 Contestants

EVA MARTIN

TIMONIUM, Md.— Kelly Jean Holland, representing Worcester County, was crowned 1991 Maryland Farm Bureau Queen at the Cow Palace, Maryland State Fair, on August 25. Kelly accepted her crown from outgoing queen Jenell Rinehart of Carroll County.

Kelly will rule over the state fair activities held at the fairgrounds through Labor Day. She will travel with State Fair leaders and be hostess to dignitaries throughout the 10-day fair. During the year, Miss Holland will represent Maryland Farm Bureau and state agriculture at various events.

Emcee John Butler, field service director for Maryland Farm Bureau, welcomed everyone to the opening event. Twenty-three contestants from every walk of farm life all over the state of Maryland took part in the two-day contest. This year, along with the traditional formal judging interviews, the contestants were judged in an informal setting in groups of four, walking around the fair, talking, and viewing projects. They were scored 25% for farm, home and community responsibilities, 25% for general appearance, 25% for speaking ability and 25% for personality and friendliness.

Each of the county queens gave a prepared speech about their farming background, 4-H, community and other events, and county history. A fish bowl question was drawn for an impromptu answer. Judging the contest were Susan Simpson, marketing representative of Virginia Department of Agriculture; Joseph Calhoun, president of Delaware Farm Bureau; Lou Sallie, representative of American Farm Bureau Federation. Music was provided by the John Cocuzzi Quartet.

Kelly lives on a poultry and grain farm near Pocomoke and has been active in 4-H for eight years. She is the 17-year-old daughter of Glenn and Jean Holland. This fall, the new queen is a senior and is active on the volleyball and tennis teams. She is also a member of Students Against Drunk Driving, National Honor Society, American Field Service and Beaver Dam Presbyterian Church.

Her 4-H activities include, Fashion Revue, rabbits, swine, camp, and public speaking. She was named Outstanding 4-H Girl for 1990 and will be inducted into 4-H All Stars in October.

Her farm chores include running errands, helping with potatoes and in the chicken houses, and caring for her 4-H project animals.

In answer to her fish bowl question about farming being a dangerous occupation and how safety can be improved, Kelly said, "Farmers need to slow down and take their time when doing chores. Farmers are under a lot of pressure. It would be ideal for farmers to have some extra help so they weren't under so much pressure." Holland will receive a $2,000 scholarship and the use of a 4-door Jimmy provided by GMC Truck.

First runner-up, Laura Kaminski and winner of $100, represented Carroll County. She lives on a livestock and grain farm near Manchester. Lisa Swann from Caroline County was second runner-up, winning $75. They raise grain on their Greensboro farm. Third runner-up, Cynthia Fell, comes from a Holstein dairy farm near Rising Sun. She represented Cecil County and received $75. From Frederick County, Vivian Stottlemyer was fourth runner-up, receiving $50. She is active on their dairy farm near Rocky Ridge.

Each of the 23 contestants received $50 and a pewter bracelet engraved with the logo of the Maryland State Fair.

Other contestants and the counties they represented were: Amy Whitacre, Allegany; Lisa Messenger, Anne Arundel; Jennifer Hoffman, Baltimore; Nicole McCready, Calvert; Jennifer Beard, Charles; Lesley Nossick, Dorchester; Rebecca Klotz, Garrett; Candace Lohr, Harford; Karen Spicer, Howard; Christine Jacquette, Kent; Diana Lerch, Montgomery; Brandie Rhodes, Prince George's; Amanda Henderson, Queen Anne's; Karen Van Ryswick, St. Mary's; Jenine Johnson, Somerset; Karen Callahan, Talbot; Carla Houser, Washington; Holly Toadvine, Wicomico.

Canning Is In Style

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Look out, Grandma. One of the most time-honored ways to cut costs in the kitchen is coming back in style.

"Canning food at home may save you half the cost of buying commercially canned products," says Thomas Dimick, senior extension aide in Penn State's College of Agriculture. "Fruits and vegetables that are handled properly and canned promptly after harvest also may be more nutritious than fresh produce sold in local stores."

Produce begins losing some of its vitamins when harvested. Nearly half of the vitamins may be lost within a few days unless the produce is cooled or preserved.

But both first-time and experienced canners run a risk of food poisoning if they attempt to preserve foods "just the way Grandma did."

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued many new research-based recommendations concerning food safety and canning," says Dimick. "If you decide to go back to basics and preserve your own food, make sure you do it safely."

Canning preserves food by removing oxygen, destroying enzymes and preventing the growth of undesirable bacteria, yeasts and molds. For safety's sake, always begin with top-quality food.

Dr. Gerald Kuhn, professor of food science, and other Penn State researchers have prepared a comprehensive publication that contains new recommendations for canning safe and better quality food at home.

"Complete Guide to Home Canning" is invaluable for people who are canning food for the first time. Experienced canners will find updated information to help them improve their practices.

The guide explains scientific principles, discusses canning equipment and describes the proper use of jars and lids. It describes basic canning ingredients and procedures and helps you decide whether or not and how much to can.

Detailed directions are included for making sugar syrups and for canning fruits, tomatoes,vegetables, red meats, poultry, seafoods, and pickles and relishes.

The guide costs $6.00 plus postage from Penn State Cooperative Extension, 200 Adams Avenue, Scranton, Pa. 18503.

PUT VARETY INTO BROWN BAG LUNCHES

Whatever the reason for carrying a lunch to work or school—convenience, necessity or to save money—the following tips will help you keep your brown bag lunches in step with the Dietary Guidelines. (Even if you are not a brown bagger, you can use this approach for any meals you plan.)

* Use a variety of foods from the major food groups.

* Keep calories in mind. Fats and sugars can quickly add more calories than you need. Lunchtime beverages and desserts are two possible sources of extra sugars and fats.

* Use only small amounts of high-fat foods, such as butter, margarine, mayonnaise, sour cream, cheese and fatty meats.

* Include foods with dietary fiber, such as vegetables, fruits, and whole grain breads.

* Choose low-sodium foods, such as fresh fruits and vegetables and lean meat and poultry, most often.

Following the Dietary Guidelines does not mean eliminating all your favorite lunch-time foods — but it does mean balancing the foods that are higher in fat, sugars, or sodium with other foods that contain less of these components.

Checklist. How does your brown bag lunch rate? Answer the following questions to see how many food groups your lunch usually includes.

HOW OFTEN DOES LUNCH CONTAIN—	Seldom or never	1-2 times a week	3-4 times a week	Almost daily
Fruits or fruit juices?
Vegetables or vegetable juice?
Enriched breads, pastas, or other grain products?
Lean meat, poultry, fish, or alternates (dry beans, peas, lentils, peanuts and eggs)?
Lowfat milk, cheese or yogurt?

Take a good look at your answers. Do your lunches include something from each of the above groups almost daily or do some of your answers fall in the seldom or never columns? Although it is not imperative that you eat something from each of the foods groups for lunch, doing so helps you meet your daily nutritional needs. For an adequate diet you should try to eat every day at least two servings of fruit, three servings of vegetables, four to five servings of breads or other grain products, two servings of lean meat, poultry, fish or alternates, and two servings of milk, cheese or yogurt. Remember smart choices for brown bag lunches can help you feel great and stay healthy.

Microwave Ideas

YORK (York Co.)— Are you looking for new ideas for using your microwave oven? Vicki Inscho, microwave consultant, has a series of them just for you. Sweet Potatoes Spud Creative Cooking

According to recent research, beta-carotene foods have a great cancer fighting potential. Five milligrams of beta-carotene a day is reported to reduce the risk of stroke and heart attacks. And the good news is that one medium sweet potato contains about 5.15 mg of beta-carotene.

Foods high in beta-carotene or vitamin A include carrots, pumpkin, apricots, cantaloupes, peaches and sweet potatoes. Dark green leafy vegetables such as spinach, kale, and broccoli are also high in beta-carotene.

In addition to being high in vitamins A and C, sweet potatoes also have a plentiful supply of potassium, fiber and minerals. A medium sweet potato has about 165 calories.

Select sweet potatoes that are firm with smooth skins. Avoid those with knobs, nicks, bruises, discolored or withered ends. Because the moisture in sweet potatoes evaporates and the sugar turns to starch, sweet potatoes should be stored in a cool, dry place for no longer than three weeks.

Unless listed otherwise, the following recipes are taken from the 3-In-1 Cookbook that has more than 900 recipes for carrots, pumpkin, and sweet potatoes. This "no frills" cookbook is available by mail order only for $10.95 plus $1.25 for postage. Send money and address to Sterling Cookbooks, P.O. Box 7016, Penndel, PA 19047.

OATMEAL SWEET POTATO BREAD

3½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2½ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 cup butter, softened
3 cups sugar
4 beaten eggs
1 16-ounce can sweet potatoes, mashed and drained
⅔ cup milk
1½ cups rolled oats
1 cup chopped nuts

Combine flour, baking soda, salt, and pumpkin pie spice. In a separate bowl, cream butter and sugar, add eggs and sweet potatoes. Alternate adding the milk and the flour mixture to the potato mixture. Stir in oats and nuts. Bake at 325 degrees in two greased loaf pans for 60 minutes. Cool in pan before removing.

SWEET POTATO CROISSANTS

1 package dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, lightly beaten
⅔ cup butter
1 cup warm mashed sweet potatoes
7 to 7½ cups flour
4 tablespoons soft butter

Dissolve yeast in warm water and stir in sugar, salt, eggs, butter, sweet potatoes, and 3½ cups flour to make a soft dough. Mix in the remaining flour until dough is stiff. Turn onto floured board and knead until smooth, about 5 minutes. Place in a greased bowl and brush top with vegetable oil. Cover with plastic and refrigerate for 2 hours. Divide dough in half and roll each half in 12-inch circle, about ¼ -inch thick. Spread with soft butter and cut into 12 triangles. Roll up beginning at rounded edge and place point underneath making a crescent. Place on baking sheet. Let rise one hour and bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 24.

SWEET POTATO PATTIES

2 cups sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed
1 cup dry bread crumbs, divided
1 egg, separated
1 tablespoon milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup water

Combine potatoes, bread crumbs, egg yolk, milk, butter, salt and pepper in a bowl, blend. Slightly beat egg white with water. Form six patties from potato mixture. Dip patties into egg white mixture then into reserved crumbs. Brown in hot oil about 1 minute. Makes 6 patties.

ORANGE CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

4 large sweet potatoes
4 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons soft butter
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
Dash cinnamon

Peel potatoes, slice ½ -inch thickness. Arrange in a buttered casserole. Microwave on high for 13 minutes or until just tender Combine together remaining ingredients. Spoon mixture over potatoes. Microwave on high, 3 to 5 minutes, stirring to glaze. Serves 4 to 6.

Sweet potatoes can be used in breads, muffins, and other baked goods. If you like to experiment, substitute mashed sweet potatoes for recipes that call for pumpkin or squash.

CANDIED YAMS

3 large sweet potatoes
4 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups dark brown sugar
⅔ cup water

Bake sweet potatoes in oven or microwave. Peel and slice. Arrange in 2-quart casserole; set aside. Combine sugar, butter, water and spices and heat on stove top or in microwave to make a glaze. Pour glaze over potatoes. Cover and bake in microwave 7 to 8 minutes or heat throughly in oven. Spoon glaze over potatoes at least once during cooking.

Leonardtown, MD

SWEET POTATO CASSEROLE

3 cups mashed sweet potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup melted butter
⅓ cup milk

Mix together all ingredients and pour into a buttered 8x8-inch baking dish Add topping:

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped nuts
⅓ cup flour
⅓ cup butter, melted

Mix, place on top of sweet potatoes and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

SWEET POTATOES & RICOTTA CHEESE

3 large sweet potatoes
2 tablespoons margarine
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, separated
1½ cups Ricotta cheese

Peel, slice, boil potatoes until soft. Mash in a bowl and blend with margarine, milk, orange rind, and seasonings. Beat egg yolk with cheese and add to bowl. Beat egg white until stiff and fold into mixture. Spread in 1½ -quart buttered casserole and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 6.

For an Asian-inspired menu, Oriental Short Rib Barbecue takes on flavor of the East with soy sauce, sesame oil, and fresh ginger marinade. The marinade tenderizes the meat and doubles as a cooking glaze, imparting a rich, succulent flavor to the meaty beef ribs. A fairly new beef cut, short ribs can be special-ordered from your meat retailer and quickly grilled in just 10 to 12 minutes.

Let your grill do the cooking with this recipe from the Beef Industry Council. The recipe is a 1988 National Beef Cook-Off Winning Recipe.

ORIENTAL SHORT RIB BARBECUE

4 pounds beef rib short ribs, cut crosswise and trimmed
⅔ cup thinly sliced green onions
½ cup soy sauce
½ cup water
¼ cup Oriental dark-roasted sesame oil
2½ tablespoons packed brown sugar
1½ tablespoons toasted sesame seeds, crushed
1 tablespoon minced garlic
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger
½ teaspoon ground red pepper
¼ teaspoon freshly ground peppercorns or black pepper
Fresh red chili peppers, green onions, and radish roses

Combine sliced green onions, soy sauce, water, sesame oil, brown sugar, sesame seeds, garlic, ginger, red pepper, and peppercorns. Place beef rib short ribs and marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 4 to 6 hours, turning occasionally. Remove ribs from marinade; reserve marinade. Place ribs on gride over medium coals. Grill 5 to 6 minutes. Turn ribs over; brush with marinade. Cover and continue cooking 5 to 6 minutes, or to desired doneness. Place ribs on platter; garnish with chili peppers, green onions, and radish roses. Serves 6.

ANSWER — Mrs. Roy Burkholder, Chambersburg, requested recipes for spaghetti squash. Thanks to Sandy Hartman, Westfield, for sending a recipe.

Baked Spaghetti Squash Dinner

1 spaghetti squash, halved lengthwise
1 pound ground beef
1 small onion
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
1 cup canned tomato sauce
½ teaspoon crumbled basil leaves

Boil halves of spaghetti squash face down in two inches of water for 20 minutes or until mildly tender. Break hamburger into small pieces and partially fry with onion, salt and pepper in butter. When cooled, remove inner shreds of spaghetti squash from both halves and mix lightly with partially cooked ground beef and tomato sauce. Add basil. Return mixture to spaghetti squash shells. Sprinkle with cheddar cheese and bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

ANSWER — Florence Middleton, Charlotte Hall, Md., requested the recipe for the starter and ingredients for Friendship Cake. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending recipes.

Brandied Friendship Fruit Starter

1 15-ounce can pineapple chunks, drained
1 16-ounce can sliced peaches, drained
1 17-ounce can apricot halves, drained
1 10-ounce jar maraschino cherries, drained
1¼ cups sugar
1¼ cups brandy

Combine all ingredients in 2-quart non-metallic bowl, stirring gently. Let stand, covered, at room temperature for 3 weeks, stirring twice a week. Serve over ice cream or pound cake, reserving 1 cup mixture for starter. Add 1 cup sugar and 1 of the fruits to starter every 1 to 3 weeks, alternating fruit each time. Let stand covered at room temperature for 3 days before serving. Serve with ice cream or pound cake. Yield, 6 cups approximately.

Friendship Cake

1 cup melted margarine
1¾ cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 cups drained brandied friendship fruit
1 cup chopped pecans
¼ cup brandied friendship fruit juice

Combine margarine and sugar in large bowl, beating until smooth. Add mixture of dry ingredients, mixing well. Blend in eggs. Chop fruit coarsely. Stir into batter, stir in pecans and juice. Pour into greased and floured pan. Bake for 1 hour. Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Garnish with confectioners sugar.

Easy Friendship Cake

1 2-layer package yellow or white cake mix
1 small package instant vanilla pudding
4 eggs
⅔ cup oil
1½ cups drained chopped brandied Friendship fruit
1 cup chopped pecans

Combine cake mix, pudding mix, eggs, and oil in mixing bowl. Mix well. Fold in fruit and pecans. Spoon into greased and floured pan. Bake for 55 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Note: do not use pudding recipe or super moist cake mix. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

ANSWER — Cindy Stahl, Lititz, requested recipes for quick-to-fix packed lunches that are not the same old sandwich and banana type. They must be nutritious, tasty enough for a preschooler and diet-minded as well. They may not be messy or require refrigeration. Thanks to a reader for sending a recipe. Readers, please send more and we will publish them.

Whole Wheat Critters

2 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup margarine
½ cup packed brown sugar
⅓ cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg

In a large bowl, stir together flours and baking powder; set aside.

In a large mixing bowl, beat margarine until creamy. Add brown sugar, honey and vanilla; beat until fluffy.

Add milk alternately with dry ingredients, beating at low speed after each addition.

Divide dough in half. Wrap in plastic wrap and chill for several hours until dough is easy to handle. Lightly flour pastry board. Roll each half of dough to ⅛ -inch thickness. Use large cookie cutters to cut out cookies.

Place on ungreased baking sheet. Prick each critter several times with fork tines.

Stir together sugar and nutmeg; sprinkle over critters. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until lightly browned on edges.

EASY STUFFED SWEET POTATOES

3 medium sweet potatoes
6 tablespoons orange yogurt
1½ tablespoons milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Prick potatoes and bake for 40 minutes at 400 degrees, until tender. Cut in half lengthwise. Carefully remove most of the pulp, but maintain the shell. In bowl, beat potatoes, yogurt, and milk until fluffy. Stuff mixture into shells. Bake in 350 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Serves 6.

HAWAIIAN SWEET POTATO

1½ tablespoons cream
3 tablespoons brown sugar
4½ tablespoons butter
6 slices pineapple
2½ cups sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed
⅓ cup scalded milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix hot sweet potatoes, scalded milk, 3 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Beat until fluffy.

In a skillet, melt 1½ tablespoons butter, brown sugar and cream, cook stirring constantly over medium heat for 3 to 4 minutes. Add sliced pineapples, heat and glaze on both sides. Pile sweet potato mixture onto glazed pineapple rings. Serves 6.

FILLED SWEET POTATO COOKIES

⅔ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk

Cream butter and sugar. Beat in egg and vanilla. Add dry ingredients and milk. Blend well. Divide dough in half. Chill for one hour. Roll out dough to ⅛ -inch thickness. Cut cookies with 2½ -inch cookie cutter. Place half the cookies on greased cookie sheet. Spread spoonfuls of raisin filling on cookie; top with another cookie. Seal edges with a fork. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in 350 degree oven.

Raisin filling: Combine 1 cup mashed sweet potatoes, 4 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons maple syrup, 2 teaspoons pumpkin spice, ½ cup raisins, ¼ teaspoon salt. Cook over medium heat for 5 minutes or more until thick. Cool. Fill cookies. Makes 2½ dozen.

SWEET POTATO BARS

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon baking soda
4 medium eggs
2 cups cooked mashed sweet potatoes
1⅔ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup oil
1 cup chopped pecans

Blend together all ingredients with mixer. Spread dough in ungreased oblong pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Top with cream cheese frosting:

3 ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar

MERINGUED SWEET POTATO PIE

1¼ cups sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed ⅔ cup sugar
½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup flaked coconut
6 tablespoons margarine, melted
½ teaspoon lemon extract
2 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup sugar
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Combine sweet potatoes, sugar, evaporated milk, coconut, margarine, lemon extract, and eggs. Spoon into pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes or until set. Meringue:

Beat egg whites until foamy; add ¼ cup sugar, one tablespoonful at a time. Add vanilla, beating until stiff. Spread meringue over cool pie. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes until golden brown.

EASY-GLAZED SWEET POTATO COOKIES

⅔ cup margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup cooked mashed sweet potatoes
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla

In bowl, cream butter and sugar, gradually beat in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonful on greased cookie sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes in 350 degree oven. Cool on rack. Frost with orange glaze:

4 tablespoons hot orange juice
1½ tablespoons soft butter
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 cups powdered sugar

Blend together ingredients in a bowl.

SWEET POTATO APPLE SQUARES

4 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 apple, peeled and grated
1 medium sweet potato, peeled and grated
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

In bowl, cream butter and sugars. Stir in egg, apple, potatoes, vanilla and nuts. Stir in flour, baking soda, salt and spice; blend well. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Cool. Cut into squares. Serves 9.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Barb Minich of Shermansdale requested a recipe for tuna casserole that contains Monterey Jack cheese, pimento, and Bisquick. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending a recipe that she received from the Bisquick Company.

Saucy Tuna Bake

2 cups Bisquick
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
½ cup cold water
1 6½ -ounce can tuna, drained
1 2¼ ounce sliced ripe olives, drained
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 2-ounce jar diced pimento, drained
1 can condensed cream of celery soup
¼ cup milk

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Grease square baking dish. Mix Bisquick, ½ cup cheese, and water until soft dough forms. Beat vigorously (20 strokes by hand). Pat dough with floured hands, pressing ½ -inch up sides of pan.

Mix tuna, olives, celery, onion, pimento, and ¼ cup soup. Spread over dough. Bake until edges are light brown, about 15 minutes.

Heat remaining soup, cheese, and milk over medium heat, stirring occasionally until hot. Serve over casserole. Serves 6 to 8.

Contest Winners Attend Pittsburgh Pirates Game

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Five dairy farm families were recently treated to a Pittsburgh Pirates game, compliments of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. The five youth not only attended the game, but also visited with Jay Bell, the Pirate's star shortstop.

The five winners, Dianna Strate of Dayton, Tara Myers of Newburg, B.J. Dickey of Espyville, Lisa Yoder of Salisbury, and Anna June Calhoun, of Dayton, submitted an entry in the PDPP's "Baseball and Ice Cream" contest. Each winner recieved a growth chart featuring Bell and enjoyed box seats at the Pirates game against the Atlanta Braves. Their families also enjoyed the game and complimentary Pennsylvania Dairy baseball caps.

"We wanted some of the state's dairy youth to visit with our outstanding spokesman and also see the National League's best baseball team in action," said Brian Ross, PDPP program manager. "We hope that more youngsters will get to visit with Bell during the coming months."

The winning entries follow, each telling why baseball and ice cream are America's favorite summer pastimes.

Submitted by Dianna Strate, age 9, Dayton: Ice cream can be eaten in many different ways. You make milkshakes, floats, sundaes, banana splits, or just eat it plain. It cools you off on a hot day and is fun to make in the wintertime. It is a good nutritious dairy food.

Going to a baseball game is a fun time to relax and to be with your family. It's exciting to watch and cheer for your favorite team. I like to watch the Pittsburgh Pirates play and cheer for Andy Van Slyke.

Submitted by Tara Myers, age 5, Newburg: I like ice cream because it cools you down in the summer. Baseball, because I go and see my cousin Stevie play Little Liague games and it's fun.

Submitted by B.J. Dickey, age 11, Espyville: Baseball and ice cream are two of summer's favorite pastimes because you could be watching an exciting game but you get bored because it's so hot. Then you get an ice cream cone and get refreshed and cooled off. Then, you get back into the game.

You hear CRACK! You look up and there is a baseball coming at you. You pull up your mitt and close your eyes. THUMP! You caught R.J. Reynolds' home run ball. WOW! You got a major League game ball.

But that is not all that baseball and ice cream are good for. How you ask? In baseball, you run and excercise. When you eat ice cream, you get nutrients that are good for your body.

Submitted by Lisa Yoder, age 14, Salisbury: Baseball and ice cream are America's favorite summer pastimes, and each has its own reasons why.

Baseball is a sport that is relatively easy to understand and quite enjoyable to watch or play. The professional season is long, but because each game is different, it's also exciting. The same teams and players play almost every day. Because of this, a person can get to "know" individual players. You can follow your favorite team and watch all of the spectacular plays made by your favorite players. One person who deserves to be watched is Jay Bell, shortstop for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and spokesman for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. He promotes dairy products like milk and ice cream.

Ice cream is an inexpensive and healthy food that also tastes good to the taste buds. It comes in many flavors so there is something for everyone. Ice cream tastes good ANYTIME during the summer, whether it be for breakfast, dinner, supper, or just a snack to cool off with while watching a "hot" baseball game, or after playing in one!

Submitted by Anna June Calhoun, age 14, Dayton:Baseball games and ice cream are as American as homemade apple pie. We enjoy them from childhood to old age. Baseball is one game that we learn early in life because it can be played in the backyard. Dad is always ready to play catch.

Ice cream is a favorite snack. Mom permits it to be eaten because she says, "It's good for you," but you know how delicious and cold it is on a hot summer afternoon.

As we get older and educated, we want to be physically and mentally fit through exercise and good nutrition. We love to play ball, just two kids or a whole team - good physical workout- or we can enjoy our leisure by watching a game - a mental break from the daily routine. After a game we enjoy a snack - nutritious ice cream does a body good.

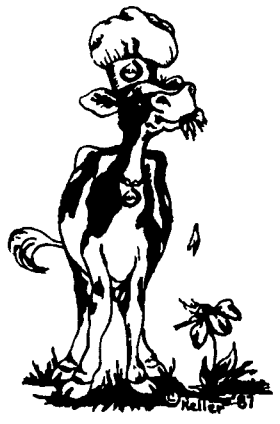
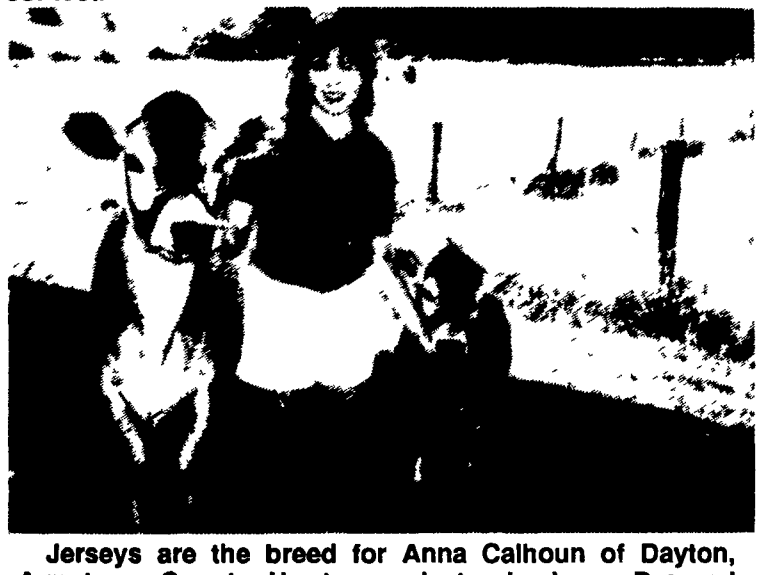
Hot summer days, a ballgame to play or watch and ice cream, the American way of life. That is why ice cream and baseball are America's favorite summmer pastimes.





Jerseys are the breed for Anna Calhoun of Dayton, Armstrong County. Her two project animals are Pea and Nikki.

Hi!

My name is Elizabeth Stahl. I am five years old. I will be going to kindergarten soon and I'm sure I'll like it, too. In fact, I can't wait! I'll be going to White Oak Elementary School, which is about one mile from where I live.

I drew a picture of the barn and animals at my house. I have a dog named "Cookie." I used to have a rabbit, but it ran away. I have 8 chickens that lay eggs. I used to have two more chickens but they died when we moved. I have 10 ducks, 4 geese, and 2 rooster peeps. I wish I could have a horsey, but my dad and mom think that I'm too little yet.

In March, I'm going to have a baby brother or sister. Then I'll play with him and show him all my animals.

That's it for now. I would like other kids my age to write letters to me.

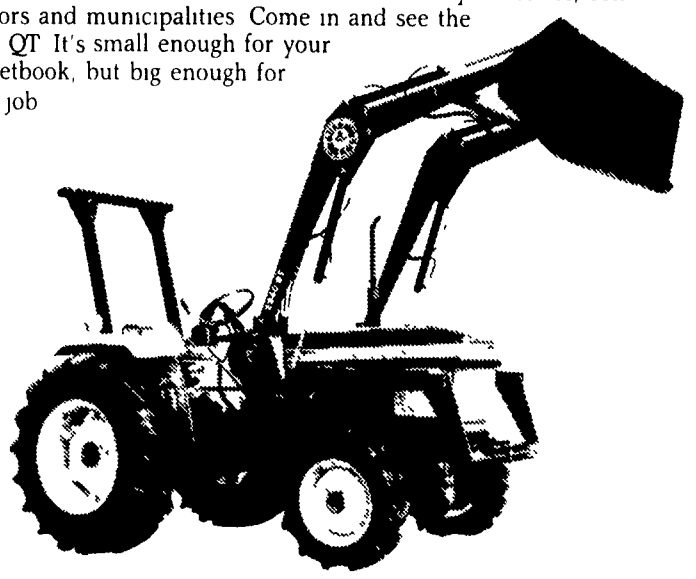
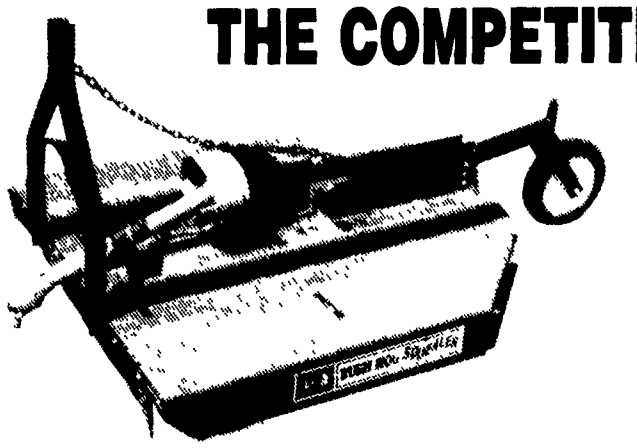
THE SMALLER-SIZED LOADER WITH A HEFTY LIFTING CAPACITY.

Bush Hog's 2240 QT Front End Loader gives you a hefty lifting capacity at an affordable price It's recommended for 2 and 4-wheel drive tractors with 15 to 30 hp—yet it will lift 1000 pounds to a height of over 8 feet Breakaway capacity is 1500 pounds and the 2240 QT will attach to over 60 tractor models 48 and 60-inch material buckets are available for use with the loader It's an ideal choice for dozens of uses by nurseries, contractors and municipalities Come in and see the 2240 QT It's small enough for your pocketbook, but big enough for your job



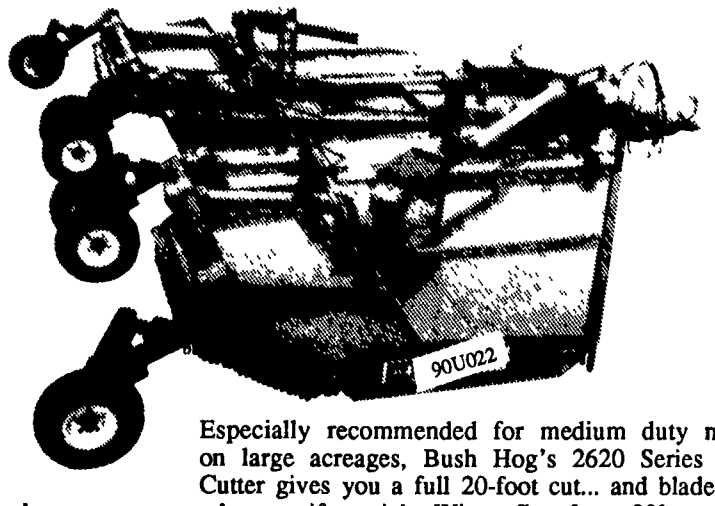
WHY BUSH HOG SQUEALERS MOW DOWN THE COMPETITION.



There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with Bush Hog's tough, patented gearbox. All models except the 42 inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans, and the 60 and 72 inch wide models have an "in-line" shear bolt with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap An optional slip clutch is available

The second reason for the Squealer's popularity is price Select any of five models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition With a true price and quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition

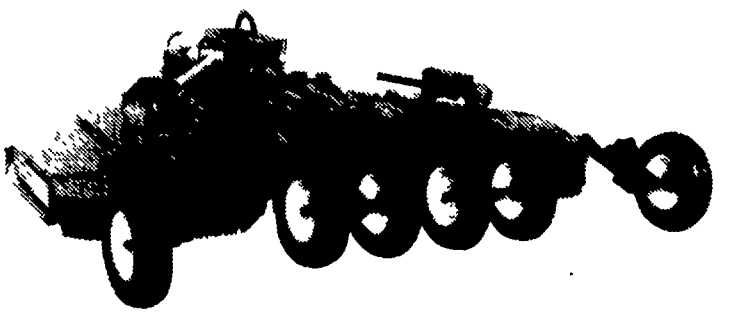
A ROTARY CUTTER FOR THE LARGEST CUTTING JOBS.



Especially recommended for medium duty mowing on large acreages, Bush Hog's 2620 Series Rotary Cutter gives you a full 20-foot cut... and blades overlap 6 inches to assure a clean, uniform job. Wings flex from 90° up to 22° down during operation, so work on uneven terrain is no problem. Spring-loaded axle assemblies provide shock absorption at each axle arm for added protection in rough cutting conditions.

Features include 540 or 1000 rpm heavy duty gear boxes, level lifting of center and wing units and a choice of round or straight blade holders.

STOP BEATING THE BUSHES.



One of the toughest big cutters on the market, Bush Hog's 15-foot 3615 Flex-Wing Rotary Cutter was developed for heavy duty cutting chores on rugged terrain. It cuts material up to 3 inches thick and operates from 90° up to 22° down. Spring-loaded axle assemblies and heavy duty slip clutches are standard equipment. A minimum 80 hp tractor is recommended.

Features include level lifting of center and wing units, a narrow profile tongue for better turning radius and specially designed, heavy duty gear boxes. So if you've been beating the bushes and need a really tough rotary cutter, hitch the Bush Hog 3615 to your tractor. You'll make those bushes, stalks, grass and saplings virtually disappear.

Horseradish Roots Success On Paradise Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — When you drive down the lane to Sam Stoltzfus's place on the edge of Paradise, you can sniff the pungent aroma of horseradish. Two acres of dark green horseradish leaves rustle in the breeze. The leaves, that grow about the height of tobacco, are not used to make the seasoning traditionally served with roast beef and other meat and egg dishes. Instead, it's the potent-flavored root of horseradish that is ground and mixed with vinegar, salt, and sugar to make what people recognize as horseradish.

Stoltzfus said, "Horseradish is a good crop you can grow without much capital. The profits are similar to tobacco's."

Growing horseradish is labor intensive. But, that isn't a hardship for Stoltzfus whose wife and nine children help in the different stages of growing, harvesting, preparing, and marketing the relish.

Growing horseradish was something Stoltzfus always associated with his grandmother who grew a couple of plants in her garden. It wasn't until he moved to his 40-acre Paradise farm about 15 years ago that he realized there was a market for it.

"We needed some extra income to supplement the dairy," Stoltzfus said. He thinks growing horseradish is an ideal crop because the root can be left in the ground or stored until winter months before making the relish. That means Stoltzfus can concentrate on raising rye, corn, and alfalfa during the growing season, and turn to horseradish when work isn't as hectic.

At first, Stoltzfus grew the root for a local co-op. "But I soon found out there were other ways of marketing," Stoltfus said.

Now, he direct markets most of the crop to New York City where the demand is especially heavy during Jewish holidays. His wife and daughters mix and bottle the horseradish in four different sizes, and their horseradish is sold in several local stores and markets.

Horseradish has a dark green foliage that is similar to tobacco in height.

"This year, we are processing about half the crop at home," Stoltzfus estimated. "We process it as it is ordered. Since it is fresh with no preservatives, we can't make it too far ahead of time."

In the spring, shoots are broken from the main root and started in the soil. About 1,000 pounds of nitrogen are added to the ground in the spring and July.

Although the ground is sprayed, Stoltzfus said that he finds that isn't adequate so "we get out with the hoe."

In the fall, most of the horseradish roots are harvested with a potato digger and loaded in a wagon. The load is sorted with the biggest roots sent to New York buyers who use it as grinding stock in processing plants. Some of the roots are stored in the barn during the winter, or, if the weather is warm, in a cooler at 45 degrees.

Some of the crop is left in the ground until March. "Horseradish grows in "fire" during the winter," Stoltzfus said.

While many crops were adversely affected by the dry weather this year, Stolzfus said that it was ideal growing conditions for horseradish. "If it's too wet, horseradish gets hollow roots. It's better for it to be dry during the June to July growing season and have a little rain in August.

Stoltzfus estimates that his two acres produce about 12,000 to 16,000 pounds of horseradish.

In addition to growing horseradish and milking 40 Holsteins, the Amish family builts gazebos, doghouse, wooden bridges, and kit gazebos for do-it-yourselfers. They ship them to many states.

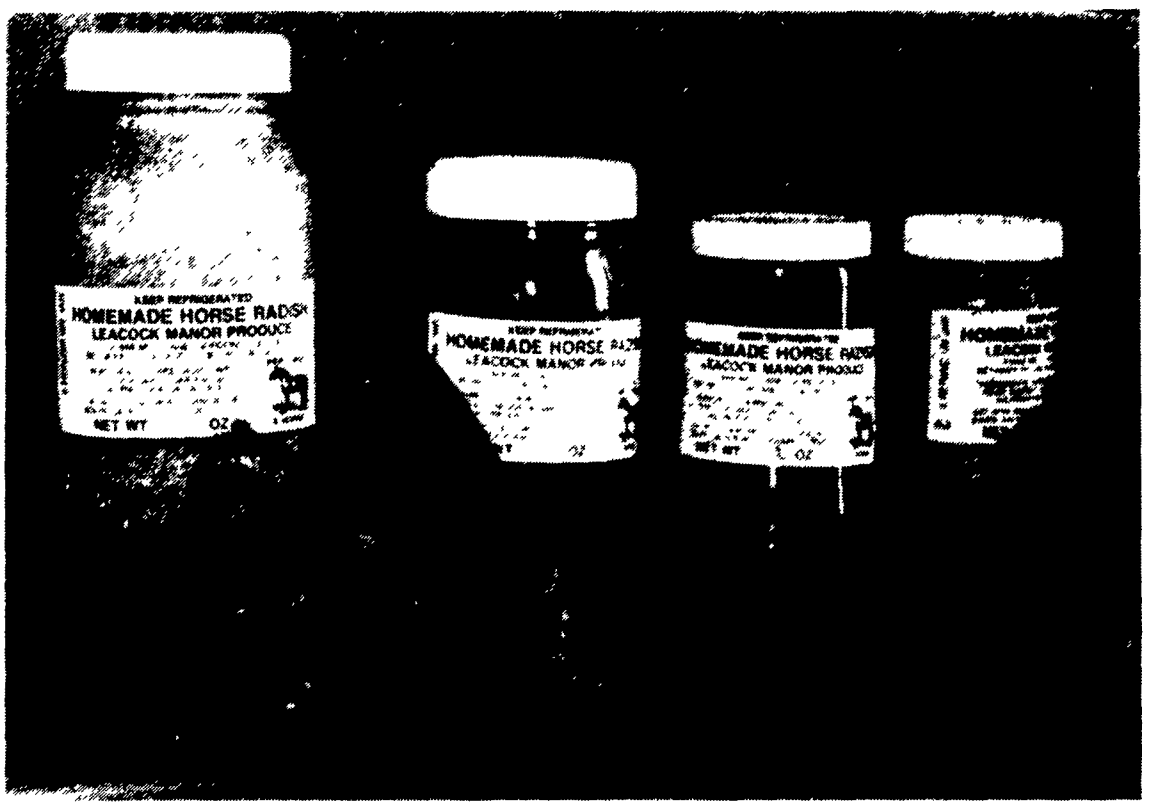
The Stoltzfus family may be contacted by writing Leacock Manor Produce, 3184A Mill Lane, Gordonville, or drive to their farm located between Route 340 and Route 30 on Leacock Road.

The Stoltzfus family processes the horseradish under the label Leacock Manor Produce. They use a recipe that has been handed down through the generations. Although the following recipe is not from Leacock Manor Produce, it is one that can be used by those who grown their own horseradish.

PICKLED HORSERADISH SAUCE

2 cups freshly grated horseradish
1 cup white vinegar
½ teaspoon canning or pickling salt
¼ teaspoon powdered ascorbic acid

Wash horseradish roots thoroughly and peel off brown outer skin. The peeled roots may be grated in a food processor or cut into small cubes and put through a food grinder. Combine ingredients and fill sterile jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Seal jars tightly and store in refrigerator.



The Stoltzfus family uses a horseradish recipe handed down through the generation to bottle the relish in four different sizes. It is marketed under the name Leacock Manor Produce and sold in local markets and stores.

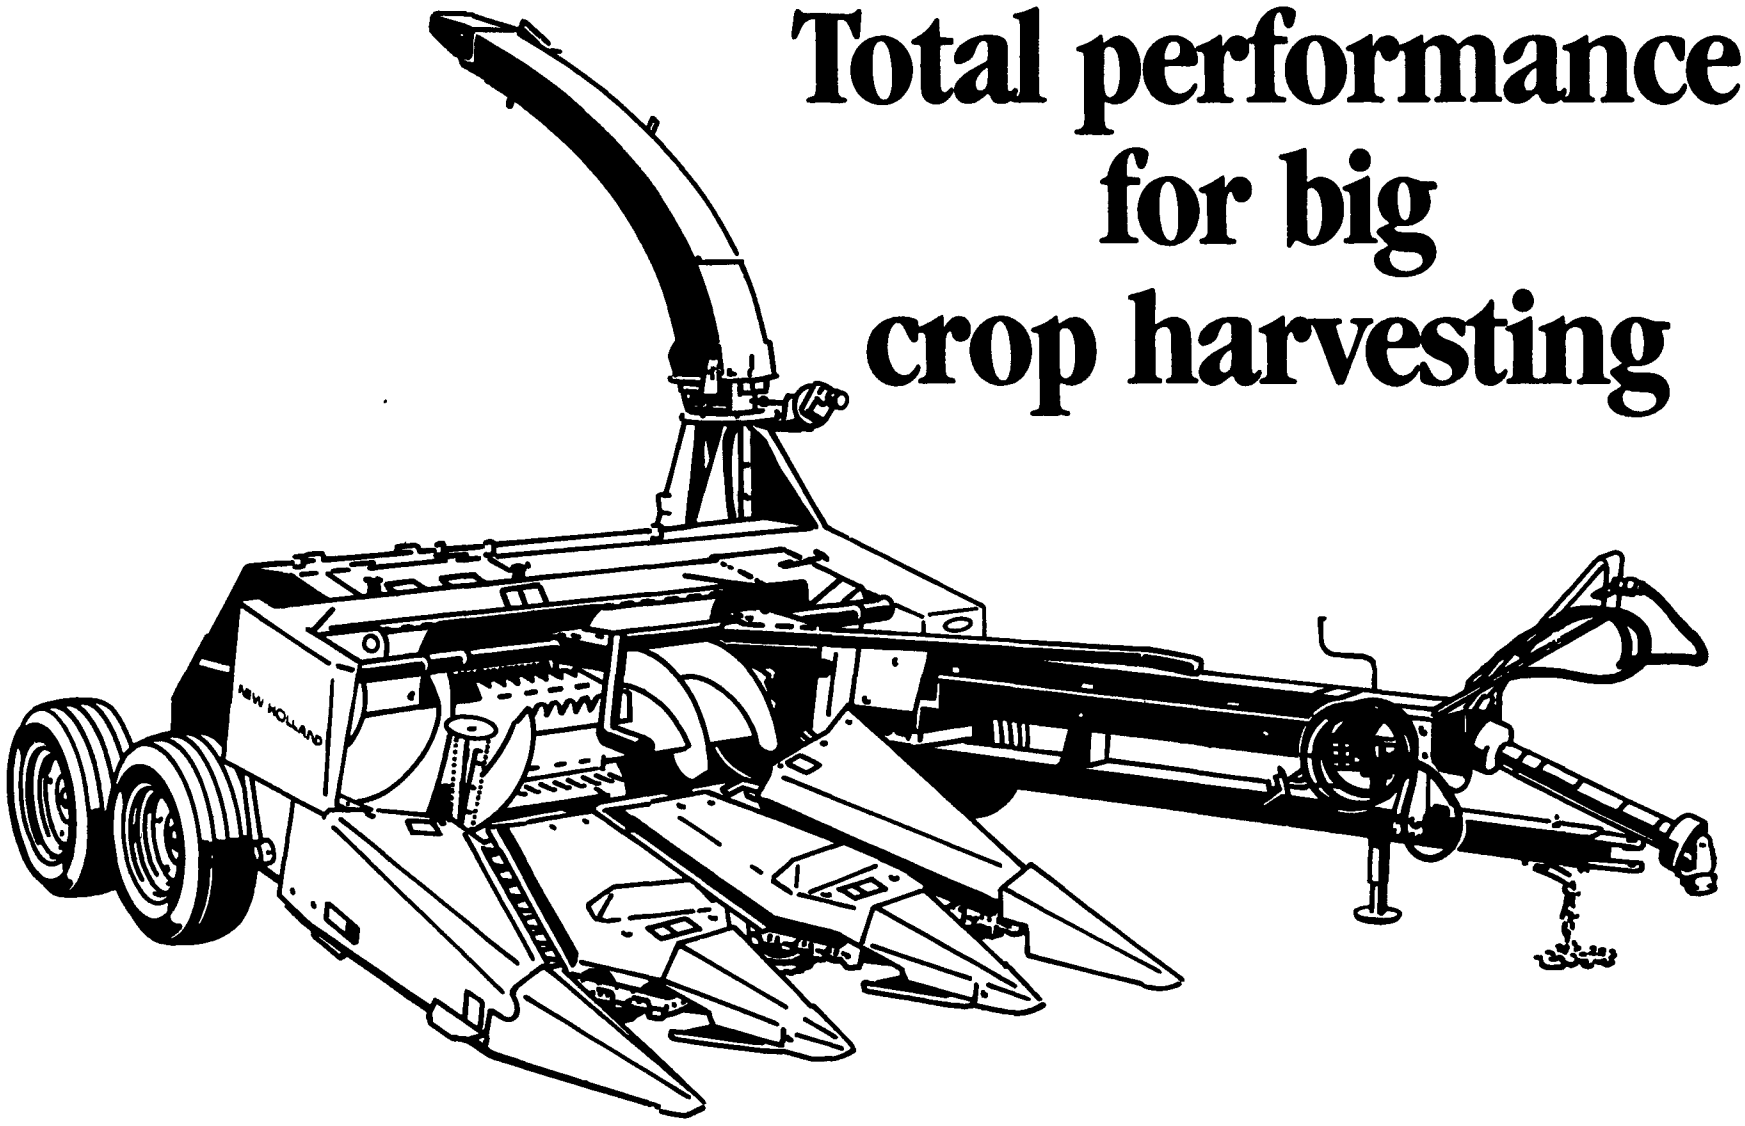
Total performance for big crop harvesting



You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester. Total performance begins at the cutterhead. The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut, high-quality forage. Other features on the "900" include:

- Optional Metalert II® electronic metal detector—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise.

Stop in soon and see the Model 900.

Baked Goods Auctioned For Charity

Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — For the second consecutive year a Somerset County charity was the recipient of proceeds from an auction of the baked goods entered in the county fair competition.

Selected this year to receive the donation was the Somerset County Unit of the American Cancer Society. It was represented by Pamela Tokar Ickes when the check, amounting to $471, was presented by Somerset County Fair Queen Lucinda Lape. The 1990 recipient was the Somerset County Kids In Need organization.

Bill Arnold and Scott Mostoller, auctioneers, kept the bidding moving rapidly. They stood on the bed of a pickup truck while the onlookers gathered around.

A Hershey Chocolate contest was also held in conjunction with the county fair. The categories were for cakes and cookies.

Margaret Ackerman of Meyersdale had the winning cake out of 16 entries. Judy Mankamyer, Somerset, placed second, while Esther Mishler of Hollsopple placed third.

Jennifer Black of Boswell won the cookie competition and was followed by Anthony Werts, Boswell, second, and Jill Fox of Berlin, third.

Cash prizes went to first and second place winners. Third place contestants received cookbooks.

Both first place winners are eligible to compete in the state Hershey Chocolate Contest to be held during the 1992 Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg in January, to win a weekend at the Hershey Hotel.

This contest was co-sponsored by the Hershey Foods Corporation and the Pennsylvania Association of County Fairs.

The fast pace of the auction kept women busy refilling the table with baked goods for the auctioneer to sell.

Small Business Seminar

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Are you thinking about starting a small business, or expanding and improving your small business? Different Faces Of Roadside Markets

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Roadside markets dot Lancaster County roads. From a wagonload of cantaloupes parked along a bare stretch of highway to enclosed buildings with air conditioning, these markets offer county-grown produce with freshness that can't be beat.

Farmers, gardeners, and a few buyers are cashing in on the traffic that passes their doorsteps. And, if the grower doesn't live near a heavily traveled road, he can always pull a wagonload of produce alongside a highway.

On a sunny August day, these wagonloads are usually attended by a teenager sitting in the hot sun or underneath the shadow of an umbrella.

If business is not booming, the farmer can always try a different location, but many roadside markets have built up their clientel over the years.

One of the most basic qualities of the roadside markets seems to be the involvement of the whole family affairs. The "men" in the family generally do the growing and the picking while the "women" do the selling and add baked goods and crafts to the assortment of produce. Extended family members often lend a hand during the busy times.

For five years, Earl Hoover has operated his roadside stand underneath the bountiful shade of hugh maple trees on his farm located along Route 322 east of Ephrata. This year, his 13-year-old niece Jane Hoover is tending the stand. Nieces, Anna Hoover, 9, and Susie Hoover, 8, wash the dishes used for baking while, according to the girls, "The boys pick the cantaloupes."

Some roadside stands are as simple as a wagonload of watermelons. However, this wagonload is part of the roadside stand of Earl Hoover, Ephrata. Cousins Susie Hoover and Anna Hoover are eager to sell melons.

Rachel Esh, Country Kitchen Bake Shop, Leola, operates this stand on Forest Hill Road, Leola. The stand features produce in season and an assortment of baked goods and crafts. The produce is purchased from neighboring farms and at auction. The stand operates from 7 a.m. to evening and Saturday 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Photo by Andy Andrews.

Anna Hoover, 9, and Susie Hoover, 8, stack corn while Jane, 13, watches over the stand in the background. The roadside stand, located along Route 322 east of Ephrata is owned by Earl Hoover.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women 8 met on August 14 at Rock Point Park, Maytown, for a family picnic.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon Farm Women Society 20 met at the home of Carol Hershey for the August meeting. Nineteen members responded to roll call by naming their favorite fruit. The program for the evening was tooty-fruity. Members were given eight different fruits to sample and identify.

President Linda Himmelberger reported on the County Board meeting. Family Living programs are available.

The Lebanon County Farm Woman program will be held at the Kenbrook Bible Camp on October 9. The speaker will be Mrs. Pearson.

The next meeting will be September 9, at Linda Himmelberger's home.

Berks Society 6

Berks Society of Farm Women Group #6 met in the home of Erma Bauer, president. Joan Biehl, Kutztown, demonstrated painting techniques using acrylic on canvas.

Members attending answered the roll call question -- Do you do any painting? The nominating committee for election of officers in October is Dorothy Wagner and Mary Jane Hetrick.

Members and their families enjoyed a picnic at the Boyertown Park.

The next meeting will be a tour of an Herb Garden followed by a meeting and refreshment at Bonanza.

Berks Executive Board

The Berks County Farm Women Executive Board meeting was held recently at the home of president, Joan Loeb, with 20 members in attendance. A picnic preceded the meeting.

President Joan Loeb opened the meeting.

Joan Andris of Group #10 gave the devotions.

For roll call, members told whether or not they had any hollyhocks growing at home and what color they are. Members also told what they brought along to eat at the picnic.

Janet Schlegel reported on the Agri-Businessw meeting. The Farm-City Banquet will be held on November 7 at the Riveredge at 7:00 P.M.

Doris Brown reported on the success of the Scenic River Festival. Berks County Farm Women displayed a map of Berks County showing where the Farm Women groups were located and also pictures of each group were displayed.

Berks Heim Bingo willo be held on November 12 at 7:00 P.M. at the Annex.

The Berks County Farm Women Convention will be held on Saturday, October 5, at Haag's Hotel in Shartlesville. Deadline to purchase tickets is September 20.

Two groups expressed interest in helping at the Reading Fair September 16 through September 21.

Following the meeting, Farm Women cookbooks were distributed.

The next Board meeting will be held on November 4 at the Agriculture Center.

There is a registration fee of $20 and the deadline is September 25. To register, contact Becky Scotland at the Extension office, 696-3500.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We haven't been traveling very much lately and yet I almost feel us though I spent a week in Florida.

You see, five of our six children and their families managed to take a week's vacation at the same time. They rented a large house on St. George Island and used part of it — eight bedrooms and four baths plus two living rooms and two kitchens. They flew in from all over the country to be together.

Our son, Philip, and his family were not able to go as the cows, heifers, and calves had to be tended. It seems that a farmer and his wife are practically "tied" to the farm. I should know as Allen and I ran the dairy farm for some 40 years.

But now to tell you why I feel as though I was in Florida last month. Our son, Kenneth, who lives in Memphis, Tennessee, gave us a VCR and sent us a video tape of their vacation. It was one hour and 45 minutes long and showed the families on the beach, in the water, and eating their meals.

I'm thinking that it was not much of a vacation for the parents, but the nine grandchildren had a wonderful time. Five of them are under three years old and surely kept the adults busy. The older ones will surely remember playing together in the house as I hear they had two day of rain.

It hasn't been any vacation this summer for my husband or myself as he tries to get all of the trim for the windows and doors in the new house stained. Meanwhile I freeze sweet corn, make applesauce and try to keep the weeds from taking over in my garden. Today I shall pick the Concord grapes and can some juice.

In And Out The Window

LANSING, MI — You can improve your view by adding plants-inside and out: an outside window box brimming with bright blooms-with an inside windowsill garden of potted plants.

The Professional Plant Growers Association, whose members supply both indoor and outdoor blooming plants, offers these tips to transform your boring windows into showcases of blooming beauty with a little ingenuity and a trip to the lumber yard.

To make skinny indoor sills wide enough to hold fat plants, buy a board as long as your existing sill and wide enough to accommodate your favorite plants so the leaves don't touch the window. (This can damage plants when the panes get winter cold.) Place the board on top of the existing sill and secure it with screws.

To support this shelf, use two 1 x 2" boards, cut at a 45-degree angle at each end. Screw one end under the away-from-the-window edge of your new shelf; screw the other end into the wall. The sturdiest choice for the wall is a "butterfly" toggle bolt which has "wings" that open up inside the wall to hold it securely after it's screwed in. You may be able to find metal shelf brackets at your local hardware store that could substitute for these 1 x 2" board supports.

While you're at the hardware store, check out the pre-fab shelving systems that use metal strips with holes for support brackets. A strip on either side of your window, lets you add shelves all the way up for a totally plant-filled window. (This is a useful suggestion if your neighbor's garage is particularly ugly.)

As for the outside window box — it's just a box the width of your window — not too difficult for a handy do-it-yourselfer to manage. Be sure to include sturdy supports underneath. If you must have a specific building plan, check your local library for books that specialize in window gardens.

Plastic planter-liners, available from local garden centers, will increase the life of your window box-although you can plant directly into the box itself. You can also leave plants in their pots so you can change them easily as the season progresses. Take your plans and measurements (of both your window and the pots or liner) to your local lumber yard.

When buying wood and hardware, think weatherproof. Your dealer can help you choose woods that will last, such as cedar and redwood, or those treated for outdoor use. Ask if the wood preservatives used are toxic to plants. Using a plastic liner will reduce plants' exposure to this possible hazard.

Don't forget the all-important drainage holes. This is especially important outdoors where Mother Nature can dump in an extra supply of water when you don't really need it. Waterlogged roots make for sickly plants-rather than the blooming beauties you've planned for your window showcase.

On the other hand, make sure plants get enough water. Like all outdoor containers, window boxes can dry out quickly. Check the soil daily and when the surface feels dry, water thoroughly until the water drips out of those drainage holes. You may be able to roll up self-storing screens and water from indoors.

After your set-up is complete, comes the fun part: choosing the plants. Start by evaluating the light at your outdoor window-box site.

If it's sunny most of the day, you can choose from the wide assortment of sun-loving annual flowers such as geraniums, marigolds, petunias, verbenas and zinnias. If it's sunny half the day or less, choose from such shady favorites as impatiens, begonias, coleus, lobelias, pansies and torenias. Many garden centers have plants labeled according to light requirements.

If you keep your window-box plants in their pots, you can rotate color throughout the season, moving from spring bulbs to summer annuals to autumn mums, cornflowers, pansies, snapdragons, sweet alyssum, flowering cabbage or kale. These frost-tolerant plants can thrive all winter in southern climates.

Indoors, choose from a variety of long-lasting foliage plants as a green "frame" to set off the colorful flowering plants outside. Light is a factor for your indoor garden shelf, too. Unshaded southern-facing windows are the brightest. Outdoor shade from nearby trees — or a garage — can create low-light windows. Many foliage plants are tagged according to their light requirements. Ask at your garden center.

You can go for color indoors, too. Especially during the winter when the outdoor annuals will be on vacation-in northern climates at least. Popular indoor flowering plants are African violets, various types of begonias, calceolaria, chrysanthemums, cyclamen, episcia, exacum, kalanchoe, Christmas cactus, cineraria, gloxinia and various spring bulb plants. Most indoor flowering plants prefer a bright light location.

Once you've got your window outfitted for plants-inside and out-the possibilities are endless. The view is always better when it's colorful, living and growing-and you did it yourself!

Property Management Taught

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in Chester County is sponsoring a three-part seminar series on Residential Property Management for Part-time Landlords on Mondays, September 23 and 30, October 7, 7:00-9:30 p.m. at the municipal building, 401 E. Gay Street, West Chester.

Robert J. Thee, extension agent/housing and environment, will conduct the program which will cover the most important aspects of managing residential rental property, including tenant selection and the Fair Housing Act; leases, tenant relations; dealing with district court; marketing your units; what housing codes and regulations you need to know; maintenance and upkeep procedures; establishing costs and rental fees; taxes and recordkeeping. Speakers will include local management consultants, a code enforcement officer, a district justice, an accountant, and experienced landlords.

Space is limited so register early. Registration fee is $12 and the deadline is September 16. For further information, contact the Extension office at (215) 696-3500.

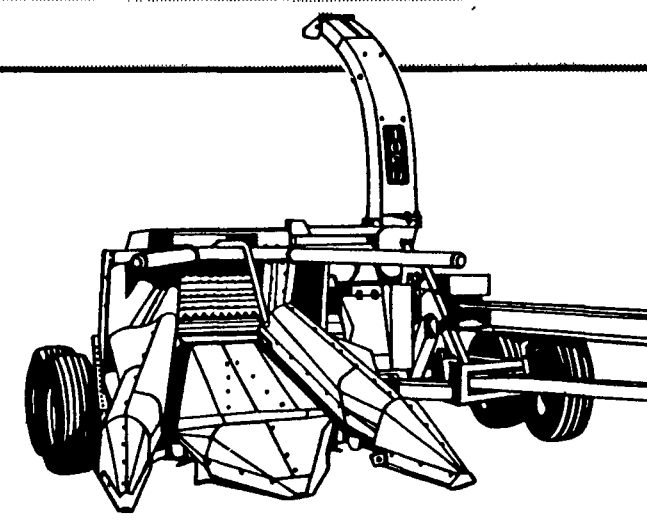
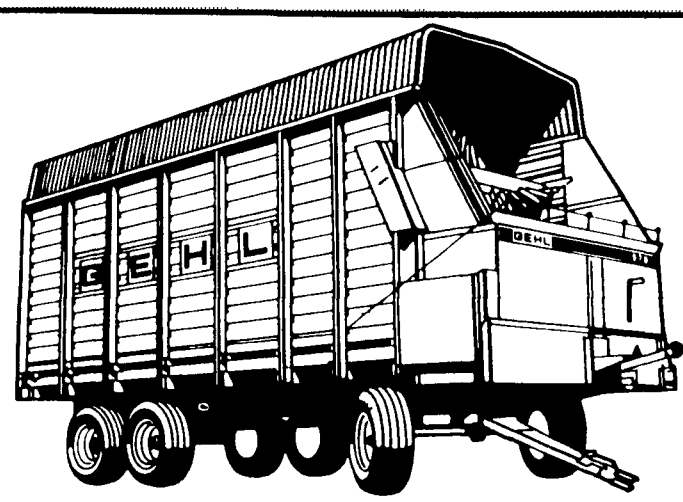
GEHL®

Versatility Champ!

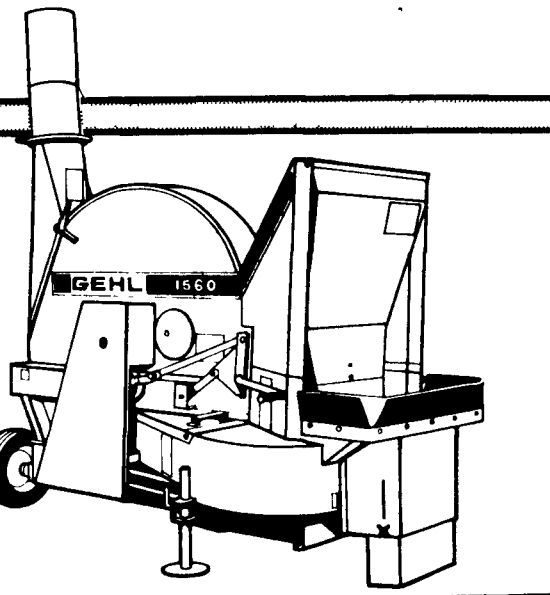
With a horsepower rating for maximum 200 hp, the Gehl 1060 features exclusive patented spinner delivery system that "jets" material from cylinder to blower in a continuous flow. Other features include overrunning clutch; in-head hydraulic knife sharpener that allows in-field knife sharpening and refacing of cutterbar, using tractor hydraulics; and single-station cutterbar adjustment. Auto-Max system, speed monitor, metal detector, haylage water tank optional! It's totally versatile! Make us prove it with a demonstration.





High Capacity...Fast Unloading

The Gehl 970 Series self-unloading forage box is a winner! You can't beat it for unloading speed, capacity, strength, ease of maintenance—and price! Ten-year warranty on sides, endgate, stakes and platform tells you a lot about its superior construction And the optional Even-Feed third beater plus a wide 23½ -inch cross conveyor give you the speed and capacity you're looking for. Available in five sizes. Stop in and look one over today!



Unparalleled Performers

The ultimate forage blowers are here - the Gehl 1540, 1560 and 1580. These blowers have been developed around the high capacity tradition of famous Gehl blowers. In addition to unmatched capacity, these blowers boast many convenience features - swing-away blower outlet, removable tunnel covers, replaceable rim sheet liner, adjustable left axle, quick-adjust air vents, PTO storage hanger and more. PUT A GEHL BLOWER TO THE TEST ON YOUR FARM TODAY!

4-H HAPPENINGS

Successful 4-H Roundup

The 1991 Chester County 4-H Roundup was held recently at Warwick County Park. The activity was a huge success thanks to 4-H'ers, parents, judges, leaders, and staff.

In the morning, judges had the difficult task of choosing the winning projects from the 141 entries in 28 project areas.

While judging was in progress, some of the 4-H'ers participated in an orienteering contest while others were involved in the Seeing Eye Puppy Roundup.

During the afternoon achievement program, 4-H'ers enjoyed presentations by Noel Scheib, Amy Hewitt, and Lauri Sheibley.

Following is a list of placings.

York Co. Swine Roundup

The York County 4-H Swine members held their first annual Swine Roundup and Sale recently at Weikert's Buying Station near Thomasville.

The 4-H members showed and sold a total of 86 head of market swine. Average weight was 231.51 pounds with the champions and 231.07 pounds without the champions. Average price was $85.48 per hundred weight with champions and $80.22 per hundred weight without the champions.

The swine member's show was judged by Keith Bryan from Penn State University, where he coaches the College Livestock Judging Team. Bryan selected the 250-pound pig of first year member Jennifer Flinchbaugh, York as his grand champion of the show. The reserve grand champion honors were garnished by the 250-pound pig owned by Robin Shive of Seven Valleys.

The champion pair competition was won by Kim Frantz, Seven Valleys. The reserve champion pair was picked up by Kim's brother Jason.

Senior champion and reserve senior champion were also the grand and reserve champion Jerseys.

In the Holstein division, judge Gary Bixler, Sire Power sire consultant, awarded the junior champion to a junior yearling, Tall Spruce Berhill out of Tall Spruce Beray, sired by Sire Buck and shown by Melissa Ann Dunn. Reserve junior champion went to Alicia LaRosa showing a summer yearling, High Hart Lester Rang Ares.

the senior champion was awarded to Raylene Rouse showing her 4-year-old Rusholme Missie Deede and senior reserve went to Melanie Hottenstein showing a dry cow, Mist Crest Mark Patti, out of a Patience daughter sired by Walkway Chief Mark. The grand champion and reserve grand champion went to the senior and reserve senior champion shown by Raylene Rouse and Melanie Hottenstein.

In the junior showmanship contest, first went to Francis Lambert, second went to Melissa Dunn, and third went to Jessica Lambert.

In intermediate showmanship, first went to Jamie Bagley, second went to Amy Warburton, and third to Stephanie Pardoe.

In the senior division, first went to Melanie Hottenstein, second went to Nolan Chase, and third with to Ross Ayers.

4-H, FFA Livestock Sale Sees Record Participation

The Perry County 4-H and FFA Youth Livestock Sale was held on Saturday, August 24 at the fairgrounds near Newport.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the livestock showring, 136 lots crossed the auction block. All animals were 4-H or FFA market production projects. Seventy-nine buyers from 6 counties successfully purchased animals, contributing to one of the most successful youth livestock sales ever held.

The 1,134-pound Perry County Fair grand champion and 4-H grand champion steer, owned by Bob Lowe of Shermansdale, brought a record price of $2.30/pound. The Limousin-Angus cross was purchased by Fred D. Thebes & Sons, New Bloomfield. The reserve grand champion and FFA champion steer, owned by Amy Byers, Liverpool, was purchased by the Bank of Landisburg for $1.45/pound.

The First National Bank of Newport purchased Scott Byers' reserve champion 4-H steer for $1.05/pound. The FFA reserve champion, owned by Christina Wright of Newport, sold to Juniata Concrete for $.90/pound. The sale average for steers, excluding the champions, was $1.00/pound.

Robert Brunner, Village Square IGA Shermansdale, purchased the grand champion and 4-H grand champion hog owned by Daniel Eicher of Duncannon. The hog sold for $2.60/pound. The reserve grand champion hog and reserve 4-H champion hog, owned by Brian Ebersole also of Duncannon, sold for $2.50/pound to Dale McGuire Insurance. Amy Byers' FFA champion hog sold to Roy Byers for $1.40/pound, while Roberta Jo Cauffman's reserve champion FFA hog sold for $1.10/pouns to Hatfield Packing Co. The average sale price on hogs, excluding the champions, was $1.12/pound.

Bower Electric and Campbell's Sporting Goods teamed up to purchase the FFA grand champion market lamb from Amy Byers for $5.00/pound. Byers also sold a 4-H reserve champion lamb for $1.60/pound to Fred Morrow Real Estate, New Bloomfield. Green Acres Realty, Newport, purchased the 4-H champion market lamb from Erin Benner for $3.20/pound. Heather Benner's FFA reserve champion lamb sold to Wagner's Electric, Elliottsburg, for $1.10/pound. Average market lamb price excluding the champions was $1.33/pound.

4-H Sheep Club

The Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep Club met recently at Moroe Township Building.

Sylvania Negley from the Cumberland County Extension told the group about blue forms.

The club received the new scales that they bought at Keystone. They will be used at Shippensburg and Carlisle fairs.

Amy Jones did a demonstration on her gardening project. Diane Myers did a demonstration on external parasites.

The next meeting will be on September 18 at Dickenson Township Building at 7:30 p.m. All project books are due.

Belleville Livestock Market
Belleville, Pa.

Wed., Sept. 11, 1991 - 1 p.m.

33 Cows • 9 Bred Heifers
• 1 Open Heifer • 1 Bull Calf

These animals come from a fine herd of Registered Holsteins. David and Alice Sefton have done an outstanding job in breeding and milking cattle over the past 50 years. They have used the breed's best sires and it shows. The Seftons have had one of the top producing herds in Butler County for many years.

Harford Dairymen Parade Their Finest

BELAIR, Md. — Harford County dairymen paraded some of their finest animals before judge Dr. James T. McCaffree, Delta, Penna. earlier this month at the 4th Harford County Farm Fair. This year there were 48 4-H entries and 22 open entries.

Ehrhardt Farms, Baldwin, Md. exhibited the Grand Champion Open Holstein. Judge McCaffree praised the openness and Dairyness of the upstanding Walkway Chief Mark 3 yr. old.

Getting the nod for 4-H Grand Champion was Lenny Piepers aged cow. This Leadfield Columbus daughter excelled in her strength and spring and depth of rib.

Junior Champion of both the 4-H and open show went to Harold Smith III's Bridon Astro Jet Sr. Yearling, who showed tremendous height and dairyness.

The Ayrshire show had B.J. Waltimyer with his Senior Yearling, sired by Forever Schoon AJ as the Junior Champion. His 2 yr. old cow out of Blackaddar Milk Machine was Senior Champion and Grand Champion of both the 4-H and open show.

Matt Kaminkow showed the 4-H Senior and Grand Champion with his 2 yr. old out of Janson. Open show Senior and Grand Champion went to Brian and Joan Galbreath with their aged cow bred by Bridgeview Elegant Jade-ET. Junior Champion of the 4-H show went to Christopher Birch's Intermediate Yearling by K Top Acres Dotson-ET. Open Junior Champion was Brian and Joan

CAN PENNSYLVANIA BROILER COMPANIES EXPAND?

Milton E. Madison
Assistant Professor
Agricultural Economics

Pressure to decrease the impact of animal agriculture in southeastern Pennsylvania on the environment and water quality has become a concern for Pennsylvania broiler companies.

Some areas in southeastern Pennsylvania, where broiler production and processing is concentrated, now require approved manure disposal plans before animal production facilities can be constructed. More local and state level restrictions are expected in the future.

The supply of labor for operation of processing plants is also an ongoing concern. Unemployment rates are quite low in that part of the state and broiler firms are in the position of having many of their workers bid away by construction contractors and service companies. This has led to high turnover of workers and pressure to increase wage rates in order to attract and retain the necessary labor force.

These problems are tough enough to face when firms are attempting to maintain production levels. When expansion is considered, these problems seem to make the adjustment process seem nearly impossible.

Nationally, broiler companies are expanding at a rapid pace. The 50 largest broiler companies listed, by Broiler Industry, increased in size between 1987 and 1990 by 18 percent in terms of production of meat. Most Pennsylvania companies have not kept pace with this rapid growth in production. Some companies would like to expand but are finding it difficult in their present locations.

In order to look at the economic implications of expansion of Pennsylvania broiler production outside of the southeastern portion of the state, a network model of movements of broilers from current production locations to processing plants and on to consumption regions was constructed. Transportation distances were measured from geographic centers of counties to existing processing plants and from the plants to the population center of each county for delivery of the final product. Out-of-state points were also defined so that broiler production and processed chicken meat could be brought into the state to satisfy consumption needs. Pennsylvania's broiler processing plants produce enough chicken to supply a little over half of the state's chicken consumption.

A basic model was used, that represented current state production and processing capacities, to establish the base costs for the broiler transportation and processing system. In the basic model all plants were run at 100 percent of capacity and chicken production was brought in from out-of-state to provide for their operation. Processed chicken was assumed to be brought in from out-of-state in order to satisfy the other half of Pennsylvania consumption.

One of the options considered with the model was a reduction of chicken production in Lancaster County. Broiler production in Pennsylvania takes place primarily in 19 counties. Lancaster County's production was reduced by 25 percent in the model, and production in 12 counties north and west of the most concentrated production area was increased by 34 percent, leaving total production the same. This resulted in a slight reduction in total system costs.

Location of a new large processing facility west of the Susquehanna River was also studied. Chicken production in the 12 counties mentioned was doubled from their original level. When these factors were analyzed, total system cost to transport and process chickens was reduced by 5 percent.

It appears from this study that there are opportunities for a broiler company to expand production and processing capacity outside of current production areas without increasing costs to deliver chicken to consumers.

KEEPING TRACK OF THE PASTURE SUPPLY USING AVERAGE HERBAGE COVER

Warren J. Parker
Lawrence D. Muller
Steven L. Fales
Penn State

Variability in pasture growth was ranked the serious limitation of pastures in a November 1990 survey of Pennsylvanian dairymen using or not using pastures.

Under drylot management, the forage for the next weeks' or months' feeding is visible and both the quantity and the quality of the feed can be measured. It is possible, under these conditions, to keep a uniform supply of high quality forage available to the cows throughout the year.

This is not the case under intensive grazing, where the amount and nutritive value of pasture available for grazing changes through the season. Not only is the supply of feed continually changing, but next month's herd requirements are not visible (the pasture is in the process of growing). Clearly there is more risk with the pasture than the drylot management system!

The main factors contributing to the variability of pasture supply are weather conditions, the growth stage of the plant (leafy vs reproductive), and sward composition (especially the proportion of legumes). Pasture management aids are therefore required to maintain an inventory of the feed supply and to estimate how this might change over the next month or so.

Calculating average herbage cover is probably the simplest technique available to farmers for performing these tasks.

The first step in determining average herbage cover is to complete an assessment of pasture mass in each paddock. This should preferably be done once weekly using one of the methods discussed in an earlier article. The effective grazing area of each paddock should be recorded by excluding areas that cannot be grazed (such as woods).

The average herbage cover can then be calculated by summing the amount of herbage in each paddock and dividing this value by the effective grazing area, as outlined in Table 1. Average herbage cover represents the amount of pasture growth remaining on the paddocks after animal consumption, removal of herbage for hay or silage, and losses through decay.

Table 1 Procedure for calculating average herbage cover for a farm with five paddocks and an effective grazing area of 90 acres.

If the previous pasture assessment 14 days earlier on August 1 had been 2,100 pounds DM/a, the supply of herbage has increased by an average of 267 pounds DM/a or 24,030 pounds DM over the effective grazing area.

Another way of expressing this is to say that herbage growth exceeded the amount of herbage eaten by livestock and losses of herbage through decay by 19 pounds DM/day (267 pounds DMa/14 days).

In addition to showing how the quantity of feed is changing through time, average herbage cover can be used to evaluate the current grazing program against target levels of feed supply at particular times of the year. By feed budgeting (see the previous article), a series of monthly pasture cover targets can be estimated.

Actual pasture covers as the season progresses can be compared against the respective monthly targets and also against the records of previous years. Figure 1 shows an example for the 1991 season.

Paddock #	Area (acres)		Herbage mass	Total herbage
	Total	Effective	(lb DM/a)	(lb DM)
1	20	20	2200	44000
2	30	30	3000	90000
3	10	10	1500	15000
4	25	22	2000	44000
5	10	8	2500	20000
	100	90		213000

Average herbage cover = 213000/90

This shows that potential shortfalls in feed supply could have been predicted by mid-May, before the dry conditions became serious during June. Although the management options in a drought, such as that experienced this year are limited (see June 21 article), it is important to know the magnitude of the shortfall in pasture growth and to devise the least expensive strategy to compensate for this.

The management response to herbage cover information will depend upon relative feed prices and expected weather conditions. The critical factor is that the farmer who routinely measures herbage cover creates more time to put a corrective grazing (or other) plan in place to minimize feed costs.

Increasing the length of the planning period is one of the most effective management strategies for reducing the risk associated with variable pasture growth rates. In practice, however, many farmers abandon planning when there are high levels of variability because some believe it is "impossible" to estimate the outcome with any degree of accuracy.

This suggests that planning only works for these farms where there is no or low variability! By regularly updating grazing plans with new average herbage cover information obtained each week, and by continuing to assess the impact that these levels of herbage cover could have in 2-3 months' time, you are in a much better position to make good pasture management decisions than the neighbor who has no record of the pasture feed supply.

The greater element of risk associated with pasture grazing compared to drylot feeding will not be eliminated but it can be managed.

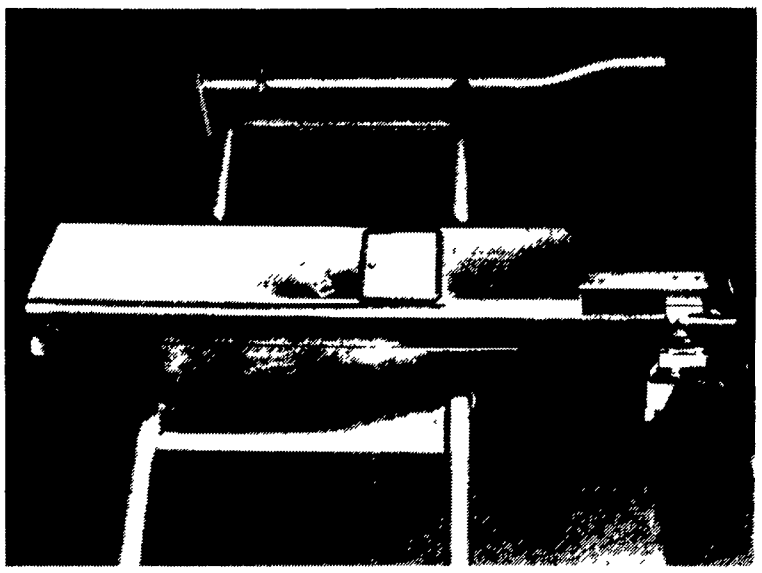
Milk Meter Has Arm Takeoff



ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — The DHIA- and USDA-approved Metatron milk meter from Westfalia Systemat, is now included in a deluxe arm takeoff.

The stainless steel arm works in any 44" or 45" herringbone parlor. In addition to providing automatic takeoff and milker support, the Metatron provides at cowside information as to total milk produced, milk flow rate, milking time and totalized milk yield.

When connected to a PC with the Dairy Plan Software, the operator can be alerted cowside to specialized cow needs, i.e. DO NOT MILK, Discard milk, Off Milk, Check for heat, etc. Another option to be used with the Metatron and P.C. is the portal I.D. to identify cows coming into the parlor by stall.

The Metatron arm can also be used with the Stimopuls which provides premilking stimulation. This assures maximum oxytocin blood serum concentration for a rapid and complete milk let-down and milk-out.

The Metatron Arm is the most deluxe, high-tech armed takeoff now available. It has the further capability of being updated to keep up with today's changing dairy environment.

For additional information, contact Westfalia Systemat, 1862 Brummel Drive, Elk Grove Village, IL 60007

Bank Promotes Troutman

Jeffrey A. Troutman

LANCASTER, (Lancaster Co.) — Jeffrey A. Troutman has been promoted to vice president in Hamilton Bank's agri-finance department.

A Millerstown resident, Troutman joined the bank in 1986. He was previously employed as a county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration for five years.

Troutman holds a bachelor of science degree in agricultural business management from Penn State and is a graduate of the Central Atlantic School of Banking at Bucknell University.

Troutman is a member of the York County Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Committee, chairman of the annual Pennsylvania Agricultural Bankers Conference, and he is active with the Pennsylvania Agricultural Literacy Foundation.

Ag Business Meets With Legislators

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Marty Campfield of R/K Agri-Service, Inc. in Lancaster recently met with federal lawmakers during a national meeting of fertilizer and agricultural chemical retail dealers. Campfield was among 300 dealers who attended the Agri-Dealer Legislative Conference. Delegates to the conference met with dealers from 40 other states and visited with their legislators concerning issues important to the fertilizer and agricultural chemical industry.

Among the issues the dealers discussed were the steps they are taking to ensure that the fertilizer and crop protection products they sell are being used in an environmentally responsible manner.

Landis Bros. Holds Combine Clinic

A combine clinic to help farmers get the most out of their harvesting equipment was held at the Landis Bros., Inc. John Deere dealership in Lancaster last week.

Mike Asche, combine specialist, said farmers put a lot of money into the machines, and it only makes sense that they would want to learn how to get the most out of them. The preseason clinic was held to help farmers make adjustments that will help keep the combines going through corn harvest.

Attendees saw the new 9500 side hill combine. In addition, five new tractors were introduced and a safety clinic was held. Jerry Thomas, territory manager, said the John Deere company has three major emphases this year: customer satisfaction, value in the farm equipment, and safety for the customer. Don White, company mechanic, was also part of the program.

The dealership owners are Herb Noll, Phil Wimer, and Mark Weaver. Shop foreman is Charley Miller and other combine specialists are Elvin Nolt, Bob Newcomer, John Balmer, and Kevin Mummau.

The DeLaval Oasis Energy-Free Waterer provides a total system approach to water conditioning and dispensing.

System Simplifies Water Management

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A total system approach to water conditioning and dispensing is now available from DeLaval, a Kansas City-based dairy equipment supply company.

According to Bob Snow, marketing manager for DeLaval, a total system approach enables the dairyman to better manage his water supply. And the better he's able to manage water, the more profitable he's able to become.

"Water is vital when it comes to keeping production at its highest level," said Snow. "After all, it's necessary for rumen activity and nutrient transfer. It also helps control the temperature rise that occurs when top-producing cows metabolize large amounts of feed ingredients.

"The proper water management system can provide the cows with the clean water they need for optimum production. Further, it can reduce the amount of water needed to keep the dairy clean, while extending the operating life of water fixtures and other equipment," he said.

"The proper water management system gives the dairyman more control. And the bottom line is, the more control the dairyman has over the conditioning and dispensing of water, the more control he has over his production levels — and his profits."

The DeLaval water management system consists of high-quality water conditioners, filters and dispensers. They're all designed to work together to provide herds with a reliable year-round supply of clean, cool water.

The following is a partial listing of the DeLaval water management system's elements:

• Pure 'n' Simple Water Conditioning System. Whether water comes from a well or the local water district, there's a good chance it's costing more than it should. Hard water can create bacteria-harboring deposits in plumbing, and can shorten the life of fixtures and other equipment that comes in contact with or requires the use of water. Plus, it takes more hard water and detergent to keep the dairy clean.

DeLaval's Pure 'n' Simple Water Conditioning System not only softens water, it conditions it to meet individual needs. It can generally save enough in component replacements and water costs to pay for itself in three to six years.

The Pure 'n' Simple Water Conditioner is a low-maintenance system, averaging seven years of consistent performance before servicing. The water conditioners are fully automatic, commercial-duty machines designed to make optimum use of space and resources. They feature a solid brass control valve with nickel-chrome plating and a corrosion-proof tank. They also have an evictor system to keep air and gases from entering the plumbing system and to clean out the brine system for optimum regeneration efficiency.

The media tank on the conditioner can be filled with one of three media — red, blue, or white mineral — depending on current water conditions.

The conditioning system also includes gravel-based media support to ensure the media works at full capacity, providing steady water flow and minimal pressure drops.

• Premier Waterer. Complete with a full one-year warranty, the all-stainless Premier Waterer is designed to hold the cool, fresh water cows need for optimum production year-round. It has an exclusive valve and heat-pipe assembly design to end costly valve freeze-ups. Heavy styrofoam insulation keeps water ice-free in the winter and cool in the summer.

Available in two models to accommodate different herd sizes, the Premier Waterer also features 16-gauge cabinets; a highly reliable heater element; a large, heavy-duty service door; and easy access for maintenance.

• Oasis Energy-Free Waterer. Installing insulated, energy-free waterers — such as the Oasis Waterer — is a great way to dramatically cut energy costs in any dairy operation.

The Oasis Energy-Free Waterer has a super-insulated design that eliminates electrical heating and cooling elements and prevents rust and corrosion. It will provide a supply of cool, fresh water even in extreme temperatures. In fact, when used by just four or five cows, the water is kept free of ice, even in the coldest conditions.

Manufactured of high-density polyethylene, Oasis Waterers have a clean, efficient design that includes a peaked roof to reduce the buildup of manure, ice, animal hair and bacteria on the lid. A patented trap door closure utilizes a hidden seal under the lid to make the door easy for cows to operate in cold weather and to prevent algae growth in the container.

• Water Bowls. DeLaval's Macro and Della-Matic water bowls are another way to provide herds with the clean, fresh water needed for optimum production. Both are coated with a high-quality enamel to eliminate bacteria and make clean-ups as easy as possible. In addition, both feature the finest valves available on the market today. These durable valves are designed to operate with little pressure, making it easy for cows to get water. Plus, the valves function with as few moving parts as possible to assure trouble-free service. The Macro Water Bowl has a patented design with a unique water flow that minimizes splashing. It also holds nearly twice the volume of most water bowls on the market and comes complete with a paddle valve and nose plate.

Complete water management systems are currently available through independent DeLaval dealers nationwide. DeLaval has been the total source supplier to the dairy industry for over a century.

With no charge or obligation, DeLaval dealers will also provide a free water analysis and evaluation of a dairy's water supply and conditioning needs.

And they'll design the water management system that will give the dairyman as much control as possible over his water and his operating costs.

Cleaner Combustion Achieves Greater Torque, Fuel Economy

DES MOINES, Iowa — The MF 399 tractor with the new Perkins 1000 Series Quadram Power 95 PTO horsepower diesel engine is the ideal all-purpose tractor. Available in both two and four-wheel drive models, it has the power to handle field work and the maneuverability and smaller overall size to be useful in feedlots and around the farm.

The 95 h.p. Quadram power engine features a new design compustion chamber and piston head that achieves more complete air/fuel mixing for economical, powerful, and cleaner combustion. The result is improved fuel economy, increased torque, longer life, and quieter operation.

A 12-speed Synchromesh transmission is simple in design and rugged in construction, providing carefully chosen gear ratios with logical, sequential gear and speed progression.

A new optional four-wheel drive can be manually engaged on-the-go— a real time-saver when you need extra traction to get through slippery spots or up an incline. A 50-degree steering angle gives excellent maneuverability in tight quarters while the front tires keep a full footprint on the ground through a complete turn.

MF 399 all-purpose tractor with new 1000 Series Quadram Power 95 h.p. diesel engine.

A "Hydralock" differential gives total control at all times since it is actuated automatically whenever the real differential lock pedal is engaged. When not engaged, it works like a conventional differential. This avoids the scrubbing and tire wear associated with a "limited slip" type of differential lock.

An optional factory-installed HiLine cab, with air-conditioning and heater, has a dual-level heating and ventilation system, front and rear work lights, and large fenders with easy-access steps.

Top-O-Hill Admiral Tina Is Allentown's Supreme

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Mildred Seeds, well-known owner of Top-O-Hill Farm and Jersey breeder and exhibitor, on Wednesday took home the supreme cow banner of the Allentown Fair by showing her 3-year-old Jersey, "Top-O-Hill Admiral Tina."

Seeds last year won the show's supreme champion bull banner, but this year she didn't show a bull, opting instead to concentrate on showing her female cattle. She brought a pair of 3-year-olds that have been winning a number of titles for her at various shows.

But the win wasn't a walk-away, according to Seeds.

"I feel great, because I was up against a real good Holstein," Seeds said, refering to a Delaware Valley College entry shown by Scott Youse, of Oley.

Judge Steve Neely said he chose the Jersey over the Holstein because "Tina" had a strong fore-udder and better balance over the Holstein. He said the Holstein had a very good rear udder, and it a good cow, but not as correct and dairy as Seeds' Jersey.

"The Jersey had size for her age," Neely said, explaining that in comparison to its own breed, the Holstein could have been larger for its age.

"I think the Jersey could stand up to high competition in its breed," he said, "the Holstein as well."

In fact, Seeds' pair of 3-year-olds have taken the championship at shows at Kimberton, at Cecil County in Maryland, at Schuylkill County, and won titles last year at the Reading Fair.

Now, having added the Allentown supreme title to the winning roll, Seeds said she plans to show the two and her other cattle at shows in York and Reading. She

Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed.)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster said she is not going to show them at the All American Dairy Show in Harrisburg this year, for various reasons.

The Allentown dairy show has fewer participants in recent years, according to Seeds and show officials.

Seeds said she's been showing Jerseys at Allentown for about 30 years and reminisced about how the show used to feature more than 300 head of cattle.

There were fewer than 100 animals Wednesday and some breeds were only represented with one exhibitor — the colored breed shows were represented by entries from one, two and three exhibitors, after scratches. Delaware Valley College had applied to show colored breeds, but only brought Holsteins.

There were 10 exhibitors listed for the Holstein show, but many of those were from the same families.

A dramatic loss of dairy farms in Lehigh County and the surrounding area due to land prices, etc., is blamed for the lack of entries.

Nevertheless, the show continues to feature some top cattle in the various breeds.

The supreme bull was shown by Heidi Miller, of Tamaqua. Several Miller families from Tamaqua had entries in several breeds.

MAXXUM.
Setting new standards for mid-range tractors.

Power, comfort, convenience, durability — no matter how you judge them, MAXXUM tractors are in a class by themselves. You can see it in the way they perform. And in the way your investment is protected with an exclusive 5-year/5000-hour warranty.

The MAXXUM line includes three mid-range tractors designed to deliver the muscle you need to work the field along with the versatility you expect to lift and load around the farm. Choose from 77, 86 and 94 PTO horsepower (57, 64 and 70 kW).

Durable, proven engines power these rugged tractors. You can depend on these diesels to deliver years of trouble-free use. More than 250,000 are in use around the world.

Innovative transmissions are at the heart of every tractor. Optional powershift and creeper transmissions add to the versatility. A standard forward-reverse shuttle shift makes MAXXUM tractors perfect for loader work.

Ask for an on-farm demonstration. Unequalled versatility matched with uncompromised performance. That's what puts MAXXUM tractors in a class by themselves. Ask your dealer to bring one out for an on-farm demonstration, so you can prove it to yourself.

Limousin Forum Set For W. Va.

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Limousin breeders and interested cattlemen in the East will have the opportunity to find out about the latest Limousin progress October 25-26 at the Eastern Leader's Opportunity Regional Limousin Forum in Morgantown, W.Va.

The regional forum is a new educational program designed by the North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) to give breeders a chance to find out about specific programs and to inform breeders about the trait area recommendations made at the historic Leader's Edge Limousin Directions Breeder Symposium last fall.

"Many NALF members across the country have expressed the desire to hear a firsthand account of the Leader's Edge and its recommendations, besides discussing other aspects of purebred beef cattle production," said Dr. Wayne Vanderwert, NALF executive vice president.

Vanderwert and other NALF staff will be at the forum discussing a variety of subjects, including Leader's Edge recommendations, NALF performance programs, marketing purebred cattle, video marketing, herd advertising, registering cattle, and junior involvement.

The conference site will be the Morgantown Holiday Inn. Reservations should be made as early as possible by calling (304) 599-1680 and asking for the Limousin block of rooms.

Cost of the conference is $20 per person for registrations submitted before September 25 and $25 for registration after September 25 or at the door.

For more information about the Leader's Opportunity Forum, contact the North American Limousin Foundation, (303) 220-1693.

Red Lion Club Attends Nationals

YORK (York Co.) — A team of five students representing Red Lion High School, York County, and the state of Pennsylvania travelled to northern Maine for the National Envirothon, held recently.

Nine states Ohio, Indiana, North Carolina, Massachusetts, Maine, Connecticut, Maryland, New York, and Pennsylvania — and one province of Canada, Nova Scotia, competed in the four-day event.

For the fourth straight year, Pennsylvania's entry took home first place honors.

Team members were Eric Jordan, Captain, Colby Mackley, Andrew Rittenhouse, Kyle Bolton, and Laura Cooley. They were accompanied by Coaches Sandra Cooley, and Charles Humberd, and supporters Paul Wilson, the Izaak Walton League, Mark Kimmel, representing the York County Conservation District, and William Cooley, team advisor.

The competition began with orientation and a slide presentation of Maine. The students and advisors were then treated to the first of several tours through the area, which featured aspects of farm best management practices, forestry techniques, wetlands protection and a potato processing plant. Other tours included a trip to the Patten Logging Museum, Salmon Brook Agricultural Museum, and field scouting for the popular, elusive Maine big game favorite, the moose. The event also included a teleconference with a team from Tasmania, Australia.

The competition foremat consisted of three stages. The first segment tested their knowledge of five areas — forestry, wildlife, aquatics, soils, and land use planning, with the teams travelling through the five stations, each station having 100 points possible. Scoring for the first round was an average of the five stations. The Road Kill scored 100 in land use planning, 98 in forestry, 88 in aquatics, 80 in soils and a 70 in wildlife, for an average of 87. The closest competitor was a distant 80.

The top four teams after the second phase advanced to the final stage of the event. The teams advancing were Pennsylvania, Maine, Massachusetts, and Ohio.

The final stage of the competition consisted of repeating the presentation to a new distinguished panel of judges, representing the competition sponsors and agency and private sector experts in the various disciplines. The top four teams were Pennsylvania, Maine, Massachusetts, and Ohio respectively.

Governor's Scholar Returns

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Shelly Ogline returned to Denver recently after spending five weeks at Penn State's University Park Campus for the 1991 Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences.

Ogline, a student at Garden Spot High School, is one of 64 outstanding high school students from the state to be selected from hundreds of applicants for her strong academic credentials and interest in science and technology.

The Governor's School curriculum included classes such as issues in farm animal welfare, animal physiology, nutrition and food science, genetics and economic issues in agriculture. As part of her studies, Ogline also completed an independent study project on testing the strength and durability of cement mixed with hard-wood pulp. Penn State Professor Paul Blankenhorn served as Ogline's mentor for the project.

Ogline and her fellow scholars also had the opportunity to meet agricultural professionals and discuss career opportunities in the agricultural sciences and related industries such as food processing and agricultural communications.

Field trips and special activities held during the Governor's School included visits to Longwood Gardens, Hershey Technical Center, New Bolton Center, and the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds
BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.
ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that
- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

If The Forage You Chop Is Drought-Stressed.... Test It For Nitrates

Drought-stricken fields of corn, sorghum and legumes are most apt to contain harmful levels of nitrate, particularly those that have been heavily fertilized with manure or nitrogen fertilizer.

Excessive levels of nitrates can cause lower production, reproduction problems or even death.

We are a full service testing laboratory. Contact us at our toll-free number 1-800-659-7542 for price list and sample mailers.

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

KUTZTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Out of the nine counties represented at the 46th Annual Southeast 4-H District Dairy Show on August 23 in Kutztown, 98 animals are expected to advance to the upcoming state competitions.

The district show is the middle link in the dairy youths' attempts to take an animal to a state championship. If they receive a blue ribbon from the judge, no matter the placing of the animal within the class, the animal is judged good enough to compete at the next level.

Although there were more ani-

mals receiving blue ribbons at the Kutztown show, the owners of some of the animals had already decided against taking certain animals to the state competition. And even of those 98, it can be expected that some animals may not make it to the Farm Show complex for the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, set for Sept. 23.

Youth from Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill counties brought 202 dairy cattle to the Kutztown Fairgrounds.

Judging the Holstein classes was Jed Beshore, a Holstein breeder from New Cumberland, while Jerry Myers, an agricultural extension agent from Harford County, Maryland, judged the colored breeds.

There were 106 Holsteins, 21 Ayrshires, 12 Brown Swiss, 13 Guernseys, 47 Jerseys and three Milking Shorthorns presented for judging.

Also being judged were the youth themselves, with master fitter and, or, master showman awards being presented. The fitting and showmanship judge for the colored breeds was Sue Beshore. In the Holstein ring was Don Welk Jr., a Holstein breeder from Strasburg judging showmanship and Larry Swartz, from Atlantic Breeders Cooperative judging the fitting.

Mifflin Summer Classic Sale

Mifflin County's Summer Classic Sale of Registered Holsteins was held at the Mifflin County Youth Park in Reedsville. The well-attended sale was sponsored by the Mifflin County Holstein Club and the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. The highest selling animal, a bred heifer, Kish-View Levi Robin-ET, shown in the sale ring, was consigned by David Spicher of Belleville. The price was $2,700.

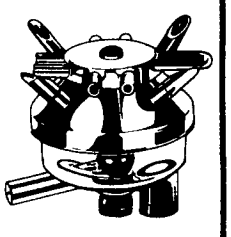
CLAW YOUR WAY TO THE TOP



If you want to get more milk out of your top producers, get the Super Flo-Vu™ Claw from De Laval. It's specially designed for cows with large udders and high flow rates.

With the Super Flo-Vu™ Claw, you get a larger valve, larger milk inlets and outlets, and air nipples for faster, gentler milking. The unit is made for easy cleaning and sanitizing, and can be used with all De Laval milkers, as well as many competitive models.

The Super Flo-Vu™ Claw contains an automatic shut-off valve, which prevents contaminants from being drawn into the milking system, as well as vacuum fluctuations if the unit is kicked off. And its air valve provides optimum air flow to speed milk to your pipeline or bucket.

Don't let the milking claw you're using limit your production. Get the Super Flo-Vu™ Claw from your De Laval dealer, and "claw your way to the top."

East Central Classic Holstein Sale Has $2,500 Top

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — The third annual East Central Classic Sale was held at the Lycoming County Fairgrounds in Hughesville. The warm summer evening brought in many apprehensive consigners and eager buyers. The 55 lots selling allowed for a variety of different needs and tastes of everyone to be met. A large group of milky cows headed the list of registered and several sharp grade Holsteins. Next came a good selection of dry cows and bred heifers. Lastly, but not least the calves and embryos, they were few in number but good in quality and seemed to spark interest in the buyers, especially those with the show ring in mind.

The quality and quantity of the animals was very good. The top animal selling for $2,500 was Castle High-Two Panda Bear, consigned by Lester Poust, Muncy and purchased by Schon-Crest Farms, Williamsport and Ralph DeVillars, Muncy. The second high animal selling for $2,150 was Shul-Bro Chairman Trudy, consigned by Shultz Brothers, Bloomsburg and purchased by Paul Bower, Hughesville. The third high animal selling for $2,000 was Solanco-Acres Chairman Jenell, consigned by Stonehurst Farm, Strasburg. The fourth high animal selling for $1600 was Ritter-Ridge Maveric Megan consigned by Paul Ritter, Muncy and purchased by Anna Mae Bower, Hughesville.

The sale was held again this year by Gordon Wood, Mansfield and the Lycoming, Columbia and Luzerne County Holstein Clubs. The sale chairman was Steven Neff, Lycoming County, selections chairman Ralph Sands, Luzerne County. The Lycoming County Dairy Princess Shannon Peterman was present and welcomed everyone and encouraged them to continue using dairy products. Several local businesses donated feed for the sale, they are Agway, Williamsport, and L & K Mills, Benton. The sale committee would like to thank these businesses for supporting our sale as well as the buyers, consigners. The sale average was $1246 overall, this was up from last years average. They look forward to an even bigger, better sale with a higher average next year.

STORING UP ADDITIONAL CORN SILAGE IS GOOD BUSINESS IN A DROUGHT YEAR

There are three good reasons for dairy producers and livestock farmers to store up more corn silage than normal in a drought year like this one, and only one pitfall.

So says Richard A. Erdman, professor of animal sciences at the University of Maryland College Park. Erdman is nationally known for his research work in dairy nutrition and feeding.

Contrary to popular belief, Erdman said, silage made from drought-stressed corn has feed value that is at least equivalent to the feed value of corn produced during a normal growing season.

And, with good-quality alfalfa hay now selling at more than $160 per ton, corn silage is much cheaper than hay. Erdman urges livestock farmers to buy standing drought-damaged corn from their neighbors as soon as possible, if they don't think they'll have enough feed to last through next spring.

Standing corn in the field probably can be purchased for $20 per ton. This would be the equivalent of paying only $60 to $80 per ton for alfalfa hay, Erdman said.

A third reason for storing up extra corn silage now comes from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Stabilization and Conservation Service. James C. Richardson, state ASCS director in Maryland, reports that federal regulations have been changed regarding farmer eligibility for possible drought disaster payments.

In the past, farmers who stored up extra feed in early fall were penalized by not receiving as much drought disaster financial assistance as farmers who had not stored up extra feed. This is no longer true, according to a memo sent re- cently to county ASCS offices.

Richardson now says that farmers who store up extra feed will not be penalized, as long as they can show a verifiable receipt proving that they purchased the extra feed from another farmer.

Nitrate poisoning is the one pitfall to feeding drought-damaged corn, Erdman said. But this hazard can be overcome by careful management.

Three to four weeks after ensiling, the fermentation process should have reduced nitrate levels by nearly one-half. But proper moisture levels are necessary to make sure that adequate fermentation occurs. The optimum moisture level is 65 percent. Oxygen-limiting silos, however, work best at 60 percent; bunkers at 68 to 70 percent.

At the proper moisture level for silage, corn ears should have the milk line (dark area) about halfway down each kernel. In severely drought-stricken fields where no kernels have formed on the ears, dried leaves may not be an accurate indicator of moisture in the stalks. Instead, try one of these methods:

- For precise measurements, use a silage moisture tester. You probably can order one through a local farm supply store in a range of $200 to $300. Those at the high end of the price range provide digital readouts. Grain moisture testers are not adequate for the job.
- For an estimate of silage moisture, try drying out a silage sample in your family's microwave oven. This method requires an accurate scale for weighing the sample before and after microwaving.

For more information on ensiling drought-stressed corn, check with your county office of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland System. Ask for Fact Sheets 433 and 483. Single copies are free to Maryland residents.

NFU Says Congress Can Stop Mounting Farm Problems

DENVER, Colo.— The National Farmers Union is urging members of Congress to reexamine federal farm policies to stave off a new round of farm foreclosures the group says is imminent.

NFU President Leland Swenson said Congress "has an opportunity to take action" to turn around low farm prices, particularly where dairy farmers are concerned.

Congress is currently debating an inventory-management program for dairy aimed at stabilizing dairy product supplies and prices. NFU says such a program is needed given the fact that wholesale milk prices have plummeted by more than 30 percent since the 1990 farm bill was passed last fall, causing producers to liquidate herds or face bankruptcy.

NFU members say their economic situation is fast becoming perilous. One group of dairy producers in Missouri invited President Bush to meet with them during a July 4th visit to the state. "Mr. President, there is something wrong when the people who produce food for the rest of this country cannot pay their bills and sometimes cannot even affort to feed their own families decently," the group's invitation stated.

The U.S. Department of Agriculutre projects that net farm income for 1991 will be down $2 billion from last year. Now, the possibility of a new farm crisis is getting more attention.

An article in the July 1 "Wall Street Journal" indicates that farm crisis hotline workers are receiving from two or three times as many calls as last year. The article said that many Iowa farmers calling hotlines are considering bankruptcy.

"We're facing another major crisis in farming," said Swenson, "but, it's preventable if Congress and the administration will put a sound program in place starting with dairy policy."

NFU has proposed a "two-tier" supply-management program for dairy which would provide farmers a disincentive for overproducing, thus keeping supplies at levels that don't overrun demand. NUF's proposal insists that for a supply management program to work, import levels must be scrutinized and it must include a support price that allows producers to recover their cost of production from the marketplace. A dairy bill moving through Congress now contains a support price of $12.60 per hundredweight, a level NFU officials say is roughly a dollar below most farmers' cost of production.

"A dairy program can be structured that raise producer income, keeps consumer prices reasonable, and saves the government money. The pressure is on Congress to do the right thing," Swenson said.

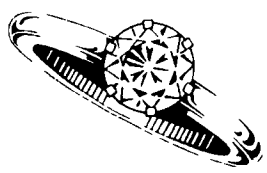
DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT RING

Priced For The Working Man



I have many young men walk into my store to buy a diamond engagement ring knowing nothing about diamonds. The first thing I do for them is explain the four factors that determine a diamond's value, what we call the 4 C's. After that, I explain how they can get the largest diamond they can afford and still have a quality ring. Because of the many young men who have been very grateful for this service, I am now offering you a diamond engagement ring through Lancaster Farming.

The four factors that determine a diamond's value are color, clarity, cut, and carat. Color refers to the yellowish tint present in almost all diamonds and is measured on a scale of 23 increments. The value is highest for diamonds with no tint and decreases as the amount of yellowish tint increases. A diamond's clarity grade is based on its internal inclusions. Clarity is graded on a scale of 11 increments with the value decreasing as the size and/or quality of inclusions increases. Cut refers to the external shape of a diamond. The object is to shape the stone so as to maximize the amount of light that is reflected out the top of the stone, thus increasing the diamond's beauty. Carat is a unit of weight used to measure the size of diamonds. Obviously, as the weight increases, the value also increases.

Your diamond engagement ring will be the largest you can get for your money because of the nature of color and clarity. Of the 11 clarity grades only the lowest three have inclusions large and numerous enough to be seen with the naked eye and to be considered harmful to the durability of the stone. Since your diamond falls in the 7th or 8th grades your price is dropped considerably, but you still have a beautiful, durable diamond. Of the 23 color grades the top 8 appear colorless to the naked eye; therefore, your diamond, which is around the 6th color grade, will appear colorless, but will not be as expensive as a truly colorless diamond would be.

To receive your diamond engagement ring, read and complete the coupon, and send it with your payment to:

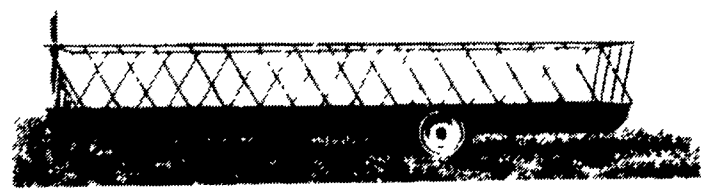
FEEDER WAGONS
16', 21' and 27' lengths
Available with hopper, dolly wheels or self-locking head gates.



A Great Feature for feeding cattle in meadows or in feed lots. These wagons can be used to feed round hay bales, square bales or silage out of ag bags or silos, etc. The added feature of having the headlocks make it nice for quick vet checks, etc.

16' has 20 headlocks 27' has 32 headlocks
21' has 26 headlocks

- Feeder bottoms constructed of ¼ " metal, are sandblasted to remove rust and lead.
- Hitch can be swung in upward position when not being towed.

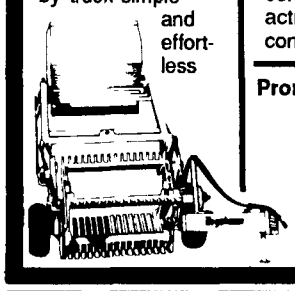
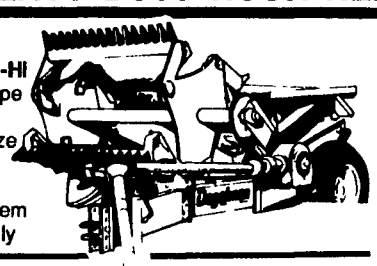
ROCK PICKERS

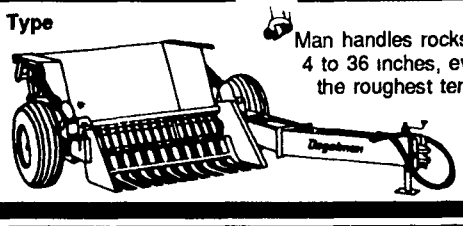
Hi-Lift
The Hi-Lift makes field piling and the removal of rocks by truck simple and effortless



Semi-HI
A hardworking reel type picker ideal for field piling. Picks gravel-size stones to boulders in continuous picking action, then dumps them conveniently and easily

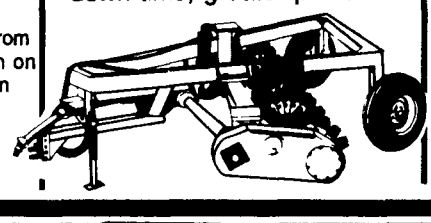


Prong Type
Man handles rocks from 4 to 36 inches, even on the roughest terrain



ROCK RAKE

The Degelman Rock Rake is designed to windrow small to medium sized rocks and other ground debris for easy picking. Rock-free fields mean less down-time, greater profits.



TIME IS MONEY

and when your equipment is down, it costs you plenty. That's why Degelman engineered farm implements are a wise investment

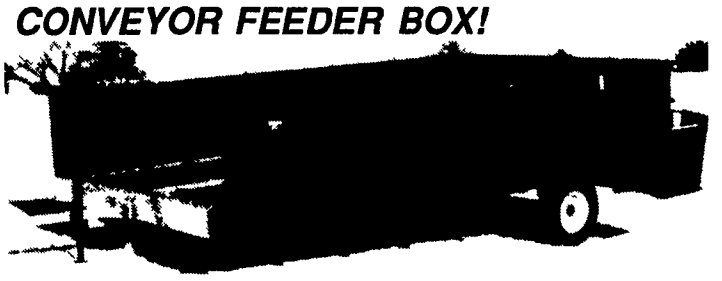
When Your Truck Reaches The Blower, Just Back Into Your RICHARDTON Conveyor Box, Dump Your Load And Race Away For The Next!

LOOK AT THIS ALL NEW STATIONARY CONVEYOR FEEDER BOX!



BIG CAPACITY: 10'x16'x32" stationary feeder holds 425 cubic feet or 340 bushels allowing your truck to return to the field for another load. The Richardton Model SF16 Stationary Feeder automatically and evenly feeds into the blower.

HYDRAULICALLY DRIVEN: For smooth trouble free operation. Two hydraulic control valves allow operator to run floor apron independently of cross conveyor and beaters.

EASY TO MOVE: Equipped with two-wheel axle, center hitch and jack. Hitch may be left on when feeder is in use.

Box Construction:
10' x 16' with 32" sides, 14 gauge steel sides, 3/4" plywood resin coated fiber overlay floor

Cross Conveyor:
22" wide, D662 pintle chain, variable hydraulic speed control, 34" long fold up extension adjusts up to 37" high

Hydraulic Requirements:
Approximately 13 GPM at 1750 PSI

Apron:
D667H pintle chain assemblies

Beaters:
Dual spiral type

Reversible Conveyor:
Delivery can be converted to the opposite side

MAGNUM IS SUPERIOR FOR MANY REASONS

Call 717-626-4705 And Spec. Your Tractor NOW!

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505 cubic inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM tractor's powershift puts 18-speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 2.1 mph... for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area... virtually unobstructed visibility. . more room... and more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: Case IH MAGNUM tractors are setting new standards for the 130-195 PTO hp power range and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.

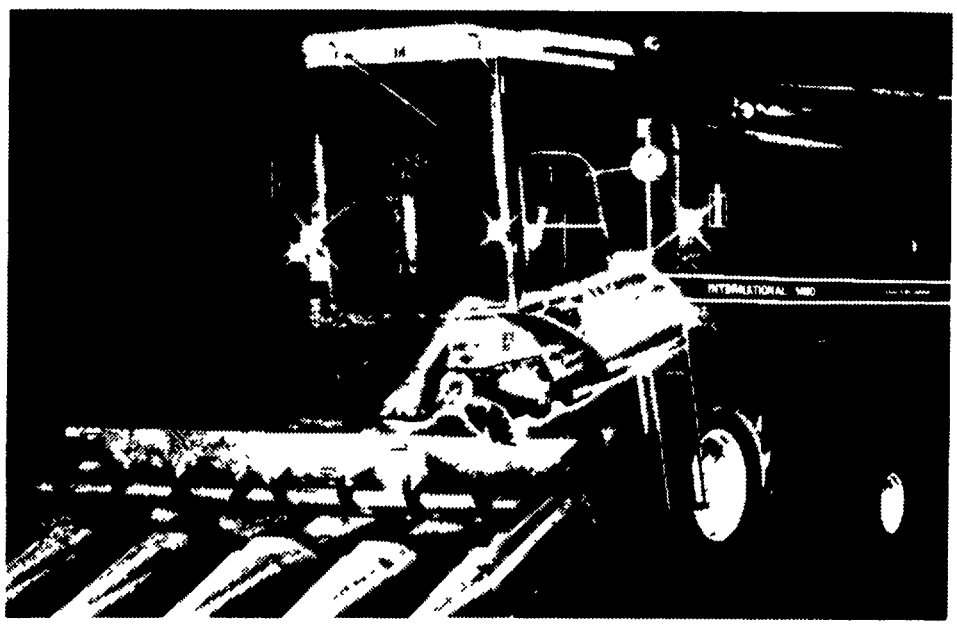
YOU DON'T NEED TO BE A MATHEMATICIAN TO LEARN THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES. YOU ONLY NEED TO TRY ONE.

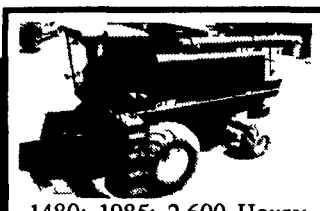


1st LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

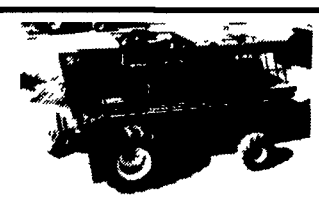
TWELVE (12) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO (≠) WORN OUT

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

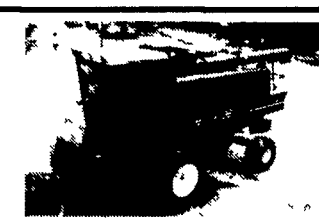
2nd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES



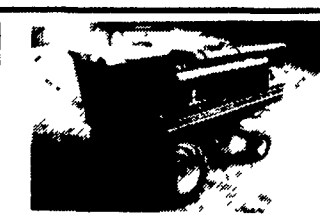
1480; 1985; 2,600 Hours; 30.5x32 & 18.4x16.1 Tires; Electro Hydraulic Auto Header; Reel to Ground; Grain Loss Monitor; Specialty Rotor; Feeder Reverser (U6212)



IH 1460 Combine 1979 Yr., 3189 Hrs; 30.5x32 & 18.4x16 Tires; G.L. Monitor; Field Ready (U4744)



1460, 1981; 3,500 Hours; Electro Hydraulic Auto Header Control; Feeder Reverser (U5801)



IH 1440 Combine, 1980 Yr., 2760 Hrs., 28Lx26 Tires, Hydro Trans., Auto Hrd. Control, Rebuil. (U4817)

3rd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

3,500 HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE

3,500 hours on a conventional combine usually means too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 3,500 hours reconditioned by Hoober's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

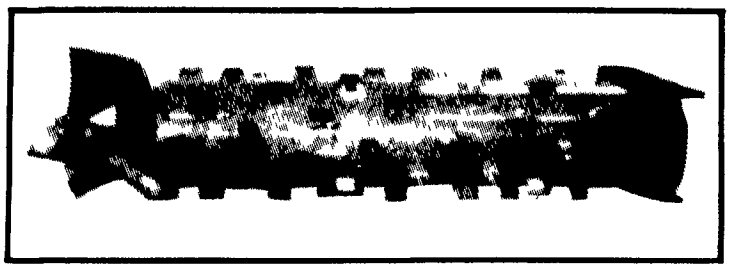
THE AXIAL FLOW SYSTEM PUTS CLEAN, QUALITY GRAIN IN THE TANK...

The Case International XPE Axial-flow Combines feature a single, in-line mounted rotor that gets multiple chances to gently thresh your crop, and then separate it from straw, stalks, pods, and trash. So more of the crop gets harvested, with less damage.



THE ROTOR GENTLY THRESHES SEPARATES AND FEEDS THE CROP FOR EXTRAORDINARY RESULTS IN THE TANK.

Threshing and separating in a conventional combine takes as many as 16 moving parts. But threshing and separating in the Axial-Flow Combine utilizes just one moving part-- the rotor. It simply does a better job.

Although the Axial-Flow combine is built around the extraordinary performance strengths of the rotor, from header to straw spreader there are no weak links.

Hoober's professional combine servicemen have 14 years experience setting axial flow combines in a large variety of crops in most all types of field and weather conditions. When it comes to the KNOW-HOW of making the Axial-Flow combine perform, Hoober men know how.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

- ★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
- ★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
- ★ Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 ry. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and caries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00

NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200.00

JOHN DEERE

MAXIMIZER™ COMBINES DELIVER ON THEIR PROMISE. EVEN WHEN CONDITIONS AREN'T PROMISING

"Bigger capacity. Cleaner grain and more of it." That's what new-technology Maximizer combines promise. And they deliver in all harvest conditions—good, bad and indifferent.

Threshing capacity is thorough and gentle with a larger slower-speed cylinder and large concave area. Samples are cleaner, thanks to the Quadra-Flo™ system with its precleaner, four high velocity fans, chaffer and sieve.

Stop in. You'll see that the total feature combination, along with traditional John Deere reliability and dealer service, gives you more reason than ever to go Maximizer. That's a promise.

IN STOCK, READY TO GO! A MAXIMIZER WITH THE HORSEPOWER YOU NEED.

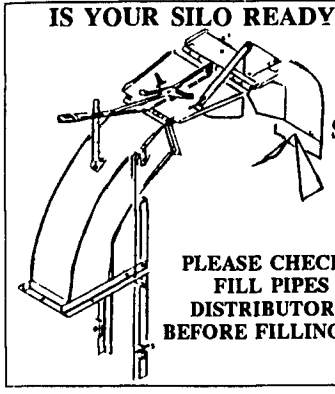
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

PURINA FIRST...

A COMPANY ON THE GROW

PURINA BEEF CATTLE RESEARCH ACCOMPLISHMENTS

1946 Fitting Rations for Show Steers - Experimental work for testing the efficiency and results with various rations for show steers was started at Gray Summit in 1946. This was the only controlled experimental work of this kind conducted to guide the 4-H and FFA Club boys and girls in choosing the best ration to produce top show ring results.

1960 Rolled Barley plus Special Steer Fatena - The first experiments to prove that rolled barley could be used as both a source of roughage and grain were conducted by Ralston Purina.

1962 Steer Fatena BIR - The first product on the market combining roughage and protein into a checker. This product was to be mixed by the cattle feeder with his grain in finishing cattle for market.

1969 Ralgro Implants - Implanting fall calves with Ralgro implants increased the actual weaning weight by 20 lbs.

1970 Range Breeder Checkers II - One of the first 20% protein range cubes fed containing non-protein-nitrogen that would provide equal results with an all-natural protein supplement when fed to brood cows on winter range.

1971 Accuration LTD - A 20% protein supplement for beef cows containing a group of patented intake limiting ingredients which allows it to be fed free choice.

1972 Accuration Grass Stretcher - A self-limiting dry ration that is fed to cattle on grass that will increase the average daily gain by 40% and the carrying capacity of the grass by 33%.

1974 Protein Withdrawal in Finishing Rations - Purina research studies clearly pointed out the need for adequate protein in the diet of a finishing steer. A deficiency due to withdrawal reduced daily gain, feed intake and feed efficiency and increased the cost of grain.

1977 Sup-R-Lix Breeder 32 and Sup-R-Lix Feedlot 32 and 40 - The first thixotropic, suspension, fat-containing homogenized liquid supplement in the marketplace that would equal or out perform an excellent dry supplement.

1979 Accuration with RPHAF - Reformulated Accuration products with a new, patented ingredient that would control intake in brood cows and younger cattle being fed on grass.

1980 Special Feedlot 40 - New Finishing supplement for feedlot cattle designed to flow freely out of storage bins while at the same time providing excellent performance.

1984 Cornstalks as New Roughage Source - Implemented the use of cornstalks as the sole roughage at the Henderson Plant.

PURINA DAIRY RESEARCH ACCOMPLISHMENTS

1938 Powell's work first documented the effect of roughage particle size on milk fat test. This stimulated world-wide interest and reasearch in this area.

1940's First to discover that hay feeding to calves in the first two months of life was detrimental to average daily gains, feed efficiency and increased digestive upsets.

1953 First to develop a dry starting ration (Calf Startena) for young calves and introduce the early-weaning (4 week) concept.

1964 First in developing a complete Built-In-Roughage product for lactating dairy cows.

1966 First to develop and introduce an "instant" mixing process in the manufacture of milk replacers.

1968 Purina was first to establish a successful, large commercial dairy operation in Arkavalley and to provide large-herd-management answers to such problems as heat stress, reproductive efficiency, cow feeding and grouping, health problems, waste disposal, etc.

1970 First feed company to recognize the energy contribution of soybean hulls in complete milking Chows and to commercially exploit their use.

1971 First to develop and successfully market a very high energy complete milking ration (Test Cow) with added animal fat.

1974-6 First to determine the nature of intake problems when excessive urea is fed to lactating cows - published in 1982 in Journal of Dairy Science.

1980 Introduced Milk Generator Line of completes utilizing the total Nutritional Indexing (TNI) system.

1980 First to quantify eating rate differences due to form of ration fed to lactating cows - published in 1981 Journal of Dairy Science.

1981 Introduced butterfat enhancing completes (Milk Generators 1002 BF and 1058 BF) utilizing a combination of buffers and fiber sources.

1983 Introduced a weather proof block for supplementing dry cows and heifers.

1984 Introduced a weather proof block for challenging feeding lactating cows.
